Brownell Resigns; Rogers Is Tagged

WASHINGTON (AP) — The choice of William P. Rogers to replace Herbert Brownell Jr. as attorney general apparently will bring no change in the Eisenhower administration's civil rights policies.

Brownell resigned Wednesday after more than 4½ years as the government's top legal officer. President Eisenhower accepted the resignation with "very deep regret," and praised Brownell for "a highly significant contribution that you have made in the nation's service."

Saying he plans to return to private law practice, Brownell disclaimed any ambitions for political office and asserted his intention to "stay in private life."

The White House announced that Rogers, deputy attorney general throughout Brownell's tenure, will be named to head the Justice Department. He is expected to take over in about two weeks, but his nomination is subject to Senate confirmation.

Rogers, a close friend and adviser of Vice President Nixon, has been as strong an advocate of civil rights legislation as has Brownell.

• • •

WHEN ASKED whether "the Brownell policy will be the Rogers policy," Rogers replied: "We have worked together for 4½ years, and have gotten along exceptionally well. Any differences we may have had have been very minor. In all major matters, we have seen eye to eye."

Brownell has drawn the fire of many Southerners, who blame him for having played a major role in Eisenhower's decision to use federal troops to enforce racial integration at Central High School in Little Rock, Ark.

Paper Late? Patience! Flu Here, Too!

After all, carrier boys are only human.

And being so, they, too, are susceptible to the flu bug.

And that may explain why your paper is late.

Record-Herald Circulation Manager Mike Arnold reports that at least six of his carrier boys have been bitten by the bug. It's a pretty big job keeping up with the back work, Arnold says.

Ill yesterday were carriers John Mickle, Steve Rettig, Bill Hains, Bert Lindsey and Bucky and Sonny Yahn.

Arnold himself carried three routes Wednesday. Lindsey's father, Harold, carried his son's route and other help came from Don Coulter and Tommy Rodenfels.

With the extra work, some deliveries aren't being made until 7 or 7:30 p. m., Arnold notes.

Phone calls at the office from people who haven't received their papers are still being accepted until as late as 6 p. m., he added.

Flu Still Riddling School Attendance

Flu continues its romp throughout the county school system. Absenteeism continued to rise today and one additional school, Olive, was ordered closed Wednesday afternoon when absenteeism rose from 23.4 per cent at the morning attendance check to 41 per cent by the time school was dismissed at 3:30 p. m.

Absenteeism, presumed to be caused by flu, doubled at the New Martinsburg school Thursday. Nine per cent were absent yesterday, but Thursday morning's count showed 18.9 per cent absent. One teacher also reported ill.

With all city and county schools closed Friday because of the teacher's meeting in Columbus, local school officials were hoping the three-day weekend holiday will improve the situation.

Bookwalter elementary school did not hold classes Thursday due to the closing of the Jeffersonville school. Bookwalter and Jeffersonville use connecting bus lines, and with Jeffersonville closed Bookwalter cancled its classes. Milledgeville and New Holland schools also closed until Monday.

Miami Trace superintendent Walter W. Boyer reported that nine teachers were absent in the schools under his direction.

WASHINGTON C. H. schools showed a slight increase in absences Thursday. A total of 226 elementary students were absent Wednesday, but Thursday's total was 250, according to suerintendent W. A. Smith. Total absenteeism was 21.8 per cent Wednesday, rising to 24.3 per cent Thursday.

Washington High School reported 301 students absent Thursday. Other city schools reported absences as follow: Central, 88; Cherry Hill, 32; Eastside, 50; Rose Avenue, 39 and Sunnyside, 41. Only decrease was from Sunnyside which reported 44 students absent yesterday and 41 out today.

• • •

MOST MIAMI TRACE schools reported more absences today than Wednesday. Wayne had 33 per cent absent today up from 26 per cent yesterday. Three Wayne teachers are ill.

Wilson had 12 per cent absent to-

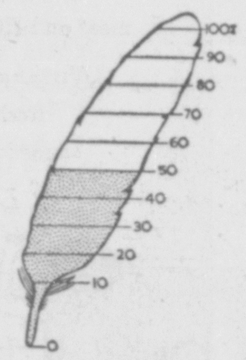
Community Chest Campaign Is Now Half-Way to Goal

The Fayette County Community Chest campaign is now nearly halfway to its goal of $23,500.

After the $876.12 turned in to headquarters at the First Federal Savings and Loan Assn. office Wednesday was banked, the total in the Community Chest was brought to $11,740.57, Perse Harlow, the executive secretary, said Thursday.



Most of the contributions coming in now, Harlow said, are from the residential areas in both city and county. During the first two weeks of the campaign, most of the money came from contributions by businesses, industries and employe groups. This phase of the campaign started Oct. 7, a week before the house-to-house solicitation got under way.

Mrs. George Robinson Jr. is chairman of the residential campaign in Washington C. H., Mrs. Frank Dill is chairman of the canvass in the rural area of the county; Mrs. Elton Elliott heads the campaign in Bloomingburg and Mrs. Thomas Sams the one in Jeffersonville.

Harlow said the business and industry phase of the campaign "is near the end now" and estimated that the canvass among employe groups is "more than half completed."

From now on, he pointed out, "it will just about be up to the house-to-house campaign" if the Chest is filled.

Do You Know Your Candidates?

Flu Moves from Central Ohio Into Southeastern Section

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Influenza has steadily moved from the northwestern part of the state into the central area, leaving countless thousands of sneezing, sniffling victims in its wake.

In all probability, the flu is now ready to invade the eastern and southeastern sections of Ohio.

But almost as though it needed a toehold for the eastward surge, the bug hit again in outhwestern Ohio Wednesday, an area that had been recovering from last week's round of flu.

Absentees in Cincinnati's schools Wednesday numbered 17,880, an increase of 4,356 over Tuesday.

Absenteeism was on the increase, too, in Hamilton, Middletown and Lebanon.

In Youngstown, however, school absenteeism dropped from 30 to 25 per cent.

Doctors predicted weeks ago the flu would start in northwestern Ohio, where cool autumn weather hit first. The illness spread across northern Ohio and down the western side of the state, and next week will probably reach the eastern regions.

• • •

SCORES OF schools in all parts of Ohio have closed, partly because of fear of contagion, and partly because so many teachers are sick.

Pickaway, Lawrence, Scioto, Guernsey, Marion, Crawford, Wyandot and Franklin counties all reported additional schools closing Wednesday. In Columbus (Franklin County), enough substitute teachers were on hand to keep classrooms open.

In Wayne County, high school attendance climbed toward normal Wednesday, but Wooster College and several elementary and junior high schools continued to feel the effects of the flu outbreak. Only 527 absentees were reported by the county's 10 high schools compared with 974 last Friday.

Wooster College officials Tuesday cancelled most of the school's extra-curricular activities and put a three-day ban on academic examinations. There was no estimate of the number of flu cases among the student body.

All Wayne County public schools have remained open throughout the three-week flu outbreak on advice of Dr. L. A. Adair, county health commissioner.

Among the correctional institutions, the Boys' Industrial School at Lancaster reported the only serious outbreak, with 116 of 871 inmates ill. The Girls' Industrial School at Marysville reported five staff members down with flu, but no inmates. London Prison Farm had one flu case, Mansfield Reformatory five and Ohio Penitentiary four.

The number of influenza-related deaths reached 12 Tuesday night with the death of Jesse W. Cutler of Youngstown, whose illness started as flu but developed into bronchial pneumonia.

Report Yank Rocket Reaches 1,000 Miles!

America Claims Major Gains in Missile Weapons

WASHINGTON (AP) The Air Force said today it has made a successful firing of an experimental rocket designed to reach out into space 1,000 miles or more.

And there were unofficial reports that a second apparently successful firing had been made in scientific experiments conducted at Eniwetok Atoll in the Central Pacific.

However, Air Force headquarters here gave no immediate details on the first reported firing. Nor did it confirm reports of a double success in the effort to hurl an object further out into space than any man-made device had gone before.

The reports of the Air Force "Project Farside" rocket shots came as the United States claimed other new gains in science and weaponry to recover some of the prestige lost to Soviet technology in recent weeks.

The United States chalked up these developments Wednesday:

1. Fired a rocket from a balloon floating 100,000 feet above Eniwetok Atoll. The Air Force said it was a success. While technical records of this shot were lacking, the claim that the firing was a success seemed to mean the rocket had shot up not less than 1,000 miles, then came down into the ocean. The original announcement on the project said th eobjective was to launch rockets to an altitude between 1,000 and 4,000 miles.

• • •

A SUCCESSFUL launching would mean it rose to at least 1,000 miles. One officer familiar with the tests said it's possible the rocket may have soared beyond the 4,000-mile goal. Unofficial reports reaching here from the West Coast said a second apparently successful shot was made from another balloon. However, these reports said, automatic metering equipment in the second rocket didn't function properly and that insufficient information was received to determine the rocket's altitude and other data.

Air Force spokesman said concerning the successful shot that there was no reason to believe the rocket went into an orbit like a satellite. They pointed out that the rocket was fired virtually straight up, instead of at an angle parallel to the earth's surface, as is done in satellite launchings.

2. Fired to a 109-mile altitude a prototype of the launching mechanism for the American earth satellite, Vanguard, testing the first stage of a three-stage rocket engine by which it hopes to launch a small test satellite in December and a fully instrumented one by next March.

3. Announced perfection of nuclear depth charges for blasting enemy submarines, saying that these atomic weapons already are aboard some carriers of the Atlantic Fleet. The swiftly expanding Soviet submarine fleet is a source of grave concern to American strategists.

• • •

THESE FOLLOWED closely the third successful test, on Tuesday, of an Army Jupiter intermediate range ballistic missile. The Air Force has fired two successful Thor IRBMs. But to date, the only two attempts at full-scale tests of the Air Force intercontinental ballistic missile have been failures.

Syria Still Refuses Turkish Mediation

LONDON (AP)—The Soviet Union is sending one of its top soldiers, Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky, to command its forces on the Turkish border.

Diplomatic observers in London said the transfer of Rokossovsky, former Soviet proconsul of Poland, was another Russian propaganda move to keep Middle East tension alive and bolster Syria in its cold war with Western-allied Turkey.

Syria Wednesday rejected mediation of the current Middle Eastern crisis by Saudi Arabian King Saud spurring U.S. delegates to the United Nations to press for a broad inquiry into causes of the Syrian-Turkish tension.

The U. N. will debate Friday Syrian charges that Turkey, prodded by the United States, is planning to attack Syria. Turkey and the United States have denied the accusation, counter-charging that Soviet influence in Syria is causing the trouble.

• • •

OFFICIAL CIRCLES in Damascus reportedly felt that Syria would lose through mediation because Turkey might win some conditions in return for withdrawing her troops from the Syrian border.

Syrian officials reported two incidents on the Turkish border.

Two Turkish tobacco smugglers in a band of seven that opened fire on a Syrian border patrol were reported captured. And a Syrian farmer was injured by the explosion of a mine planted along the border by Turkish authorities to curb smuggling.

Trial for Mayor Now in 4th Day; Theft Is Denied

LISBON, Ohio (AP)—The embezzlement trial of Dean B. Cranmer, mayor of Salem, went into its fourth day today after a general denial of the charge by the mayor and his wife.

The mayor is accused of embezzling $375 from the city of Salem. He was indicted after auditors made a spot examination of his books last June.

Cranmer and his wife Eleanor, who kept books on city collections, denied the charge from the witness stand Wednesday.

In next month's election, Cranmer is running on the Democratic ticket for a third term as mayor.

Argentine Strike Flops

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—A 48-hour general strike called by 62 unions ended at midnight Wednesday. The government and the press both called it a failure.

Ohioan Tells Senate Probers He Was Paid as 'Labor Spy'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A witness told investigating senators today he was an antiunion "labor spy" in the Whirlpool Co. plant at Marion, Ohio, until "they just got too vicious for me."

The testimony, from Charles Litell of Marion, contradicted statements Wednesday by the company's labor relations director, Theodore Hufert, that he knew of no antiunion activities there.

Lotell told the Senate Rackets Committee he reported regularly to Hufert on his activities until he was fired after making an about-face and becoming a vigorous union supporter.

The testimony marked the third day of public hearings in which the committee is seeking evidence to show whether employers have engaged in what Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) termed calculated efforts to circumvent and violate the Taft-Hartley Labor Relations Law.

"I'm very much ashamed of myself," Litell said as he sat in the witness chair with bowed head.

Litell said he was recruited to spy on fellow employes and fight efforts to unionize the plant. He said his services were enlisted by Dr. Louis Checov, a psychologist on the staff of Nathan W. Shefferman. Shefferman, from Chicago, has been described by committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy as a specialist in "union busting."

Kitell said this was in 1955, and that Checov told him that his—Chedov's — job was "to keep any union out of Whirlpool." He said Checov bragged that he "had a great deal of money" at his disposa' with which to achieve this.

At Checov's instructions, Litell said, he and others formed an antiunion committee of plant employes. He said Checov would give him $20 a week to pay its expenses but that sometimes he pocketed most of the $20.

Litell's discharge by Whirlpool was the basis of unfair labor charges against the firm which were dismissed by the National Labor Relations Board. The company maintains Litell was fired for insubordination.

Teamsters Face AFL-CIO Ouster

WASHINGTON (AP) — Embattled Teamsters bosses, found by a federal court to have arranged or tolerated "a conspiracy to rig" their election at the recent union convention, faced punishment late today on corruption charges from the parent AFL-CIO.

The federation's powerful 29-member Executive Council, comprising organized labor's top leadership, assembled to consider ousting the Teamsters.

Although President-elect James R. Hoffa reportedly has made a number of overtures to avoid suspension of the union, it was reliably reported the Council had rejected these and was ready both to suspend the union and recommend its expulsion by the AFL-CIO convention next December.

But a part of the plan reportedly was to name a three - member council committee with which Teamster officials could consult to learn what cleanup steps they must take to avoid eventual expulsion.

• • •

IT WAS REPORTED that consideration had been given even to having Hoffa step aside and take an indefinite leave from the Teamsters Union to cool off some of the heat that has been engendered by the widespread corruption charges against Hoffa, retiring President Dave Beck and other Teamsters chiefs.

Hoffa now is prohibited by a preliminary injunction from taking over the union's helm. The injunction was issued late Wednes-

City Auditor To Quit Post

Miss Marie Melvin Leaving Job Dec. 31

Miss Marie Melvin, Washington C. H. city auditor for the past 11½ years, submitted her resignation, effective Dec. 31, to City Council Wednesday night.

Miss Melvin, who lives at 528½ E. Paint St., suffered a heart attack last November, and, while her health has improved, she asked to be relieved of the duties of the office which have more than trebled since she began her duties on May 1, 1946.

Council instructed City Solicitor William Junk to prepare a formal resolution accepting the resignation "with regret."

The city auditor, who also serves as clerk of Council, is appointed by the legislative body. Miss Melvin succeeded Miss Vera Veail in the office.

In addition to keeping the city's books, the auditor handles sewer billings, building permits, bicycle licenses, admission taxes, cemetery deeds, and a variety of other city-required licenses and permits.

Miss Melvin also has acted as clerk of the city Civil Service Commission.

3 'Halloweeners' Rob Pair of $525

HAMILTON (AP)—Three teen-age boys wearing masks robbed Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Scofield, both 58, of $525 in cash and then taped them to kitchen chairs in their home north of here Wednesday night.

Sheriff Paul Pell reported Mrs. Scofield said when she answered a knock on the door about nine o'clock Wednesday night, she invited the masked boys into the house, believing they were celebrating Halloween early.

After they entered the house, one of the boys drew a pistol, made Scofield open a safe containing $500, and took $25 form his pocket. Then they bound the couple to chairs with tape.

440 Signatures On Petition to Pickaway Board

A petition bearing 440 signatures — reportedly more than 90 per cent of the voting residents of the New Holland School District— asks transfer of that district from Pickaway County to Fayette County.

The 26-page petition was presented to Pickaway County Superintendent George McDowell at 2:50 p. m. Wednesday by Mrs. Lee Mossbarger, Mrs. Earl Vincent, Frank (Cris) Cross and Sheldon Grimes, residents of the New Holland district.

The action followed a series of community meetings in the New Holland area and has the approval of the New Holland Board of Education. McDowell had advised New Holland district residents against the step.

The signatures of only 75 per cent of the voters are required to make the petition valid.

• • •

THE FILING followed a Pickaway County board resolution to consolidate the New Holland district with Atlanta, Williamsport, Jackson and Wayne districts of Pickaway County into a Southwest District which would be one of three new Pickaway County school districts.

The consolidation move, approved at a special meeting, was later rescinded because of a legal technicality pending a court decision.

McDowell said the transfer petition will be considered at the next regular meeting of the board on Nov. 6. If it should be rejected it would go automatically to the Ohio Board of Education for approval or rejection.

The Pickaway board has 60 days in which to act.

There was no comment from Fayette County school officials, since the matter has not been presented to the Fayette County board.

• • •

THE NEW HOLLAND district supports both an elementary and a high school, with a total enrollment of 278 students at the beginning of the term this year. It is estimated that approximately 40 per cent of the students live in Fayette County and that 70 per cent of the district's area is in Fayette County.

Here is the resolution approved by the New Holland board in reference to the transfer to Fayette County?

"Whereas, This Board of Education is fully cognizant of changes in school laws, effective in the near future, which will render it most difficult and expensive for a small school district such as New Holland to operate; and

"Whereas, This Board of Education realizes the advantages, both economic and educational, which

'Inequities' in New Ordinance Erased

Sewer Rent Charges Changed by Council

City Council made two changes in its recently approved sewer rate ordinance, Wednesday night, reducing charges for automatic garbage disposal units from $2 to $1.50 per quarter and establishing the maximum per-family charge at $5 per quarter instead of $6.

The two changes were made after a review of the new ordinance, which becomes effective Jan. 1, indicated that these two rates were somewhat out of line with the rest of the schedule.

The reduced charge for disposal units was the result of a council investigation of rates charged in other cities. The study was prompted by a request for reconsideration made at a recent meeting of the body.

• • •

AT THE SAME time Council clarified that section of the rate ordinance covering air-conditioning units. Units discharging water into the sewer system will be charged at the rate of 60 per cent of the water bill during the months of July, August and September.

No charge will be made on this type of system during other months of the year. Closed circuit cooling systems which do not discharge water into the sewer system were not included in the ordinance, since they present no sewage plant problem.

The ordinance was set up by Council as one of the necessary steps toward expanding the present sewage treatment facilities. The city has asked a $159,000 federal grant to assist in financing the $533,000 project.

• • •

IN OTHER ACTION Wednesday night, Council

(1) Directed the Dayton Power and Light Co. to install a 2,500 lumen street light on Gardner Court and two others on Eastview Rd.;

(2) Made two transfers within the sewage system revenue fund —$14,650 from engineering to electric power and miscellaneous, and $350 from engineering to the Public Employes Retirement System;

(3) Appropriated $1,640 from the general fund to the police incidental fund. City Manager James F. Parkinson pointed out that the use of high-test gasoline in police cruisers necessitated a part of the increase in the incidentals appropriation, adding that the additional expense was justified by increased operational efficiency.

U. S., British Aides Named To Set Up Scientific Pool

WASHINGTON (AP) President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Macmillan today reached basic agreement on pooling scientific and weapons development.

They named two groups of experts to work out specific recommendations, in the atomic and missiles fields. A joint statement issued at the White House disclosed:

Lewis L. Strauss, U. S. Atomic Energy Commission chairman, and Sir Edwin Plowden, chairman of the British Atomic Energy Authority, were designated to make "recommendations in the field of nuclear cooperation."

Sir Richard Powell, British permanent defense secretary, and Donald Quarles, U. S. deputy defense secretary, were instructed "to make recommendations in the field of military defense, particularly those problems dealing with missiles and rocketry."

Diplomats working with the two leaders said these two further lines of action are to be expected as a result of the Macmillan-Eisenhower get-together:

1. A recommendation to Congress by Eisenhower next year for revision of the U. S. Atomic Energy Act to permit sharing of atomic weapons secrets with Britain as a means of reviving the World War II scientific partnership.

2. Steps to mobilize scientific and other resources not only of the United States and Britain but also of other allied nations in Europe, the Middle East and Far East on a wider basis than ever has been attempted before.

• • •

THIS COULD mean more high level conferences, perhaps involving top officials of the NATO countries. It could also involve such practical measures as standardization of weapons design and manufacture.

Eisenhower and Macmillan met for dinner at the White House Wednesday night and were together with Secretary of State Dulles and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd for 3½ hours

The dinner session followed a two-hour meeting between Macmillan and Dulles and their advisers at the British Embassy.

A statement released by the State Department said that they "began a general review of world affairs and an appraisal of the political and military considerations involved."

It was understood that in the afternoon conference and presumably again in the White House dinner discussion they came to grips with the two central problems of this gathering — how to overtake Russia's apparent lead in long range missiles development and how to coordinate their policies in dealing with the frequently recurring crisis in the Middle East where Russia seeks expanded power.

THE FILING followed a Pickaway County board resolution to consolidate the New Holland district with Atlanta, Williamsport, Jackson and Wayne districts of Pickaway County into a Southwest District which would be one of three new Pickaway County school districts.

The consolidation move, approved at a special meeting, was later rescinded because of a legal technicality pending a court decision.

McDowell said the transfer petition will be considered at the next regular meeting of the board on Nov. 6. If it should be rejected it would go automatically to the Ohio Board of Education for approval or rejection.

The Pickaway board has 60 days in which to act.

There was no comment from Fayette County school officials, since the matter has not been presented to the Fayette County board.

THE NEW HOLLAND district supports both an elementary and a high school, with a total enrollment of 278 students at the beginning of the term this year. It is estimated that approximately 40 per cent of the students live in Fayette County and that 70 per cent of the district's area is in Fayette County.

Here is the resolution approved by the New Holland board in reference to the transfer to Fayette County?

3 'Halloweeners' Rob Pair of $525

HAMILTON (AP)—Three teen-age boys wearing masks robbed Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Scofield, both 58, of $525 in cash and then taped them to kitchen chairs in their home north of here Wednesday night.

Sheriff Paul Pell reported Mrs. Scofield said when she answered a knock on the door about nine o'clock Wednesday night, she invited the masked boys into the house, believing they were celebrating Halloween early.

After they entered the house, one of the boys drew a pistol, made Scofield open a safe containing $500, and took $25 form his pocket. Then they bound the couple to chairs with tape.

Flu Still Riddling School Attendance

Flu continues its romp throughout the county school system. Absenteeism continued to rise today and one additional school, Olive, was ordered closed Wednesday afternoon when absenteeism rose from 23.4 per cent at the morning attendance check to 41 per cent by the time school was dismissed at 3:30 p. m.

Absenteeism, presumed to be caused by flu, doubled at the New Martinsburg school Thursday. Nine per cent were absent yesterday, but Thursday morning's count showed 18.9 per cent absent. One teacher also reported ill.

With all city and county schools closed Friday because of the teacher's meeting in Columbus, local school officials were hoping the three-day weekend holiday will improve the situation.

Bookwalter elementary school did not hold classes Thursday due to the closing of the Jeffersonville school. Bookwalter and Jeffersonville use connecting bus lines, and with Jeffersonville closed Bookwalter cancled its classes. Milledgeville and New Holland schools also closed until Monday.

Miami Trace superintendent Walter W. Boyer reported that nine teachers were absent in the schools under his direction.

• • •

WASHINGTON C. H. schools showed a slight increase in absences Thursday. A total of 226 elementary students were absent Wednesday, but Thursday's total was 250, according to suerintendent W. A. Smith. Total absenteeism was 21.8 per cent Wednesday, rising to 24.3 per cent Thursday.

Washington High School reported 301 students absent Thursday. Other city schools reported absences as follow: Central, 88; Cherry Hill, 32; Eastside, 50; Rose Avenue, 39 and Sunnyside, 41. Only decrease was from Sunnyside which reported 44 students absent yesterday and 41 out today.

MOST MIAMI TRACE schools reported more absences today than Wednesday. Wayne had 33 per cent absent today up from 26 per cent yesterday. Three Wayne teachers are ill.

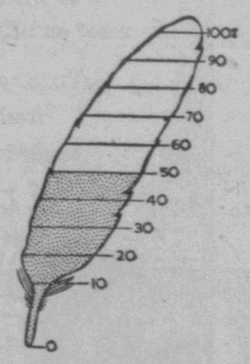
Community Chest Campaign Is Now Half-Way to Goal

The Fayette County Community Chest campaign is now nearly halfway to its goal of $23,500.

After the $876.12 turned in to headquarters at the First Federal Savings and Loan Assn. office Wednesday was banked, the total in the Community Chest was brought to $11,740.57, Perse Harlow, the executive secretary, said Thursday.



Most of the contributions coming in now, Harlow said, are from the residential areas in both city and county. During the first two weeks of the campaign, most of the money came from contributions by businesses, industries and employe groups. This phase of the campaign started Oct. 7, a week before the house-to-house solicitation got under way.

Mrs. George Robinson Jr. is chairman of the residential campaign in Washington C. H., Mrs. Frank Dill is chairman of the canvass in the rural area of the county; Mrs. Elton Elliott heads the campaign in Bloomingburg and Mrs. Thomas Sams the one in Jeffersonville.

Harlow said the business and industry phase of the campaign "is near the end now" and estimated that the canvass among employe groups is "more than half completed."

From now on, he pointed out, "it will just about be up to the house-to-house campaign" if the Chest is filled.

Trial for Mayor Now in 4th Day; Theft Is Denied

LISBON, Ohio (AP)—The embezzlement trial of Dean B. Cranmer, mayor of Salem, went into its fourth day today after a general denial of the charge by the mayor and his wife.

The mayor is accused of embezzling $375 from the city of Salem. He was indicted after auditors made a spot examination of his books last June.

Cranmer and his wife Eleanor, who kept books on city collections, denied the charge from the witness stand Wednesday.

In next month's election, Cranmer is running on the Democratic ticket for a third term as mayor.

Sewer Rent Charges Changed by Council

City Council made two changes in its recently approved sewer rate ordinance, Wednesday night, reducing charges for automatic garbage disposal units from $2 to $1.50 per quarter and establishing the maximum per-family charge at $5 per quarter instead of $6.

The two changes were made after a review of the new ordinance, which becomes effective Jan. 1, indicated that these two rates were somewhat out of line with the rest of the schedule.

The reduced charge for disposal units was the result of a council investigation of rates charged in other cities. The study was prompted by a request for reconsideration made at a recent meeting of the body.

• • •

AT THE SAME time Council clarified that section of the rate ordinance covering air-conditioning units. Units discharging water into the sewer system will be charged at the rate of 60 per cent of the water bill during the months of July, August and September.

No charge will be made on this type of system during other months of the year. Closed circuit cooling systems which do not discharge water into the sewer system were not included in the ordinance, since they present no sewage plant problem.

The ordinance was set up by Council as one of the necessary steps toward expanding the present sewage treatment facilities. The city has asked a $159,000 federal grant to assist in financing the $533,000 project.

• • •

IN OTHER ACTION Wednesday night, Council

(1) Directed the Dayton Power and Light Co. to install a 2,500 lumen street light on Gardner Court and two others on Eastview Rd.;

(2) Made two transfers within the sewage system revenue fund —$14,650 from engineering to electric power and miscellaneous, and $350 from engineering to the Public Employes Retirement System;

(3) Appropriated $1,640 from the general fund to the police incidental fund. City Manager James F. Parkinson pointed out that the use of high-test gasoline in police cruisers necessitated a part of the increase in the incidentals appropriation, adding that the additional expense was justified by increased operational efficiency.

Paper Late? Patience! Flu Here, Too!

After all, carrier boys are only human.

And being so, they, too, are susceptible to the flu bug.

And that may explain why your paper is late.

Record-Herald Circulation Manager Mike Arnold reports that at least six of his carrier boys have been bitten by the bug. It's a pretty big job keeping up with the back work, Arnold says.

Ill yesterday were carriers John Mickle, Steve Rettig, Bill Hains, Bert Lindsey and Bucky and Sonny Yahn.

Arnold himself carried three routes Wednesday. Lindsey's father, Harold, carried his son's route and other help came from Don Coulter and Tommy Rodenfels.

With the extra work, some deliveries aren't being made until 7 or 7:30 p. m., Arnold notes.

Phone calls at the office from people who haven't received their papers are still being accepted until as late as 6 p. m., he added.

Flu Moves from Central Ohio Into Southeastern Section

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Influenza has steadily moved from the northwestern part of the state into the central area, leaving countless thousands of sneezing, sniffling victims in its wake.

In all probability, the flu is now ready to invade the eastern and southeastern sections of Ohio.

But almost as though it needed a toehold for the eastward surge, the bug hit again in outhwestern Ohio Wednesday, an area that had been recovering from last week's round of flu.

Absentees in Cincinnati's schools Wednesday numbered 17,880, an increase of 4,356 over Tuesday.

Absenteeism was on the increase, too, in Hamilton, Middletown and Lebanon.

In Youngstown, however, school absenteeism dropped from 30 to 25 per cent.

Doctors predicted weeks ago the flu would start in northwestern Ohio, where cool autumn weather hit first. The illness spread across northern Ohio and down the western side of the state, and next week will probably reach the eastern regions.

• • •

SCORES OF schools in all parts of Ohio have closed, partly because of fear of contagion, and partly because so many teachers are sick.

Pickaway, Lawrence, Scioto, Guernsey, Marion, Crawford, Wyandot and Franklin counties all reported additional schools closing Wednesday. In Columbus (Franklin County), enough substitute teachers were on hand to keep classrooms open.

In Wayne County, high school attendance climbed toward normal Wednesday, but Wooster College and several elementary and junior high schools continued to feel the effects of the flu outbreak. Only 527 absentees were reported by the county's 10 high schools compared with 974 last Friday.

Wooster College officials Tuesday cancelled most of the school's extra-curricular activities and put a three-day ban on academic examinations. There was no estimate of the number of flu cases among the student body.

All Wayne County public schools have remained open throughout the three-week flu outbreak on advice of Dr. L. A. Adair, county health commissioner.

Among the correctional institutions, the Boys' Industrial School at Lancaster reported the only serious outbreak, with 116 of 871 inmates ill. The Girls' Industrial School at Marysville reported five staff members down with flu, but no inmates. London Prison Farm had one flu case, Mansfield Reformatory five and Ohio Penitentiary four.

The number of influenza-related deaths reached 12 Tuesday night with the death of Jesse W. Cutler of Youngstown, whose illness started as flu but developed into bronchial pneumonia.

Ohioan Tells Senate Probers He Was Paid as 'Labor Spy'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A witness told investigating senators today he was an antiunion "labor spy" in the Whirlpool Co. plant at Marion, Ohio, until "they just got too vicious for me."

The testimony, from Charles Litell of Marion, contradicted statements Wednesday by the company's labor relations director, Theodore Hufert, that he knew of no antiunion activities there.

Lotell told the Senate Rackets Committee he reported regularly to Hufert on his activities until he was fired after making an about-face and becoming a vigorous union supporter.

The testimony marked the third day of public hearings in which the committee is seeking evidence to show whether employers have engaged in what Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) termed calculated efforts to circumvent and violate the Taft-Hartley Labor Relations Law.

"I'm very much ashamed of myself," Litell said as he sat in the witness chair with bowed head.

Litell said he was recruited to spy on fellow employes and fight efforts to unionize the plant. He said his services were enlisted by Dr. Louis Checov, a psychologist on the staff of Nathan W. Shefferman. Shefferman, from Chicago, has been described by committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy as a specialist in "union busting."

Kitell said this was in 1955, and that Checov told him that his—Chedov's — job was "to keep any union out of Whirlpool." He said Checov bragged that he "had a great deal of money" at his disposa' with which to achieve this.

At Checov's instructions, Litell said, he and others formed an antiunion committee of plant employes. He said Checov would give him $20 a week to pay its expenses but that sometimes he pocketed most of the $20.

Litell's discharge by Whirlpool was the basis of unfair labor charges against the firm which were dismissed by the National Labor Relations Board. The company maintains Litell was fired for insubordination.

U. S., British Aides Named To Set Up Scientific Pool

WASHINGTON (AP) President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Macmillan today reached basic agreement on pooling scientific and weapons development.

They named two groups of experts to work out specific recommendations, in the atomic and missiles fields. A joint statement issued at the White House disclosed:

Lewis L. Strauss, U. S. Atomic Energy Commission chairman, and Sir Edwin Plowden, chairman of the British Atomic Energy Authority, were designated to make "recommendations in the field of nuclear cooperation."

Sir Richard Powell, British permanent defense secretary, and Donald Quarles, U. S. deputy defense secretary, were instructed "to make recommendations in the field of military defense, particularly those problems dealing with missiles and rocketry."

Diplomats working with the two leaders said these two further lines of action are to be expected as a result of the Macmillan-Eisenhower get-together:

1. A recommendation to Congress by Eisenhower next year for revision of the U. S. Atomic Energy Act to permit sharing of atomic weapons secrets with Britain as a means of reviving the World War II scientific partnership.

2. Steps to mobilize scientific and other resources not only of the United States and Britain but also of other allied nations in Europe, the Middle East and Far East on a wider basis than ever has been attempted before.

• • •

THIS COULD mean more high level conferences, perhaps involving top officials of the NATO countries. It could also involve such practical measures as standardization of weapons design and manufacture.

Eisenhower and Macmillan met for dinner at the White House Wednesday night and were together with Secretary of State Dulles and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd for 3½ hours

The dinner session followed a two-hour meeting between Macmillan and Dulles and their advisers at the British Embassy.

A statement released by the State Department said that they "began a general review of world affairs and an appraisal of the political and military considerations involved."

It was understood that in the afternoon conference and presumably again in the White House dinner discussion they came to grips with the two central problems of this gathering — how to overtake Russia's apparent lead in long range missiles development and how to coordinate their policies in dealing with the frequently recurring crisis in the Middle East where Russia seeks expanded power.

Stock Market Steady Today

Some Profit Taking Seen after Big Zoom

NEW YORK (AP) — Buying demand which spilled over from Wednesday's historic rise pushed the stock market higher in heavy trading today but profit taking clipped gains and established some losses early this afternoon.

In a followup to Wednesday's huge rally, the biggest in 28 years, key stocks rose fractions to more than $1. In some cases the gains ran to $2 or $3 at the start.

The range of advances was still $1 or so but losses in about the same range replaced some of the early gains.

Lockheed rose more than $1 and holding a fraction of this in later trades. Du Pont canceled a $1 gain and showed a net loss of $1. Gulf Oil erased a $1 gain and eased. International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft and Martin Co. lost most of early $1 gains.

* * *

BROKERS ALONG Wall Street had a better feeling today but kept their fingers crossed.

Wednesday's sensational rally was something they had sought for more than three months. But there was a feeling the rally might have been too good to last.

It was a spectacular rally. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks jumped $5.80 to $156.70, biggest one-day advance in 28 years. It came after the market had slumped to a new low for the past 2½ years.

Behind the sudden turn-about in a market which has been declining since mid-July were two facts, in the opinion of financial men. One was the market's own technical condition and the other was President Eisenhower's plan for a series of nationwide talks.

day by Federal Dist. Judge F. Dickinson Letts. But the judge refused to put the union under a court receiver, as he had been askd to do.

Judge Letts acted on the basis of his findings that the Teamsters convention held at Miami Beach, Sept. 30-Oct. 5, was illegal.

Letts agreed with a 13-man group of rank-and-file New York Teamsters members that a considerable number of convention delegates were seated illgally.

"The public interest," Judge Letts said, "is intimately involved in the fortunes and welfare of defendant International Brotherhood of Teamsters; and irresponsible stewardship of that organization threatens the common good as well as trade unionism in general.

"And it also threatens to obstruct the ordinary channels of transportation and delivery throughout the United States and Canada, thus endangering substantially the entire economic structure."

Beck and Hoffa had been found by the Senate Rackets Committee, in hearings running most of this year, to have misused union funds and abused their powers.

ceeded in height but hardly matched the popular appeal of Russia's Sputnik, the earth satellite which was nearing its 300th trip around the globe since it was launched Oct. 4. Sputnik was sent to a height of 560 miles as it was directed into an orbit.

The Air Force declined to claim any specific height for its rocket, which was sent aloft to gather scientific information. An officer said it's possible the rocket soared well beyond the 4,000-mile goal set for it. Four previous efforts failed.

Secretary of Defense McElroy said he was encouraged by the demonstrated accuracy in the latest Jupiter test, but said there was need for "progressive, favorable experiences" in the competitive tests of Jupiter and Thor before a decision is reached on what IRBM would go into production. He indicated that such a decision might be up to six months away.

The Navy announced it has doubled the amount of money put into its own IRBM project, the Polaris. This missile, considerably farther back in development than the Jupiter or Thor, uses solid instead of the liquid fuel favored by the Army and Air Force.

THE NAVY, in charge of the Vanguard project, said Wednesday's test missile traveled at a peak speed of 4,250 miles per hour in attaining its 109-mile altitude, only about 40 miles lower than Russia's satellite rocket on its recent night crossings.

A Navy spokesman reported the remains of the Vanguard fell into the Atlantic 328 miles off the Florida coast. He called it an "extremely successful test."

The Navy plans four tests of the complete Vanguard before the first U.S. moon, 20 inches in diameter and weighing 21½ pounds, is sent aloft as a payload.

United Nations Charter Hailed On Birthday

UNITED NATION, N. Y. (AP)—Celebrations around the world today marked the most eventful year in the life of the United Nations and the 12th anniversary of the day its charter went into effect.

The theme of this year's U.N. Day programs is "In the Common Interest," a phrase from the U.N. charter. But most speakers were likely to dwell on the Suez and other Middle East crises and the Hungarian revolt. Those events have dominated U.N. discussions during the past year.

On the lighter side, U.N. Day activities include a mountain-climbing contest in Iran, with the winning team raising a U.N. flag on Elburz Mountain and a bicycle race in Mexico.

More commonplace observances included school programs, parades, the distribution of U.N. literature, meetings and festivals.

More than 1,600 U.N. Day committees were set up in the United States and 8,500 towns and cities have reported plans for cermonies of some kind. The U. S. Committee for the United Nations reported that the governments of only two states, Virginia and Mississippi, took no official notice of U.N. day this year.

In Vienna, Hungary's Communists observed the day by accusing the U.N. of countenancing "lies and insults against the Hungarian government."

Rain Brings Joy If Wheat Sowed

Mixed emotions were evident throughout the county today as a result of Wednesday's nearly one inch of rain. The official measurement, taken from 8 a. m. Wednesday to 8 a. m. Thursday, was .98 of an inch.

Conservationist Lee Cleland, with the Fayette County Soil Conservation District, said farmers who have their soybeans combined and those who have their wheat sowed are "pretty happy about the whole situation."

The same feeling is not held by those who are not quite so far along with their fall work, he added.

Cleland said that the unpicked corn in the county won't suffer from the rain.

This Outer Space Business Getting Rather Demanding

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

This business of outer space is getting rather demanding, complicated and more than a little confusing to the ordinary brain.

For instance, the American government has 17 problems it says it wants somebody to solve such as a tunneling device to bore through the earth at 6,000 feet an hour without filling up the hole behind it.

And then there is the story from Amsterdam about a Dutch educator who says he has developed a cosmic language to communicate with creatures of outer space.

As for the American government's 17 problems, Sputnik does not show on the list. But there's something just as good or better—"aerial platforms, manned or unmanned, for observation and missile launching."

This is one of 387 technical puzzles presented in a 34-page catalogue just issued by the U. S. Commerce Department under the title "Inventions Wanted by the Armed Forces."

If you're an amateur or professional inventor, the list is intended to give you something useful to invent.

For example, a death ray. Or a device to get troops rapidly across rivers or canyons without bridges. Or an idea on how to put out an atomic fire in a big city.

None of the problems seems much easier than those.

The Dutchman with the outer space language is Hans Freudenthal, 52-year-old mathematics professor at the University of Utrecht. He lectured on his "Lincos" language before the Royal Netherlands Academy of Sciences.

Freudenthal said he thought it very improbable that our earth was the only spot in the universe populated by intelligent beings. He set out to create a radio language.

For building up a cosmic vocabulary of only 150 words, Freudenthal has written a book of 300 pages that will appear shortly.

It is only natural, he said, that mathematics be used first to communicate with beings from other worlds because mathematics is the most abstract science.

This is repeated and alternated by any other number of dots under 10, followed by RIK and the same number of dots.

The receiver is expected to grasp that RIK has the meaning of "IS"—the equality sign.

Next lesson: Four dots, POF, two dots, RIK, six dots.

Freudenthal expects our counterparts to understand that POF has the meaning of "plus."

Other arithmetic operations, such as minus, greater than, smaller than, multiplication and division, also are being devised.

Striped Pants Boys Shocked By Dismissal

WASHINGTON (AP)—The quiet in the State Department's striped pants division has been shattered by a clash between protocol chief Wiley Buchanan and his energetic deputy, Victor Purse.

Net result: Purse, 39, has been relieved of his duties by Buchanan, a Republican who was appointed No. 1 protocol expert last January.

Buchanan, former ambassador to Luxembourg, was unavailable for comment. Purse would say only: "I've been asked to leave protocol and to take some new assignment."

Buchanan was known, however, to have bawled Purse out Wednesday at the airport for hitching a ride aboard the President's plane Columbine III when it brought Eisenhower from New York.

Purse had been in New York helping maneuver Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip through the final formalities of their visit to the United States. He was one of about a dozen hitchhikers on the presidential plane.

The airport tiff apparently climaxed a behind-the-scenes cold war between the two men. Purse has 14 years duty in the department, 4 of them in protocol.

Informants familiar with prior skirmishes said Purse considered Buchanan, 43-year-old political appointee, to be stuffy and too rigid in his approach.

Buchanan, on the other hand, is reported to have viewed the lean, fidgety Purse as too undignified and casual for the job.

World Setting Hog, Soybean, Beet Records

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department reported today that the world will set production records this year for hogs, soybeans and sugar beets, and a near record for corn.

The United States is far out in front in hog production with an estimate of 84 million head compared with 18,700,000 for Western Germany, the second-place producer. Third is the United Kingdom with 10,150,000. China is a big producer, but figures on its production are not available.

The United States is producing 54 per cent of the soybeans with China in second place with about 40 per cent. The American crop is a record one, 79 per cent above the average of 1946-55.

This country ranks first in sugar beets, but its production is only about 12 per cent of the world's total. Other countries close to the United States in volume include France and Western Germany.

In the case of corn, the United States ranks first, producing about half the world total. While the world's crop is slightly below last year's reord, world supplies are the largest of record.

Likewise, the American production of oats is first, representing about a third of world production.

'58 Ford Displayed By Used Car Dealer

MUSKOGEE, Okla. (AP) — Bill Bull has had a 1958 Ford on display at his used car lot for four days and there are repercussions from Oklahoma City to Dearborn, Mich.

Nov. 7, (two weeks from today) is the date Ford Motor Co. set for initial display of new models.

Ford sent two men by plane from its headquarters at Dearborn to determine how a used car dealer was able to get the jump on it.

The state tax commissioner in Oklahoma City sent Bill Minstrill to check up, and Minstrill filed a complaint with the county attorney, charging Bull has failed to display the car's registration.

Stock Market Steady Today

Some Profit Taking Seen after Big Zoom

NEW YORK (AP) — Buying demand which spilled over from Wednesday's historic rise pushed the stock market higher in heavy trading today but profit taking clipped gains and established some losses early this afternoon.

In a followup to Wednesday's huge rally, the biggest in 28 years, key stocks rose fractions to more than $1. In some cases the gains ran to $2 or $3 at the start.

The range of advances was still $1 or so but losses in about the same range replaced some of the early gains.

Lockheed rose more than $1 and holding a fraction of this in later trades. Du Pont canceled a $1 gain and showed a net loss of $1. Gulf Oil erased a $1 gain and eased. International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft and Martin Co. lost most of early $1 gains.

* * *

BROKERS ALONG Wall Street had a better feeling today but kept their fingers crossed.

Wednesday's sensational rally was something they had sought for more than three months. But there was a feeling the rally might have been too good to last.

It was a spectacular rally. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks jumped $5.80 to $156.70, biggest one-day advance in 28 years. It came after the market had slumped to a new low for the past 2½ years.

Behind the sudden turn-about in a market which has been declining since mid-July were two facts, in the opinion of financial men. One was the market's own technical condition and the other was President Eisenhower's plan for a series of nationwide talks.

day by Federal Dist. Judge F. Dickinson Letts. But the judge refused to put the union under a court receiver, as he had been askd to do.

Judge Letts acted on the basis of his findings that the Teamsters convention held at Miami Beach, Sept. 30-Oct. 5, was illegal.

Letts agreed with a 13 - man group of rank-and-file New York Teamsters members that a considerable number of convention delegates were seated illgally.

"The public interest," Judge Letts said, "is intimately involved in the fortunes and welfare of defendant International Brotherhood of Teamsters; and irresponsible stewardship of that organization threatens the common good as well as trade unionism in general.

"And it also threatens to obstruct the ordinary channels of transportation and delivery throughout the United States and Canada, thus endangering substantially the entire economic structure."

Beck and Hoffa had been found by the Senate Rackets Committee, in hearings running most of this year, to have misused union funds and abused their powers.

U. S. Rocket

ceeded in height but hardly matched the popular appeal of Russia's Sputnik, the earth satellite which was nearing its 300th trip around the globe since it was launched Oct. 4. Sputnik was sent to a height of 560 miles as it was directed into an orbit.

The Air Force declined to claim any specific height for its rocket, which was sent aloft to gather scientific information. An officer said it's possible the rocket soared well beyond the 4,000-mile goal set for it. Four previous efforts failed.

Secretary of Defense McElroy said he was encouraged by the demonstrated accuracy in the latest Jupiter test, but said there was need for "progressive, favorable experiences" in the competitive tests of Jupiter and Thor before a decision is reached on what IRBM would go into production. He indicated that such a decision might be up to six months away.

The Navy announced it has doubled the amount of money put into its own IRBM project, the Polaris. This missile, considerably farther back in development than the Jupiter or Thor, uses solid instead of the liquid fuel favored by the Army and Air Force.

THE NAVY, in charge of the Vanguard project, said Wednesday's test missile traveled at a peak speed of 4,250 miles per hour in attaining its 109-mile altitude, only about 40 miles lower than Russia's satellite rocket on its recent night crossings.

A Navy spokesman reported the remains of the Vanguard fell into the Atlantic 328 miles off the Florida coast. He called it an "extremely successful test."

The Navy plans four tests of the complete Vanguard before the first U.S. moon, 20 inches in diameter and weighing 21½ pounds, is sent aloft as a payload.

United Nations Charter Hailed On Birthday

UNITED NATION, N. Y. (AP)—Celebrations around the world today marked the most eventful year in the life of the United Nations and the 12th anniversary of the day its charter went into effect.

The theme of this year's U.N. Day programs is "In the Common Interest," a phrase from the U.N. charter. But most speakers were likely to dwell on the Suez and other Middle East crises and the Hungarian revolt. Those events have dominated U.N. discussions during the past year.

On the lighter side, U.N. Day activities include a mountain-climbing contest in Iran, with the winning team raising a U.N. flag on Elburz Mountain and a bicycle race in Mexico.

More commonplace observances included school programs, parades, the distribution of U.N. literature, meetings and festivals.

More than 1,600 U.N. Day committees were set up in the United States and 8,500 towns and cities have reported plans for cermonies of some kind. The U. S. Committee for the United Nations reported that the governments of only two states, Virginia and Mississippi, took no official notice of U.N. day this year.

In Vienna, Hungary's Communists observed the day by accusing the U.N. of countenancing "lies and insults against the Hungarian government."

Rain Brings Joy If Wheat Sowed

Mixed emotions were evident throughout the county today as a result of Wednesday's nearly one inch of rain. The official measurement, taken from 8 a. m. Wednesday to 8 a. m. Thursday, was .98 of an inch.

Conservationist Lee Cleland, with the Fayette County Soil Conservation District, said farmers who have their soybeans combined and those who have their wheat sowed are "pretty happy about the whole situation."

The same feeling is not held by those who are not quite so far along with their fall work, he added.

Cleland said that the unpicked corn in the county won't suffer from the rain.

This Outer Space Business Getting Rather Demanding

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

This business of outer space is getting rather demanding, complicated and more than a little confusing to the ordinary brain.

For instance, the American government has 17 problems it says it wants somebody to solve such as a tunneling device to bore through the earth at 6,000 feet an hour without filling up the hole behind it.

And then there is the story from Amsterdam about a Dutch educator who says he has developed a cosmic language to communicate with creatures of outer space.

As for the American government's 17 problems, Sputnik does not show on the list. But there's something just as good or better—"aerial platforms, manned or unmanned, for observation, and missile launching."

This is one of 387 technical puzzles presented in a 34-page catalogue just issued by the U. S. Commerce Department under the title "Inventions Wanted by the Armed Forces."

If you're an amateur or professional inventor, the list is intended to give you something useful to invent.

For example, a death ray. Or a device to get troops rapidly across rivers or canyons without bridges. Or an idea on how to put out an atomic fire in a big city.

None of the problems seems much easier than those.

The Dutchman with the outer space language is Hans Freudenthal, 52-year-old mathematics professor at the University of Utrecht. He lectured on his "Lincos" language before the Royal Netherlands Academy of Sciences.

Freudenthal said he thought it very improbable that our earth was the only spot in the universe populated by intelligent beings. He set out to create a radio language.

For building up a cosmic vocabulary of only 150 words, Freudenthal has written a book of 300 pages that will appear shortly.

It is only natural, he said, that mathematics be used first to communicate with beings from other worlds because mathematics is the most abstract science.

This is repeated and alternated by any other number of dots under 10, followed by RIK and the same number of dots.

The receiver is expected to grasp that RIK has the meaning of "IS"—the equality sign.

Next lesson: Four dots, POF, two dots, RIK, six dots.

Freudenthal expects our counterparts to understand that POF has the meaning of "plus."

Other arithmetic operations, such as minus, greater than, smaller than, multiplication and division, also are being devised.

Striped Pants Boys Shocked By Dismissal

WASHINGTON (AP)—The quiet in the State Department's striped pants division has been shattered by a clash between protocol chief Wiley Buchanan and his energetic deputy, Victor Purse.

Net result: Purse, 39, has been relieved of his duties by Buchanan, a Republican who was appointed No. 1 protocol expert last January.

Buchanan, former ambassador to Luxembourg, was unavailable for comment. Purse would say only: "I've been asked to leave protocol and to take some new assignment."

Buchanan was known, however, to have bawled Purse out Wednesday at the airport for hitching a ride aboard the President's plane Columbine III when it brought Eisenhower from New York.

Purse had been in New York helping maneuver Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip through the final formalities of their visit to the United States. He was one of about a dozen hitchhikers on the presidential plane.

The airport tiff apparently climaxed a behind-the - scenes cold war between the two men. Purse has 14 years duty in the department, 4 of them in protocol.

Informants familiar with prior skirmishes said Purse considered Buchanan, 43-year-old political appointee, to be stuffy and too rigid in his approach.

Buchanan, on the other hand, is reported to have viewed the lean, fidgety Purse as too undignified and casual for the job.

World Setting Hog, Soybean, Beet Records

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department reported today that the world will set production records this year for hogs, soybeans and sugar beets, and a near record for corn.

But below-record crops were indicated for cotton, cottonseed, wheat, barley and oats.

The United States is far out in front in hog production with an estimate of 84 million head compared with 18,700,000 for Western Germany, the second-place producer. Third is the United Kingdom with 10,150,000. China is a big producer, but figures on its production are not available.

The United States is producing 54 per cent of the soybeans with China in second place with about 40 per cent. The American crop is a record one, 79 per cent above the average of 1946-55.

This country ranks first in sugar beets, but its production is only about 12 per cent of the world's total. Other countries close to the United States in volume include France and Western Germany.

In the case of corn, the United States ranks first, producing about half the world total. While the world's crop is slightly below last year's reord, world supplies are the largest of record.

Likewise, the American production of oats is first, representing about a third of world production.

'58 Ford Displayed By Used Car Dealer

MUSKOGEE, Okla. (AP) — Bill Bull has had a 1958 Ford on display at his used car lot for four days and there are repercussions from Oklahoma City to Dearborn, Mich.

Nov. 7, (two weeks from today) is the date Ford Motor Co. set for initial display of new models.

Ford sent two men by plane from its headquarters at Dearborn to determine how a used car dealer was able to get the jump on it.

The state tax commissioner in Oklahoma City sent Bill Minstrill to check up, and Minstrill filed a complaint with the county attorney, charging Bull has failed to display the car's registration.

London Raps Hungary

LONDON (AP) — A crowd stoned the Hungarian Consultate and Legation Building early today, breaking five windows, marking the first anniversary of the Hungarian revolt.

Guerrillas Kill 20

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—The Nationalist Justice Ministry's Tatao news agency reported today that anti - Communist guerrillas in southwest China killed more than 20 Red militiamen and party workers last July and August.

COLUMBUS (AP) — A Columbus woman today announced her candidacy for Democratic candidate for governor in the primary election next year. She is Mrs. Vivienne L. Suarez, 37, mother of five children.

Sputnik May Be Doing Our Nation A Favor

While there seems to be a settling down to a commonsense level on the part of many people who became unduly alarmed when the Soviet launching of Sputnik took place, there is still a lot of concern expressed from many sources as to the need for the United States to move faster in its guided missile program.

After the Russian "baby moon" appearance a lot of America's public was definitely upset, coming as it did soon after a Soviet claim that Russia had perfected a form of intercontinental ballistic missile that could be trained on any part of the world.

Quite a lot of surprise and considerable shock shown by many Americans was the initial reaction to the new earth satellite. There was allegedly some doubt about the Soviet ballistics missile, but Sputnik was something else again. It stood to reason that it was no Communist propaganda trick. Scientists and others over the world saw and tracked the Satellite whizzing around the earth some 18,000 miles an hour at a height of more than 500 miles. Its radio transmissions were recorded.

The concern, of course, was not over the satellite itself. Sputnik was not a weapon, and there was no reason to fear it. The great danger— in Western eyes— is that Soviet science may have a big lead on the rest of the world, most particularly in the field of rocketry.

The satellite, according to the scientists, must have been launched by a staged rocket— a device which is almost unbelievably complex and difficult to construct. Such rockets, once they are sufficiently developed, will be able to launch guided missiles of great accuracy and almost limitless range. And it is no secret that this country and the Soviet Union are in a grim race to produce practical intercontinental missiles with H-bomb warheads.

President Eisenhower, a few days after Sputnik's launching, went to considerable length to discount the military importance of the satellite, and to reassure this country as to where we stand. Soon, he said, we will send up a series of small test satellites, and in March launch one scientifically superior to the Russian's. And he stressed that we are giving top priority to missile development.

However, there is no doubt that the satellite has given Washington D. C. a great deal to think about. The new Secretary of Defense, Neil H. McElroy, said at his first press conference that it may be necessary to speed the missile program. The satellite, he added, proves that Soviet science has made great progress with missiles.

That brings up a really big three-pronged question— are we lagging behind in the missile race; if so, why, and what can be done about it? Numerous experts think we may be lagging, and one reason is frequently given. One newspaper put it in these words: ". . .the U. S. missile program is lagging chiefly because of jealousies and bickering among the three armed services competing in this field, and because the U. S. Defense Department has failed to force them to work together amicably."

There is small doubt that the Army, the Navy, and the Air Force, have all tried to take the center of the spotlight— and to obtain the lion's share of the vast funds involved in missile research, testing and development. The result, say many observers, has been a waste of money, materials, manpower and what may be the most precious commodity of all—time.

Most thinking people propose a simple solution— that we get all our brains in the same laboratory, and quit worrying about the color of the uniforms. If the Soviet satellite helps to bring that about, our cold war enemies will obviously have done us a big favor.

Laff-A-Day

The Nation Today

By ED CREAGH
For James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — The next session of Congress may well become known as the "Sputnik session."

Lawmakers have been traveling far and wide during Congress' offseason. The word is seeping back that they find the Soviet satellite a prime topic of public concern, right behind such local and more immediately pressing problems as jobs and prices.

This naturally will encourage the Democrats—not that they need much encouragement—to hitchhike on the satellite, so to speak, as an issue to raise against the Eisenhower administration.

They can count on some help From Republicans Only Wednesday Sen. Bridges (R-NH) lit into the President's foreign economic adviser, Clarence Randall, for calling Sputnik "a silly bauble." Bridges said the Randall comment was "grossly misleading and irresponsible." The New Hampshire senator is one of the legislators who wants a Senate investigation of the country's satellite and missile program.

President Eisenhower himself has indicated concern over public reaction to Sputnik. He plans a series of speeches—rather urgent in tone, it appears—to reassure the American people about their country's scientific and military progress among other things.

The President has said that while Sputnik shows the Russians have a mighty rocket it doesn't increase by "one iota" his concern for the country's security. Apparently he now feels it necessary to explain why he feels this way, in the light of evidence that his confidence is not too generally shared.

Eisenhower may be able through his speeches to take off some of the heat. The armed forces may do the same thing by some impressive demonstrations in the missile field. But the fact remains that—even if U.S. officials didn't regard this country as being in a race—the Russians were the first to launch an artificial moon. And the question naturally arises: What else may they be first in?

So Congress will investigate. What else it can do is not clear at this point. Vote more money for missile development; order a shakeup in the country's military-scientific setup? That's a pretty good bet—if the administration doesn't do it first.

Sputnik's effect on Congress will be far-ranging. It will influence foreign affairs and defense strategy discussion. It already is being cited alternately as evidence that (1) more money should be spent on development of weapons and less on foreign aid, and .2) more money should be spent on foreign aid to counteract the effect of Sputnik.

Quite a flurry, all in all, to be stirred up by what the President has called "one small ball up in the sky."

Medicine Can Ease Premenstrual Pain

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Don't suffer in silence.

It's just plain foolish, not heroic to accept discomfort such as that caused by the premenstrual period without complaining to your physician.

Let's discuss some of the symptoms so that you will recognize the trouble for what it really is, a disturbance which will affect at least one out of every three women this month with possible serious social consequences.

Premenstrual tension seems to be most common among married women, particularly those between the ages of 30 and 40. The symptoms generally begin about four to ten days before the menstrual period.

It probably will begin gradually with feelings of insecurity and foreboding. It will increase in severity until menstruation begins. Then the symptoms will subside, often very dramatically.

Symptoms in addition to tension are irritability, depression, moodiness, emotional instability, anti-social behavior, headache, nausea, gastrotestional upset.

Others include insomnia, fretfulness, pain and swelling of the breasts, abdominal bloating, backache, leg cramps and a gain in weight with or without visible signs of water retention.

Sometimes there are additional symptoms such as vertigo, acne-like eruptions, asthmatic attacks changes in appetite, thirst and sexual desire, hostility and anxiety. hypomanic trends hot flashes, sensations of chills, the shakes and the jitters.

Now all these manifestations of the premenstrual syndrome do not occur in the same woman. And they may vary from period to period.

But even one or two of the symptoms can be enough to make the home life of the woman involved—and that of her family—pretty miserable. Undoubtedly, many divorces can be traced directly to domestic troubles which were caused by premenstrual tension.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

P. A. R.: I have heard of an operation which is being performed to increase the circulation to the brain. Is this operation of any help?

Answer: This operation has been used only experimentally. As far as can be determined up to the present time, evidence does not show that it has been of much value.

It is reported that the Turks are not concerned about the possibility of war, but about the coffee shortage. That's where the trouble is brewing.

Damascus, capital of Syria, is the world's oldest continuously populated site. All that time, and now they're afraid of visitors.

Moscow announces the Russian people will have a two-cylinder "people's car" which will go 75 miles an hour. If their traffic turns out like ours, it will be a kind of mass purge.

Maybe the "people's car" could sprout a big highway program in Russia. That would be the best thing that could happen to our foreign relations.

A Soviet mathematician suays a "physical station" may appear soon on the moon. What we wonder is, what on earth it could do?

Sen. Symington objects to the fact that U. S. satellite work have been held to a no-overtime week. He knows the Russians beat our time, but he thinks maybe they wouldn't have beaten our overtime.

If Washington really wants to put the satellite program on a crash basis, why not try some of those professional cocktail party goers. They not only crash, but they can beat everybody to the punch.

Funny Bones Decaying Now

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—S. J. Perelman, regarded by many as the wittiest man alive, believes America's greatest medical problem isn't hardening of the arteries; it's decay of the funny bone.

"Humor writing today?" he said. "I just don't see much of it around.

"The immensity of life is a deterrent. Everything today has assumed such a terrific shape and size it dwarfs the individual and his point of view.

"The movies and television also have siphoned off a lot of possible humorists who became anonymous gag writers. They might have had a viewpoint or an identity, but instead they became part of a six-man team. They are well paid, but their work has no performance."

A raffish Socrates who looks and talks a bit like Groucho Marx (as a matter of fact, he wrote two early Marx brothers movies), Perelman broke into the chuckle industry during the turbulent 1920s, the era of such men as John Held Jr., and Robert Benchley.

"We all starved together," he said. "But there was a tremendous amount of gusto in living in those days.

"But, like everybody else, I went on the auction block."

Since leaving Brown University, Perelman has turned out some 15 books and plays, more than 200 humorous skits for the New Yorker magazine, and innumerable movies. Last year he won the Academy Award for his script, "Around the World in 80 Days."

A man who looks with skepticism on everything in life except the messages he finds in Chinese cookies ("these I accept literally"), Perelman said every young writer begins his career as a thief.

"He has to be," he said. "That is, in the sense he has to read and digest the work of good men who have gone before. Then he has to demonstrate his skill by turning out varnished pieces so well done they show no trace of the sources they sprang from.

'I must say I myself have stolen only from good men."

What does he believe is the funniest thing in the world?

And the saddest?

"The same thing," he said. "But I wouldn't want to be thought cynical. I suppose you might say I was an idealist, but just say it and you'll get a blow on the mouth."

Perelman's latest chore was a review on "The Changing Ways of Love" for the Nov. 3 premiere of the new CBS network show, "The Seven Lively Arts," on which critic John Crosby will act as host.

Asked what research he put into this piece, Perelman said flatly:

Like all writers, Perelman suffers from insomnia, and he cures sleeplessness by murmuring over and over his favorite sentence in contemporary literature:

"There were rainbow roses on Mosely Mason's dresser this morning."

The source?

"It's the opening line from an unpublished novel—although why it's unpublished beats me," said Perelman. "It's better than Miltown."

Khrushchev on Boondoggling

By George Sokolsky

One thing must be handed to Khrushchev: he has a sense of humor.

When he took over the management of the Soviet world, he found that boondoggling was the favorite occupation of the vast horde of officials who had been growing and growing during Stalin's regime.

Boondoggling is a natural characteristic of bureaucrats the world over; they are a lazy, wasteful crowd who eat up the sustenance of a people. Talking about this in Czechoslovakia, Khrushchev said:

You, comrades, can imagine what it means when tens of thousands of people sit in Moscow and how much paper they manage to scribble on every day and when these papers are being transmitted by telegraph, by mail, and then these papers are received by the trusts, the factory managers, and then they take their turn writing papers. This, you know, is a madhouse. The devil shall take it, all the paper they fill with their scribbling."

It sounds very much like Washington or any government agency where three times as many persons are required to do anybody's job and where they get all mixed up over jurisdictional priorities.

It is not only in the military where protocol becomes a "thank - you - ma'am," which in New England is a device designed originally for other purposes but now to break the axles of out - of -town automobiles: it is anywhere in the official world where two agencies come into contact and paralyze each other.

So Khrushchev said about this: "I must tell you such a secret, it sounds like an anecdote, but it reflects the actual state of affairs. When we began really talking about the reorganization of management, when the ministers— you know, they are also human; they have risen from the ranks of the workers, the clerks— found out that their scope of work was decreasing, they began to think, where, and how, and where they would go themselves. This attitude is natural to any human, whatever might be his position in the state."

That, of course, is why Americans who have known what there is to know about the satellite caught in the propganda race concerning it. It was because generals and admirals are human, only too human, and when they are building empires for themselves they sometimes forget whom they are serving and why they are where they are.

Tell one of these great men that he is living on the bounty of the taxpayers and that they expect him to perform and such a person is insulted and takes offense. The office holder likes to play it safe and he can tell you of such people as Billy Mitchell and Adm Rickover who stuck their necks out because they had too much imagination and talked out of turn.

Nevertheless the fact is that the boondoggler has become a fearful drain upon the United States not only because he costs so much but also because he trips over his own feet, as it were, causing inefficiency all around him.

He is becoming such a nuisance that maybe the only way to get rid of him is to pass all the Hoover proposals at once and start all over again.

Khrushchev recited his experience with ending the careers of the scribblers and scrawlers. He said:

"Consequently they stopped writing papers they stopped sending telegrams to the factories, and they stopped traveling to all these places, and we immediately received news from the factories and plants that flow of paper had stopped, and that work in the factories was now proceeding well, that plans were being fulfilled and surpassed, and this is very nice. . ."

Herbert Hoover tried to do something about waste in two commissions over a period of many years during the terms of Harry Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower. Unfortunately, he bumped up against the vested interests of the job holders who fight being dispossessed from their soft pews for any reason whatsoever. The job holders never let go and there are politicians who help them hold on at any cost because the job holders usually have lots of voting friends back home.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A PSYCHIATRIST encountered a challenging problem in the person of a patient who was absolutely convinced he was in love with an elephant. After endless sessions on the couch, the analyst convinced the poor fellow it all had been a hallucination. "Okay, so I'm cured," nodded the patient weakly, "but now I've got another problem you must solve for me."

"What now?" asked the analyst wearily.

The patient asked, "Do you happen to know somebody in the market for one mighty big engagement ring?"

Sputnik May Be Doing Our Nation A Favor

While there seems to be a settling down to a commonsense level on the part of many people who became unduly alarmed when the Soviet launching of Sputnik took place, there is still a lot of concern expressed from many sources as to the need for the United States to move faster in its guided missile program.

After the Russian "baby moon" appearance a lot of America's public was definitely upset, coming as it did soon after a Soviet claim that Russia had perfected a form of intercontinental ballistic missile that could be trained on any part of the world.

Quite a lot of surprise and considerable shock shown by many Americans was the initial reaction to the new earth satellite. There was allegedly some doubt about the Soviet ballistics missile, but Sputnik was something else again. It stood to reason that it was no Communist propaganda trick. Scientists and others over the world saw and tracked the Satellite whizzing around the earth some 18,000 miles an hour at a height of more than 500 miles. Its radio transmissions were recorded.

The concern, of course, was not over the satellite itself. Sputnik was not a weapon, and there was no reason to fear it. The great danger— in Western eyes— is that Soviet science may have a big lead on the rest of the world, most particularly in the field of rocketry.

The satellite, according to the scientists, must have been launched by a staged rocket— a device which is almost unbelievably complex and difficult to construct. Such rockets, once they are sufficiently developed, will be able to launch guided missiles of great accuracy and almost limitless range. And it is no secret that this country and the Soviet Union are in a grim race to produce practical intercontinental missiles with H-bomb warheads.

President Eisenhower, a few days after Sputnik's launching, went to considerable length to discount the military importance of the satellite, and to reassure this country as to where we stand. Soon, he said, we will send up a series of small test satellites, and in March launch one scientifically superior to the Russian's. And he stressed that we are giving top priority to missile development.

However, there is no doubt that the satellite has given Washington D. C. a great deal to think about. The new Secretary of Defense, Neil H. McElroy, said at his first press conference that it may be necessary to speed the missile program. The satellite, he added, proves that Soviet science has made great progress with missiles.

That brings up a really big three-pronged question— are we lagging behind in the missile race; if so, why, and what can be done about it? Numerous experts think we may be lagging, and one reason is frequently given. One newspaper put it in these words: ". . .the U. S. missile program is lagging chiefly because of jealousies and bickering among the three armed services competing in this field, and because the U. S. Defense Department has failed to force them to work together amicably."

There is small doubt that the Army, the Navy, and the Air Force, have all tried to take the center of the spotlight— and to obtain the lion's share of the vast funds involved in missile research, testing and development. The result, say many observers, has been a waste of money, materials, manpower and what may be the most precious commodity of all—time.

Most thinking people propose a simple solution— that we get all our brains in the same laboratory, and quit worrying about the color of the uniforms. If the Soviet satellite helps to bring that about, our cold war enemies will obviously have done us a big favor.

The Nation Today

By ED CREAGH
For James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — The next session of Congress may well become known as the "Sputnik session."

Lawmakers have been traveling far and wide during Congress' offseason. The word is seeping back that they find the Soviet satellite a prime topic of public concern, right behind such local and more immediately pressing problems as jobs and prices.

This naturally will encourage the Democrats—not that they need much encouragement—to hitchhike on the satellite, so to speak, as an issue to raise against the Eisenhower administration.

They can count on some help From Republicans Only Wednesday Sen. Bridges (R-NH) lit into the President's foreign economic adviser, Clarence Randall, for calling Sputnik "a silly bauble." Bridges said the Randall comment was "grossly misleading and irresponsible." The New Hampshire senator is one of the legislators who wants a Senate investigation of the country's satellite and missile program.

President Eisenhower himself has indicated concern over public reaction to Sputnik He plans a series of speeches—rather urgent in tone, it appears—to reassure the American people about their country's scientific and military progress among other things.

The President has said that while Sputnik shows the Russians have a mighty rocket it doesn't increase by "one iota" his concern for the country's security. Apparently he now feels it necessary to explain why he feels this way, in the light of evidence that his confidence is not too generally shared.

Eisenhower may be able through his speeches to take off some of the heat. The armed forces may do the same thing by some impressive demonstrations in the missile field. But the fact remains that—even if U.S. officials didn't regard this country as being in a race—the Russians were the first to launch an artificial moon. And the question naturally arises: What else may they be first in?

So Congress will investigate. What else it can do is not clear at this point. Vote more money for missile development; order a shakeup in the country's military-scientific setup? That's a pretty good bet—if the administration doesn't do it first.

Sputnik's effect on Congress will be far-ranging. It will influence foreign affairs and defense strategy discussion. It already is being cited alternately as evidence that (1) more money should be spent on development of weapons and less on foreign aid, and .2) more money should be spent on foreign aid to counteract the effect of Sputnik.

Quite a flurry, all in all, to be stirred up by what the President has called "one small ball up in the sky."

Diet and Health — Medicine Can Ease Premenstrual Pain

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Don't suffer in silence.

It's just plain foolish, not heroic to accept discomfort such as that caused by the premenstrual period without complaining to your physician.

Let's discuss some of the symptoms so that you will recognize the trouble for what it really is, a disturbance which will affect at least one out of every three women this month with possible serious social consequences.

Premenstrual tension seems to be most common among married women, particularly those between the ages of 30 and 40. The symptoms generally begin about four to ten days before the menstrual period.

It probably will begin gradually with feelings of insecurity and foreboding. It will increase in severity until menstruation begins. Then the symptoms will subside, often very dramatically.

Symptoms in addition to tension are irritability, depression, moodiness, emotional instability, anti-social behavior, headache, nausea, gastrotestional upset.

Others include insomnia, fretfulness, pain and swelling of the breasts, abdominal bloating, backache, leg cramps and a gain in weight with or without visible signs of water retention.

Sometimes there are additional symptoms such as vertigo, acne-like eruptions, asthmatic attacks changes in appetite, thirst and sexual desire, hostility and anxiety, hypomanic trends hot flashes, sensations of chills, the shakes and the jitters.

Now all these manifestations of the premenstrual syndrome do not occur in the same woman. And they may vary from period to period.

But even one or two of the symptoms can be enough to make the home life of the woman involved—and that of her family—pretty miserable. Undoubtedly, many divorces can be traced directly to domestic troubles which were caused by premenstrual tension.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

P. A. R.: I have heard of an operation which is being performed to increase the circulation to the brain. Is this operation of any help?

Answer: This operation has been used only experimentally. As far as can be determined up to the present time, evidence does not show that it has been of much value.

Ohio gave America its first hot dog. Harry Mosley Stevens of Niles was the first person to think of wrapping up a frankfurter in a piece of bread - later roll. He capitalized on the name 'hot dog' after seeing a caricature of a frankfurter made to look like a dachshund in the New York Daily News in 1900.

Attention Women; Boys List Dislikes

By VIVIAN BROWN

If you want to be a popular campus belle, better learn the whys and wherefores of dating. There are many ways to irritate the boy who takes you out. Here's a list compiled by two boys, seniors at a Westport, Conn., high school, who prefer anonymity in their confession.

1. Why does a girl become insulted if you even talk to another girl at a party or at a dance? And for some reason or another most girls think you are supposed to dance every dance with them when you take them out.

2. Is there any reason why a girl must call you a silly pet name when you are with your buddy or mother? Such names as "Cookie," "Poochie" sound endearing until they are overheard by others.

3. Why does a girl think she makes you jealous by playing up to the orchestra or a group of boys she doesn't know? It just makes her look cheap.

4. Must she always make decisions? Can't she wait until you give the waiter her order for the evening before she tells you what she'd like. This type of girl opens doors, and always leads the boy to the table, too.

5. Why do some girls on that first date, anticipate that you've just taken her out for a necking engagement? They are scared that you are going to "demand" a kiss before the evening is over.

6. Isn't it considered reasonable to expect a girl to ask you in to her home once in a while, perhaps for a sandwich after a date? There shouldn't be any harm if parents are home.

7. Why does a girl write you a mushy letter just because you've given her a little encouragement. And why is that particular letter always opened by your mother or sister by mistake?

8. If a girl wants to put on make up why doesn't she leave the table. It's disgusting to watch some girls slather on lipstick, and even eye makeup at the table. And combing the hair at the table, certainly means she is carrying the idea too far.

9. Why does the average girl feel obliged to rundown a girl you've just paid a compliment to, acting insecure just to have the other girl praised?

10. The spoiled brat type of girl who can't be a good sport when things go wrong—flat tire, deflated wallet, a case of flu on the night of the big dance— is just ruling herself out of future dates.

11. Why do girls bore you with a lot of frilly chit - chat, and then get insulted if you discuss baseball or some sport in which you are interested.

12. A girl doesn't have to be dressed to kill when you take her to a party, but she should find out what she is supposed to wear so that she doesn't overdress. Fancy party clothes are out of place at a football game. The girl who wears high-heeled sandals that look like bedroom slippers, invariably wears them on a rainy or snowy day when you must trudge a long way from your car to the football field.

LWV Considers Election Issues At Conference

Proposed Changes In Constitution Get Top Emphasis

The League of Women Voters met with Mrs. Walter Morrow Wednesday night to study election issues and to continue action in support of the Qualifications for voting Amendment and the County Home Rule Amendment to the Ohio State Constitution.

The meeting was called to order by president, Mrs. John P. Case. In observance of the fact that Oct. 24 would be United Nation's Day, Mrs. Case reminded the group that first on the list of continuing responsibilities of the League of Women Voters of the United States is support of the United Nations and that the National League has an observer at the U. N.

She is Mrs. Oscar M. Ruebhausen who is also a member of the national board of directors of the League, and who last summer appeared before the House Appropriation's Subcommittee on Foreign Operations to support the principle of foreign economic aid.

* * *

VOTERS SERVICE Chairman Mrs. Charles C. Marine gave a report of the work done in cooperation with Mrs. Walter Craig, public relations chairman, and committee members, Mrs. Norman Boop and Mrs. James O. Garringer to assemble information about local candidates for office to be presented to the public (see page 13).

Mrs. Marine also gave a review of local issues and candidates to be voted upon.

Mrs. Ray Wilson presented the three amendments to the Ohio State Constitution which will be on the ballot. It was explained that since the League had not made a study of the first one, a proposed amendment to Article 15, Section 4 to permit a person to be appointed to an office in this state without possessing the qualifications of an elector, the League had no official opinion upon it; but it was suggested that the intent of this change was to make it possible to obtain exceptionally well qualified personnel for specific jobs.

* * *

THE LEAGUE, having studied and taken a vote upon the second proposed amendment, which would change Section 1 of Article 5 to provide that a person may vote for the President and the Vice President of the United States without fulfilling the requirement of one year's residence, this amendment was endorsed and an affirmative vote urged.

It was pointed out that the three million families who move from one state to another each year can be as well informed as any others about the presidential candidates and their qualifications because of modern communication facilities and that the new resident of Ohio is as well equipped as those fulfilling the one-year residence requirement to select the President and Vice President of the United States.

* * *

THE THIRD constitutional issue, which if passed will amend Article 10 to make it easier for interested counties to set up home rule governments, having been studied by the L.W.V. of Ohio ever since the year 1932, is whole-heartedly endorsed by the League.

It was emphasized that the County Charter, or County Home Rule, Amendment is purely permissive—that it will greatly help the areas that need it, and will never be used by those less populated counties which do not need it.

After Mrs. Wilson's presentation, the group went into a detailed study of the aspects of Amendments No. 3. Mrs. Alfred H. Browne gave a summary of League efforts to improve county goverment from 1932 to 1957.

MRS. MORROW presented an explanation of the amendment and an endorsement of it from the Ohio State Chambers of Commerce, and she distributed explanatory pamphlets from the local Chamber.

During a social hour, postcards were written and addressed to be mailed later to acquaintances and friends to enlist their support of the County Home Rule Amendment.

Do Women Dress To Please Menfolk or Other Women?

By DOROTHY ROE

Associated Press Women's Editor

Question: Does a woman dress to please men or for the benefit of other women?

Answer, by Simonetta, young, beautiful and successful Roman fashion designer: "A woman dresses for herself and for other women, because a man never knows what she is wearing anyway."

Answer No. 2, by Fabiani, young, handsome and successful Roman fashion designer and husband of Simonetta: "I know exactly what you are wearing at all times, my dear, down to the last ruffle."

This exchange took place as the couple was preparing to return to Rome after a hectic visit to New York. Simonetta had just wound up a tour of the United States in behalf of her perfumes and fashions. Her husband had joined her for the last week, mostly for fun, but also to launch a new American line of hosiery.

The two run rival couture houses in Rome, turn out completely different kinds of clothes. They have a 4-year-old son, Bardo, and each has a daughter by a previous marriage.

I started the current controversy by asking Simonetta if she ever wore Fabiani clothes.

"Never!" she declared. "He makes beautiful clothes, but they are not for me."

"But don't you ever ask his opinion about a dress?" I persisted.

"And how about you?" I asked Fabiani. "Don't you ever ask your wife to wear one of your own creations?"

"I would never ask her that," said Fabiani firmly. "Of course, I would be very happy if she would."

"How in the world do you manage to live together so happily, without some professional jealousy?" I asked.

Polish Immigrant Given Clemency By Gov. O'Neill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A Cleveland woman, faced with deportation to Poland Oct. 30 because of "moral turpitude," can remain in the United States with husband and daughter, thanks to Gov. C. William O'Neill.

In the first act of executive clemency since he took office, O'Neill Wednesday granted full pardon to Mrs. Anna Lukaszewicz Rodville, 44, convicted in 1937 and again in 1953 of petit larceny charges. She was fined but received suspended jail sentences on both offenses.

She appealed to the governor when federal attorneys prepared to deport her under a federal law providing for such action against persons with two separate convictions involving moral turpitude.

Mrs. Rodville came to the United States when she was a year old.

Attention Women; Boys List Dislikes

By VIVIAN BROWN

If you want to be a popular campus belle, better learn the whys and wherefores of dating. There are many ways to irritate the boy who takes you out. Here's a list compiled by two boys, seniors at a Westport, Conn., high school, who prefer anonymity in their confession.

1. Why does a girl become insulted if you even talk to another girl at a party or at a dance? And for some reason or another most girls think you are supposed to dance every dance with them when you take them out.

2. Is there any reason why a girl must call you a silly pet name when you are with your buddy or mother? Such names as "Cookie," "Poochie" sound endearing until they are overheard by others.

3. Why does a girl think she makes you jealous by playing up to the orchestra or a group of boys she doesn't know? It just makes her look cheap.

4. Must she always make decisions? Can't she wait until you give the waiter her order for the evening before she tells you what she'd like. This type of girl opens doors, and always leads the boy to the table, too.

5. Why do some girls on that first date, anticipate that you've just taken her out for a necking engagement? They are scared that you are going to "demand" a kiss before the evening is over.

6. Isn't it considered reasonable to expect a girl to ask you in to her home once in a while, perhaps for a sandwich after a date? There shouldn't be any harm if parents are home.

7. Why does a girl write you a mushy letter just because you've given her a little encouragement. And why is that particular letter always opened by your mother or sister by mistake?

8. If a girl wants to put on make up why doesn't she leave the table. It's disgusting to watch some girls slather on lipstick, and even eye makeup at the table. And combing the hair at the table, certainly means she is carrying the idea too far.

9. Why does the average girl feel obliged to rundown a girl you've just paid a compliment to, acting insecure just to have the other girl praised?

10. The spoiled brat type of girl who can't be a good sport when things go wrong—flat tire, deflated wallet, a case of flu on the night of the big dance— is just ruling herself out of future dates.

11. Why do girls bore you with a lot of frilly chit - chat, and then get insulted if you discuss baseball or some sport in which you are interested.

12. A girl doesn't have to be dressed to kill when you take her to a party, but she should find out what she is supposed to wear so that she doesn't overdress. Fancy party clothes are out of place at a football game. The girl who wears high-heeled sandals that look like bedroom slippers, invariably wears them on a rainy or snowy day when you must trudge a long way from your car to the football field.

LWV Considers Election Issues At Conference

Proposed Changes In Constitution Get Top Emphasis

The League of Women Voters met with Mrs. Walter Morrow Wednesday night to study election issues and to continue action in support of the Qualifications for voting Amendment and the County Home Rule Amendment to the Ohio State Constitution.

The meeting was called to order by president, Mrs. John P. Case. In observance of the fact that Oct. 24 would be United Nation's Day, Mrs. Case reminded the group that first on the list of continuing responsibilities of the League of Women Voters of the United States is support of the United Nations and that the National League has an observer at the U. N.

She is Mrs. Oscar M. Ruebhausen who is also a member of the national board of directors of the League, and who last summer appeared before the House Appropriation's Subcommittee on Foreign Operations to support the principle of foreign economic aid.

* * *

VOTERS SERVICE Chairman Mrs. Charles C. Marine gave a report of the work done in cooperation with Mrs. Walter Craig, public relations chairman, and committee members, Mrs. Norman Boop and Mrs. James O. Garringer to assemble information about local candidates for office to be presented to the public (see page 13).

Mrs. Marine also gave a review of local issues and candidates to be voted upon.

Mrs. Ray Wilson presented the three amendments to the Ohio State Constitution which will be on the ballot. It was explained that since the League had not made a study of the first one, a proposed amendment to Article 15, Section 4 to permit a person to be appointed to an office in this state without possessing the qualifications of an elector, the League had no official opinion upon it; but it was suggested that the intent of this change was to make it possible to obtain exceptionally well qualified personnel for specific jobs.

* * *

THE LEAGUE, having studied and taken a vote upon the second proposed amendment, which would change Section 1 of Article 5 to provide that a person may vote for the President and the Vice President of the United States without fulfilling the requirement of one year's residence, this amendment was endorsed and an affirmative vote urged.

It was pointed out that the three million families who move from one state to another each year can be as well informed as any others about the presidential candidates and their qualifications because of modern communication facilities and that the new resident of Ohio is as well equipped as those fulfilling the one-year residence requirement to select the President and Vice President of the United States.

* * *

THE THIRD constitutional issue, which if passed will amend Article 10 to make it easier for interested counties to set up home rule governments, having been studied by the L.W.V. of Ohio ever since the year 1932, is whole-heartedly endorsed by the League.

Oldest Senator Proves He Understands Youth

By PAUL A. SHINKMAN
Central Press Assn

WASHINGTON — The telephone rang in Suite 221 of the Senate Office building on Capitol Hill. It was the juvenile court clerk in Providence R. I. There was a heart-breaking hassle going on over an 11 year-old boy who faced a stiff stretch at the house of correction for stealing a second-hand bike.

Would the kindly senator from Rhode Island, 89 - year-old Theodore Francis Green, save this lad from the first of what seemed likely to be a series of black marks against him throughout a shadowed life?

Senator Green— who, in his 90th year, had become the oldest statesman ever to occupy a seat in the Senate or House of Representatives— had just finished acknowledging the thousands of congratulations that had been pouring in from all over the world.

The senator was happy to be back in the chair presiding over his powerful Senate foreign relations committee during the epic debate on foreign aid. And when his particular chair— as well as his seat on the floor of the Senate— could spare him, there were other chairs waiting for him around the tables of the Democratic policy committee, the Senate Office building commission, the joint committee on the Library, the rules and administration committee.

* * *

HOWEVER there was also that sobbing 11-year-old boy standing all alone in front of a stern-faced judge in a Providence courtroom. That was something special for the senior senator from Rhode Island— and the members of his office staff knew it.

In fact, one of Green's secretaries with a young son of her own had taken the trouble to get all of the facts of the boy's case not only from the court authorities but also from his family, his church and his school. It was the old story of a broken home, bad company, and — a first offense.

The law required a suitable home for the boy as the only alternative to an institution. It was necessary to work fast. Within 24 hours the senior senator from Rhode Island had canvassed his wide circle of Washington friends and found exactly the home he wanted for the little boy he had never seen.

Senator Theodore Green

To Green, it was just another of the "little things" he likes to do for the folks "back home" above and beyond the call of duty.

SEN. GREEN, whose twinkling eye and brisk step are known the entire length of his three - mile walk each morning from his bachelor quarters at the University club to his office on Capitol Hill, makes no claim to scientific knowledge of American youth. However, he does have views on the subject. He told this reporter:

"Young people do not consider the passage of time. Indeed, they live in anxiety to reach anticipated goals in fields of education, industry or sports.

"Our youth of today, as well as yesterday's youth, have goals to strive for, projects to accomplish. With its courage and fortitude, there should be no concern over the progress and contributions of our youth to the American way of life."

Oldest Senator Proves He Understands Youth

By PAUL A. SHINKMAN
Central Press Assn.

WASHINGTON — The telephone rang in Suite 221 of the Senate Office building on Capitol Hill. It was the juvenile court clerk in Providence R. I. There was a heart-breaking hassle going on over an 11-year-old boy who faced a stiff stretch at the house of correction for stealing a second-hand bike.

Would the kindly senator from Rhode Island, 89 - year-old Theodore Francis Green, save this lad from the first of what seemed likely to be a series of black marks against him throughout a shadowed life?

Senator Green— who, in his 90th year, had become the oldest statesman ever to occupy a seat in the Senate or House of Representatives— had just finished acknowledging the thousands of congratulations that had been pouring in from all over the world.

The senator was happy to be back in the chair presiding over his powerful Senate foreign relations committee during the epic debate on foreign aid. And when his particular chair— as well as his seat on the floor of the Senate— could spare him, there were other chairs waiting for him around the tables of the Democratic policy committee, the Senate Office building commission, the joint committee on the Library, the rules and administration committee.

• • •

HOWEVER there was also that sobbing 11-year-old boy standing all alone in front of a stern-faced judge in a Providence courtroom. That was something special for the senior senator from Rhode Island— and the members of his office staff knew it.

In fact one of Green's secretaries with a young son of her own had taken the trouble to get all of the facts of the boy's case not only from the court authorities but also from his family, his church and his school. It was the old story of a broken home, bad company, and — a first offense.

The law required a suitable home for the boy as the only alternative to an institution. It was necessary to work fast. Within 24 hours the senior senator from Rhode Island had canvassed his wide circle of Washington friends and found exactly the home he wanted for the little boy he had never seen.

To Green, it was just another of the "little things" he likes to do for the folks "back home" above and beyond the call of duty.

• • •

SEN. GREEN, whose twinkling eye and brisk step are known the entire length of his three - mile walk each morning from his bachelor quarters at the University club to his office on Capitol Hill, makes no claim to scientific knowledge of American youth. However, he does have views on the subject. He told this reporter:

"Young people do not consider the passage of time. Indeed, they live in anxiety to reach anticipated goals in fields of education, industry or sports.

"Our youth of today, as well as yesterday's youth, have goals to strive for, projects to accomplish. With its courage and fortitude, there should be no concern over the progress and contributions of our youth to the American way of life."

The term corn as used in the United States refers to wheat in England oats in Scotland.

Round about Fayette County

I was surprised recently when I learned that bass up to 3½ pounds had been taken from Thompson's Fork of the North Fork of Paint Creek in Madison Township during recent years.

Thompson's Fork, which, it seems, originally bore the name of North Fork of Paint, flows through considerable undulating territory in Madison Township and lower Madison County, being fed by springs, and has many sizeable pools where the bass seem to thrive.

The man who caught the 3½-pound bass was Elza Mercer, who has made numerous catches on the farms he operates on the White Oak Rd.

Some other sizeable fish also have been caught in the small stream, which empties into North Fork a short distance north of Rockwell Rd., northwest of Madison Mills.

ERA OF PROGRESS

During the last 68 years tremendous strides have been made in the lighting field, as well as in nearly all other phases of industry and science.

It was in 1889 that the Citizens Gas and Light Co. installed a small generator in a building at the old "gas house" on Second St., near Paint Creek, where at one time two huge gas tanks supplied artificial gas to many places of business and residences as well as providing illumination for the streets.

The generator operated 20 arc lights for streets illumination and outside of the business area, there was comparatively little light.

These old arc lights used carbon sticks to complete the circuit and give off light that varied considerably as the carbon sticks partly burned away and then snapped back together to complete the arc and give forth a bluish glow.

I recall that these old arc lights made a continual humming noise as the carbons burned away, and they were adjusted so that they could be lowered to the street when it was necessary to affix new carbons.

George Swope, who, with Harry Miller, built the first automobile ever constructed here, and George Gillespie, superintendent of the light plant, assembled the generator and the unit which powered it. Swope was engineer of the plant for seven years.

Incandescent lights were unknown when the first arc lights were installed here. The generator was of 50 arc lights capacity.

It was after the turn of the century that incandescent lights were first used to illuminate the streets.

The Washington Gas and Electric Co., which succeeded the old Citizens Gas and Light Co., was purchased by The Dayton Power and Light Co. in 1925.

Starting with no street illumination at all, back in the days when the town was a village, kerosene-burning lights were installed at street corners in the uptown area, followed by gas lights from artificial gas. Then came the era of arc lights, incandescents and other types and today the city is one of the best lighted in the entire state.

RABIES IN HUMAN FAMILY

We still hear discussion pro and con on the matter of rabies with some doubting Thomases holding that such a disease does not exist, and that rabies, or hydrophobia, can not be transmitted to human beings.

Well, let's consult the record right here in Washington C. H. as to whether the disease can be transmitted from a rabied dog to a human being.

I have known many persons in the city and county, who were bitten by rabid dogs and other animals over a long period of years, and who were given the Pasteur treatment and were not affected by the disease.

But there is one case on record where a Washington C. H. man was bitten by his dog, neglected to take treatment for 10 days or two weeks, and nearly two months later he died of hydrophobia. That was in 1927.

At least that is what one local doctor and two prominent physicians connected with the State Board of Health, who made an examination first hand, gave as their verdict.

The man was Ira Oliver Walker, 32, of Elm St. His death followed several days of high fever, high nervous tension and part-time delirium.

Neighbors were called in to assist in caring for him, and when it became known that he was dying of rabies, a crowd of curious collected in tront of his home. It was necessary for the police to disperse the crowd.

Bikini atoll in the Pacific, is believed to be more than two million years old.

$10,000 FOR HIM—David Smith, 14 months old, reaches for that $10,000 check held by Dr. L. G. Derthick, U. S. commissioner of education, in Washington. It's a $10,000 insurance policy won by his grandmother, Mrs. Fred Kaiser, Manhasset, N. Y., who holds him. She won first prize in a national youth scholarship contest, and designated her grandson as the recipient. Check will be saved for his college education. (International Soundphoto)

Riddle of Giant Hillside Figures Still Puzzles British Scientists

By JOSEPH WHITT

LONDON — The figures of giants and horses carved into many British hillsides have long been surrounded by mystery.

Local villagers as well as learned experts have tried to solve the riddle: Who created the huge shapes? Why and when were they made?

Stirred by the problem, the Cambridge university museum's director, T. C. Lethbridge, initiated his archeological investigation at the Gogmagog hills, not far from Cambridge, where, according to folk tales, there had once been figures in the earth.

With the aid of a probe, Lethbridge felt his way over the hills and found that the solid chalk beneath the surface was often filled with soil. He charted the places where his probe struck soft earth and in this manner outlined the shapes of a goddess seated on a horse, and two giants.

* * *

THE EARLY people of Britain, Lethbridge suggests, performed ritual giant—slayings. They scratched and drawing of a giant on the hill and the, by means of various rites, destroyed him. Since this ceremony was acted out many times, the carving grew constantly deeper.

The work of excavating the Gogmagog figures is still in progress. Archeologists believe that when the figures are fully revealed and studied they will constitute a highly significant prehistoric discovery, shedding light on the origin of other hillside carvings in Britain.

Near the pit dwellings in Dorset, for example there is the Giant of Cerne Abbas, standing 186 feet, his angular body cut deep into the chalk hill by the Englishmen who lived here about 5,000 years ago.

* * *

THE LONG MAN of Wilmington in Sussex, 231-feet tall, is probably another remainder of the giant-slaying cult, even though his origin was ascribed, before Lethbridge's theory, to the Roman soldiers who were once garrisoned among these rolling hills.

The Long Man of Wilmington, Sussex

White Horse of Cherhill

Horses as well as giants decorate the hillsides, and in the south of England one may see many white stallions cut into the chalk downs.

They are quite strikingly silhouetted against the grass background. Apparently they were also part of the giant killing, for the ritual was attended by a fertility goddess seated on a horse.

Such horse carving are to be found in Uffington, Berkshire, and in Cherhill and Westbury, Wiltshire. The Westbury stallion was carved during Saxon times; the Uffington one shortly before the birth of Christ, by Baltic tribes who ruled southeast England.

Archeologist may discover the answer to the riddle of the hillside figures, but it is doubtful that they will ever fully remove the mystery surrounding these prehistoric English monuments.

Riddle of Giant Hillside Figures Still Puzzles British Scientists

By JOSEPH WHITT

LONDON — The figures of giants and horses carved into many British hillsides have long been surrounded by mystery.

Local villagers as well as learned experts have tried to solve the riddle: Who created the huge shapes? Why and when were they made?

Stirred by the problem, the Cambridge university museum's director, T. C. Lethbridge, initiated his archeological investigation at the Gogmagog hills, not far from Cambridge, where, according to folk tales, there had once been figures in the earth.

With the aid of a probe, Lethbridge felt his way over the hills and found that the solid chalk beneath the surface was often filled with soil. He charted the places where his probe struck soft earth and in this manner outlined the shapes of a goddess seated on a horse, and two giants.

* * *

THE EARLY people of Britain, Lethbridge suggests, performed ritual giant—slayings. They scratched an outline and drawing of a giant on the hill and the, by means of various rites, destroyed him. Since this ceremony was acted out many times, the carving grew constantly deeper.

The work of excavating the Gogmagog figures is still in progress. Archeologists believe that when the figures are fully revealed and studied they will constitute a highly significant prehistoric discovery, shedding light on the origin of other hillside carvings in Britain.

Near the pit dwellings in Dorset, for example there is the Giant of Cerne Abbas, standing 186 feet, his angular body cut deep into the chalk hill by the Englishmen who lived here about 5,000 years ago.

* * *

THE LONG MAN of Wilmington in Sussex, 231-feet tall, is probably another remainder of the giant-slaying cult, even though his origin was ascribed, before Lethbridge's theory, to the Roman soldiers who were once garrisoned among these rolling hills.

Horses as well as giants decorate the hillsides, and in the south of England one may see many white stallions cut into the chalk downs.

They are quite strikingly silhouetted against the grass background. Apparently they were also part of the giant killing, for the ritual was attended by a fertility goddess seated on a horse.

Such horse carving are to be found in Uffington, Berkshire, and in Cherhill and Westbury, Wiltshire. The Westbury stallion was carved during Saxon times; the Uffington one shortly before the birth of Christ, by Baltic tribes who ruled southeast England.

Archeologist may discover the answer to the riddle of the hillside figures, but it is doubtful that they will ever fully remove the mystery surrounding these prehistoric English monuments.

Naples Getting Jittery with Eruption of Vesuvius Overdue

Is 'Uncle Pipe Smoker' about To Act Up?

By FRANKLIN JOHNSON

NAPLES, Italy—They are taking Vesuvius' temperature regularly and keeping close check on the venerable volcano's pulse and breathing, because another eruption—which may be a big one—is overdue and expected.

Since 1844, the Neopolitian government has maintained an observatory only two miles from one of its principal craters.

A more detailed "biography" has been written of Vesuvius' temperamental outbursts than of any other volcano on earth, and world geologists watch it closely for clues to other global disturbances, like the recent earthquake which shook Mexico City.

Italians view Vesuvius with mixed emotions. They are proud of its turbulent past, and like for its plume to decorate the picturesque Bay of Naples, as it did most recently in March, 1944, when one of its smaller outbursts scattered ashes over American Army forces that had fought their way into southern Italy five months before.

* * *

ITALIAN PRIDE is hurt when anyone suggests Old Uncle Pipe Smoker—Zi C'a Pippa—may never awaken again. The interval since 1944 has been the longest without activity since 1631. Yet the dread of its tremendous destructiveness hangs like a pall.

Volcanoes can be the greatest killers on earth. In the Messina straits in 1908 more than 200,000 lives were snuffed out by a single explosion.

When Krakatoa in the East Indies blew up 74 years ago with a force dwarfing hydrogen bombs, it sent great waves which drowned 36,000 people along coasts many miles away, made a noise heard 3,000 miles off, and pulverized two-thirds of the island into the atmosphere so that for several years the sun appeared unnaturally Red to the rest of the world.

* * *

THE MOST recent large-scale volcanic loss of life was the 2,000 persons killed in 1951 by the eruption of Mt. Hibok in the Philippines

Vesuvius has been the author of classic destruction, the most famous being in 79 A. D. when Herculaneum, Pompeii and Stabiae were emblamed by a great layer of ash. On Dec. 16, 1631, it was convulsed again and 18,000 lost their lives.

A reason so many people are killed by eruptions is because the great fertility of fresh volcanic soil lures them within dangerous distances, and feelings of false security delude them during long periods of quiet.

If all volcanoes were like what geologists call "Hawaiian volcanoes," they would gradually discharge their pent-up force without huge blasts.

* * *

HOWEVER, Vesuvius is not like that. A lava plug forms in its great throat, and finally it coughs.

A fiery wall of lava crushes walls of homes in San Sebastiano, Italy, during a volcanic eruption of Mount Vesuvius.

There is a little cough every four to 10 years, and a bigger one about every 40 years. The really big heaves are centuries apart, but volcanologists point out that one may be about due.

Prof. Giuseppe Imbo, Italy's foremost volcanologist, is Vesuvius' "keeper." Using a new type of gravimeter, he has established that molten lava is bubbling inside the funnel. So it is not imagination on the part of the uneasy residents in the little villages around the cone that they hear rumblings under their feet.

Imbi reports that the lave rises and falls in a breathing motion every 12 hours, and the crater is expanded at least 100 meters at the high tide, contracting when each crisis is over.

* * *

THE MOUNTAIN is "hot under the collar," with temperatures of 1,200 degrees five inches beneath the surface in the so-called "yellow zone" between the blackened edge of the crater and the red lava core. Red-hot pebbles are found, and chloric acid smoke is appearing.

The source of such tremendous volcanic heat is a prime mystery of science, since the theory that the earth's core is molten has been generally discarded.

Dr. Sharat K. Roy of the Chicago Natural History museum and a world authority, thinks it comes from a combination of gravitational compression, faulting and folding of the earth's crust.

Suggestions have been advanced here recently that the heat of Vesuvius be harnessed for power. The idea is to tap its steam and use it for a central heating plant in Naples. Maybe old Uncle Pipe Smoker is rebelling at such an affront.

2 Policemen Bitten By Man Under Arrest

YOUNGSTOWN (AP)—Two policemen were treated at a local hospital Wednesday for bites on the hands inflicted by an irate customer at the Doghouse Restaurant.

The customer, Lawrence R. Catherman, 21, of Youngstown, was charged with drunkenness, creating a disturbance and resisting arrest.

Patrolmen James Buffalo and Joseph Taormina said Catherman bit them as they were taking him to their cruiser after placing him under arrest for creating a disturbance in the restaurant.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Being a Swede, Inger Stevens has naturally been compared with Ingrid Bergman. Being fresh-faced and blonde, she has been compared with Grace Kelly.

"Though they are complimentary, I hate comparisons," says Inger. "I'd rather be known as Inger Stevens."

My bet is that she will get her way. Already she has made a fine impression as Bing Crosby's leading lady in "Man on Fire." She went on to "Cry Terror" with James Mason, and is now playing opposite Yul Brynner in "The Buccaneer."

She is strikingly beautiful, as Bergman and Kelly were. She is also a convincing dramatic actress. And Inger is warm and friendly, which the two noted expatriates were not.

Ingeg is an authentic Swede, but she's also an American beauty. She came to this country at 10, lived in both Manhattans — New York and Kansas. She grew up in the latter, where her father was a teacher at Kansas State Agriculture College.

"I've been supporting myself since I was 15," she related. "I've done everything, including taking inventory at Montgomery Ward in Kansas. What fun it was—counting wool socks with the temperature 115!"

She went back to New York and tried her hand at modeling, posing for toothpaste commercials and acting in television. The latter gave her seasoning and brought her to the attention of movie makers.

She was signed by Paramount. Meanwhile she played a Swedish maid in the Playhouse 90 show, "Eloise." This caught Producer Sol Siegel's eye, and he tested her for "Man on Fire."

Continuing Jobless List Up in Ohio

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio's total of jobless benefit claims a week or more old jumped to 53,325 last week, the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation reports. This was an increase from 51,946 the previous week.

New claims last week numbered 11,007, a drop of 211 from new claims the previous week.

The total of continuing claims does not necessarily indicate the total number of unemployed workers covered by the jobless benefit law. A number of unemployed have exhausted their benefits and have been dropped from the rolls.

Methodists To Hear Second Report on Ohio Area Study

The second of a series of four reports on the Ohio Area Study made by the Methodist Church will be given at Grace Church here Sunday night by Dr. John Dickhaut of Columbus.

Dr. Dickhaut, director of the Methodist Theological School in Ohio, will discuss "The Need and The Training of the Methodist Minister" in his analysis of this phase of the overall Ohio Area Study at a meeting of adults in Grace Church sanctuary following a family potluck supper in Fellowship Hall.

Dr. Clarence LaRue, who directed the study, made the first report here last Sunday evening. He said at that time that the study showed the population increase in Ohio and the shift of people from rural to urban centers and then from the urban to suburban areas of the growing cities has created problems for churches of all denominations.

* * *

THE STUDY just completed by the Methodist Church, according to the Rev. L. J. Poe, pastor of Grace Church was designed to point out avenues of approach to solutions of these problems.

Dr. LaRue said last Sunday that the study showed "the churches of Ohio have a responsibility and an opportunity, which calls for a very different type of church than that for a rural Ohio."

He also pointed out that many new churches are needed and that Bishop Hazen G. Werner has estimated that the Methodist Church alone will need 133 ministerial recruits each year for replacements and to fill the pulpits of new churches.

Dr. Dickhaut will outline the church's program for interesting young men in the ministry as he analyzes this phase of the Ohio study Sunday night.

* * *

DR. DICKHAUT, a graduate of Marietta College in 1935 received his Bachelor of Divinity degree from Garrett Biblical Institute, Evanston, Ill., in 1938 and his Doctor of Divinity degree from Ohio Northern University in 1955.

Since then he has held pastorates in five Ohio cities and the superintendency of the Dayton and Columbus districts. This year he was named director of an organization to establish a Methodist Theological School in Ohio.

After the potluck supper, the young people will go to classrooms for entertainment and instruction, depending on their ages, while the adults hear the report on the study by Dr. Dickhaut in the sanctuary.

Mrs. John E. Rhoads, chairman of the Commission on Missions, will preside at the meeting.

In an acre of rich pasture there are 200 million insects and mites in the soil.

SCIENCE VIEWPOINT—Dr. Hans Erich Hollman, pioneer in microwave and radar research, gives his viewpoint on American science in San Francisco, that America tries to "mass produce" research the way we mass produce everything, while Russian scientists take their time. (International)

WATER PROSPECTS "ENCOURAGING"—Prospects are "encouraging" for water in 1958 for these 17 western states, says an Agriculture department survey. Only dry spots (dotted) in the survey are in southern California, the Salt river valley of Arizona, southern New Mexico. Forecasters count on normal snow supply.

Ambassador's Ex-Wife Plans Career in Decorating Field

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The witty and talented Claude Alphand, whose divorce last summer from her husband, Herve, the French ambassador, shocked their friends, is missed on the social scene this season.

The couple, who came to Washington in the fall of 1956, injected a new note of gaiety and sophistication into Embassy Row partying. As hosts at the big Normandy-style embassy, they joined in giving generously of their diverse talents—he as a mimic and witty raconteur, the beauteous blonde Claude as an accomplished singer and guitarist.

Washington has not seen Mrs. Alphand since her departure for France last spring, so it was with some surprise I found myself facing her in the elevator of a small East Side hotel in New York recently. I told her she was missed in the capital.

"I in turn will miss the friends I made there," she said softly. "The divorce is sad, for we were married for 27 years. But for us both, it is best. I cannot live the official life. I had no time for my own interests, not even time to study English. I was not happy."

"I expect to live in New York," she said. "First I will take an eight-weeks course in English at Columbia University."

I noted that she already spoke with greater fluency than when I interviewed her last April in Washington. Then we had conversed through an interpreter.

"When I am settled I hope to go into commercial decorating, restaurants, night clubs, little shops, and I will probably sing again," she said.

During World War II, while her husband was serving with the French underground, she sang at a chic New York supper club. She also has made recordings.

Washington is familiar with Mrs. Alphand's gift as a decorator. She had begun to transform the formerly rather gloomy embassy into a residence with a light, young look. Her flair for color, line and texture combinations was notable in several of the downstairs rooms she had done over.

Refugees Review First Year In Freedom after Hungary

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — One year, 365 days, 12 months—a fast trip from nothing to everything.

That's the story of Mr. and Mrs. Ferenc Kallai, their two sons and probably many more like them. They are Hungarian refugees.

A year ago, the Kallais, and thousands of their countrymen, decided to resist Russian oppression. They were part of the revolution which gave them only six days of freedom.

Then—more communism, more fear, more torture, more uncertainty.

Asked what a difference a year can make, the Kallais simply hunch their shoulder, raise their eyebrows and laugh uneasily. There is no comparison, they say.

Among major differences they listed freedom, money, lack of fear and lack of government domination.

"Here,' says Kallai smilingly, "You can quit your job if you want. And when you want, you can take any other one you want."

In Hungary, he explains, the state gives you a job. You can not quit. And if you displease those in power, they switch your job to one which pays less.

"A forint is supposed to be worth a dime, but actually it is worth about a penny," Kallai said.

"In Hungary the AVO (secret police) asks every person from time to time to tell on his fellow citizens," Kallai said, adding: "Wages are so bad, everybody does something illegal. They have to to live."

Kallai said the AVO operates this way:

If one name is mentioned too often to the AVO, that person disappears forever. No one knows where he goes. And if you want to stay healthy, you don't ask.

If the AVO asks you to give them a few names (of persons doing illegal things) and you refuse, you sit all day, with no food, facing a blank wall. And you will stay that way until you talk.

Both the Kallais have faced the wall several times. "finally we would tell them," they said. "There was nothing else to do."

Methodists To Hear Second Report on Ohio Area Study

The second of a series of four reports on the Ohio Area Study made by the Methodist Church will be given at Grace Church here Sunday night by Dr. John Dickhaut of Columbus.

Dr. Dickhaut, director of the Methodist Theological School in Ohio, will discuss "The Need and The Training of the Methodist Minister" in his analysis of this phase of the overall Ohio Area Study at a meeting of adults in Grace Church sanctuary following a family potluck supper in Fellowship Hall.

Dr. Clarence LaRue, who directed the study, made the first report here last Sunday evening. He said at that time that the study showed the population increase in Ohio and the shift of people from rural to urban centers and then from the urban to suburban areas of the growing cities has created problems for churches of all denominations.

* * *

THE STUDY just completed by the Methodist Church, according to the Rev. L. J. Poe, pastor of Grace Church was designed to point out avenues of approach to solutions of these problems.

Dr. LaRue said last Sunday that the study showed "the churches of Ohio have a responsibility and an opportunity, which calls for a very different type of church than that for a rural Ohio."

He also pointed out that many new churches are needed and that Bishop Hazen G. Werner has estimated that the Methodist Church alone will need 133 ministerial recruits each year for replacements and to fill the pulpits of new churches.

Dr. Dickhaut will outline the church's program for interesting young men in the ministry as he analyzes this phase of the Ohio study Sunday night.

* * *

DR. DICKHAUT, a graduate of Marietta College in 1935 received his Bachelor of Divinity degree from Garrett Biblical Institute, Evanston, Ill., in 1938 and his Doctor of Divinity degree from Ohio Northern University in 1955.

Since then he has held pastorates in five Ohio cities and the superintendency of the Dayton and Columbus districts. This year he was named director of an organization to establish a Methodist Theological School in Ohio.

After the potluck supper, the young people will go to classrooms for entertainment and instruction, depending on their ages, while the adults hear the report on the study by Dr. Dickhaut in the sanctuary.

Mrs. John E. Rhoads, chairman of the Commission on Missions, will preside at the meeting.

In an acre of rich pasture there are 200 million insects and mites in the soil.

SCIENCE VIEWPOINT—Dr. Hans Erich Hollman, pioneer in microwave and radar research, gives his viewpoint on American science in San Francisco, that America tries to "mass produce" research the way we mass produce everything, while Russian scientists take their time. (International)

WATER PROSPECTS "ENCOURAGING"—Prospects are "encouraging" for water in 1958 for these 17 western states, says an Agriculture department survey. Only dry spots (dotted) in the survey are in southern California, the Salt river valley of Arizona, southern New Mexico. Forecasters count on normal snow supply.

Ambassador's Ex-Wife Plans Career in Decorating Field

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The witty and talented Claude Alphand, whose divorce last summer from her husband, Herve, the French ambassador, shocked their friends, is missed on the social scene this season.

The couple, who came to Washington in the fall of 1956, injected a new note of gaiety and sophistication into Embassy Row partying. As hosts at the big Normandy-style embassy, they joined in giving generously of their diverse talents—he as a mimic and witty raconteur, the beauteous blonde Claude as an accomplished singer and guitarist.

Washington has not seen Mrs. Alphand since her departure for France last spring, so it was with some surprise I found myself facing her in the elevator of a small East Side hotel in New York recently. I told her she was missed in the capital.

"I in turn will miss the friends I made there," she said softly. "The divorce is sad, for we were married for 27 years. But for us both, it is best. I cannot live the official life. I had no time for my own interests, not even time to study English. I was not happy."

"I expect to live in New York," she said. "First I will take an eight-weeks course in English at Columbia University."

I noted that she already spoke with greater fluency than when I interviewed her last April in Washington. Then we had conversed through an interpreter.

"When I am settled I hope to go into commercial decorating, restaurants, night clubs, little shops, and I will probably sing again," she said.

During World War II, while her husband was serving with the French underground, she sang at a chic New York supper club. She also has made recordings.

Washington is familiar with Mrs. Alphand's gift as a decorator. She had begun to transform the formerly rather gloomy embassy into a residence with a light, young look. Her flair for color, line and texture combinations was notable in several of the downstairs rooms she had done over.

Strategic Oil Artery Spans Spain

New Life Line for Western World

By OMER ANDERSON

CADIZ, Spain — A pipeline more important to the security of the Western World than any fuel artery in the Arab lands is going into operation here in Spain.

It is the 480-mile underground line linking the U. S. Strategic Air Command's five bases with the U. S. naval base at Rota, near Cadiz.

This pipeline, key to the success of the entire air base network, stretches diagonally across Spain from Rota to Saragossa.

From the Mediterranean, it traverses the sun-baked Andalusian plain, mounts 2,000 feet to crest the lofty Sierra de Morena with its deep gorges and gaping canyons, and turns northeast through the Spanish Civil warscarred Guadaljara toward the valley of the Ebro.

As a feat of pipeline engineering, SAC's Spanish fuel lifeline surpasses in many respects anything achieved in the Middle East. U. S. Navy tankers discharge fuel loads directly into the pipeline at Rota. The fuel is pumped through the line into vast tank farms spotted at intervals along the artery.

* * *

THE FIRST tank farm, a few miles south of the sherry-wine town of Jerez, has 70 underground tanks, the largest taking 85,000 barrels. Pumping station boost the fuel from tank farm to farm.

The pipeline passes near all five SAC bases, each of which is linked to the fuel system by a spur. The entire system, including tank farms, is underground, and thus invulnerable to aerial attack and normal sabotage.

Such vast quantities of fuel can be stored in the system that SAC bases, in an emergency, could operate for many weeks without resupply. Furthermore, the pipeline makes the U. S. military operation in Spain independent of Spanish fuels, and transport difficulties.

Rota, an artificial port constructed by the U. S. Navy, is the most spectacular link in the pipeline system. Here the Navy built a breakwater-protected harbor where oil tankers can offload their cargo into the pipeline.

* * *

ROTA will also serve fleet units in the North African - Mediterranean area. The man-made port has facilities for loading and discharging all types of cargo, including aircraft.

A trick taxi - tow way connects the long pier with the nearby naval air station. Planes can be moved directly between aircraft carriers and the air station.

SAC's Spanish pipeline is unusual in this respect: Loads of jet fuel, aviation gasoline, Diesel oil and lubricants can be moved simultaneously in either direction— and with more than one type of fluid in the pipe at one time.

* * *

SAC's SPANISH headquarters are at Torrejon, 18 miles from Madrid, a base with a 13,400-foot runway taking the biggest planes the Air Force has in operation or on the drawing board.

The fourth base, at Seville, will be a supply and maintenance center, and the fifth base, the most desolate of all five, is near the village of Moron de la Frontera, 30 miles from Seville. At the Moron base will nest SAC's B47 and B52 jet bombers.

These five bases plus the naval base at Rota give the United States a virtually impregnable sanctuary from any rapid Soviet conquest of Western Europe.

Bricker, Lausche See Alike On Question of Red Sputnik

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio's two senators — John W. Bricker and Frank J. Lausche—appear to see just about eye to eye on the Russian sputnik.

Lausche (D) said in an interview:

"While we ought to be disappointed, I don't believe we should be thrown into consternation and hysteria. We've got to be militarily strong, attempting at all times to strike the proper balance between added strength and fiscal ability."

Bricker (R) is telling the handful of Ohioans who have written him to express fear:

"The launching of the Soviet satellite is an ominous development, tangible proof that Soviet scientists have made considerable progress towards perfecting an intercontinental ballistic missile.

"Nevertheless, I am confident that the United States will soon be able to put up a better satellite—that we are ahead in overall missile technology. . . ."

It is, of course, impossible to judge the reaction of Ohioans to Sputnik, or any other subject, from congressional mail. But it is a fact that the Sputnik mail to the senators has been extremely light.

What mail there is has been sounding the alarm bell. Among the 21 letters received by Bricker was this one from a woman in Dayton:

"I don't mind how high income taxes are if the money is used in defense of our country. News of the Russians surpassing the USA in their satellite is very alarming."

A man in Toledo suggested two steps: 1. "Tell the American people the blunt facts concerning their security." 2. "Take every action regardless of economy or politics to forge ahead in missile and space technology."

"The letters," he said, "are not indicative exactly of the general reaction in Ohio. Reaction throughout the state is to view it (the Sputnik) matter of factly and calmly."

Suburban Dayton Grocery Robbed

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Police are searching today for an armed bandit who robbed a supermarket in suburban Kettering of $2,500 Wednesday night. Louis Trissel, assistant store manager, told police the man claimed his wife had lost a wrist watch in the store. When the two went to the cashier's cage to see if the watch was there, the bandit pulled a gun and emptied the cash register.

Cincy Chiefs Ask Caution In Gas Use

CINCINNATI (AP)—City officials made a new plea today for care in using gas space heaters after a newly married couple and the woman's baby by a previous marriage were found dead in their apartment here.

The victims were Paul Edward Anderson, 18, his bride of six days, Grace, 19, and Mrs. Anderson's 9-month-old baby, Timmie. They died of carbon monoxide fumes from a gas heater.

Charles W. Gruber, chief of the city's heating inspectors, said the heater was vented and connected with a flue but that the flue was clogged with soot and debris. He said the heater also did not have a gas regulator, with the result the flame gave off a greater concentration of fumes.

Gruber urged gas heater users to check the flue and be sure the draft is unobstructed.

The three bodies were found Wednesday after other residents of the building noticed an odor in the hallway. The bodies of Mrs. Anderson and the baby were on a bed and Anderson was lying on a couch nearby.

Louis Loveless, father of the young woman, said the couple was married here Oct. 17 and then went to Anderson's home in Beattyville, Ky., for a honeymoon. They returned to Cincinnati Sunday.

Neighbors said they last saw Anderson alive Monday morning.

County Land Sale Ruling Is Outlined

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Atty. Gen. William Saxbe ruled today counties may not sell county-owned real estate at auction, but may sell only on the written bid of the highest responsible bidder.

The opinion went to Prosecutor Fred E. Jones of Warren County in reply to several questions raised about the sale of land on which the Warren County Memorial Hall is located in Lebanon.

Saxbe said the bids on county-owned land may be sealed or unsealed, whichever is specified in the public advertisement inviting the bids.

OSU Is Given Nod To Buy 86 Acres

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The State Controlling Board has released $345,000 to Ohio State University to buy more than 86 acres of land adjoining its property on the west side of the Olentangy River in Columbus.

Another $859,700 was released to the university to build a fine arts building for the College of Education.

The board also announced at its meeting Wednesday that $20,000 has been released to Atty. Gen. William Saxbe to hire seven attorneys and a clerk-stenographer to handle traffic case in local courts.

Canned Gossip

Speed and Accuracy of Prison Grapevine Baffles Outsiders

By MEL CARLSON

JACKSON, Mich.—How would you like to own a device that reports the news before it happens? One that transmits information with the spread of light, the accuracy of a slide rule and with all the drama of your favorite news commentator?

Well, there is just such a device behind the walls of the world's largest prison. It's called the grapevine.

The grapevine of Southern Michigan prison is a hungry animal. Fed bits of information by 6,000 potential newshawks, the grapevine is a breed of fact, guesswork and deduction. Sometimes it seems almost clairvoyant.

When Warden William Bannon came to Jackson in July of 1952, he found that inmates had known of his appointment before he did. He left the Ionia reformatory, where he held the position of deputy warden on a call from the state capital on July 10 and arrived at noon to find that the post of warden of SMP was open to him if he wanted it. He accepted the offer.

* * *

HOWEVER, on the day he came to take over his new job, Warden Bannon learned that a convict had told a guard of the appointment about 10 a. m. of the same day he was offered the post—two hours before Bannon arrived in Lansing! It is generally agreed that the grapevine is just highly developed gossip but without the usual exaggeration—and prison officials are a loss to explain just where the information comes from.

* * *

WHEN "the most hated inmate" of Marquette prison was slain by a fellow convict, the grapevine knew the name of the slayer three days before the formal statement was issued.

Penitentiary news travels by word of mouth and outside information filters in with new prisoners, transfers from Marquette prison and the Ionia reformatory and, occasionally, through the guards and prison administrators themselves.

One inmate stated that rumors can often be checked by just asking an official. "After you've been around here for awhile," he said, "you get to know some of the officials pretty well. You can usually tell by the way they deny a rumor whether it's true or not."

The speed of the grapevine is almost phenomenal. Even Warden Bannon uses the inmate "wire service" to his advantage. The warden says that whenever he goes inside the prison gates, regardless of where he is, he can always be located within a few minutes. All his office need do is to call the rotunda.

* * *

"THERE'S always some inmate in the main rotunda who knows where I am," says the warden, "even though I didn't know where I'd be when I left the office!"

The grapevine is a strange animal and some of its antics are odd', unpredictable. When Norman Thornhill was called back to court recently to have one of his prison sentences set aside because someone else had confessed to the crime, he learned of his good fortune through the prison grapevine.

He was on the way to his cell block when a fellow convict came up to him with the news. Thornhill was doubtful at first but the inmate said he had heard it on the 6 o'clock news broadcast.

Thornhill was about to step into his cell when he pulled out his pocket watch and was heard to exclaim, "Now how the devil could he know that? It's only 10 minutes to six!"

Wage Ruling Is Given

COLUMBUS (AP)—Atty. Gen. William Saxbe has ruled that wage scales set by the Ohio Department of Industrial Relations do not apply to regular employes of the county engineers' department.

Twenty-eight states were territories before their admission to the Union.

Embezzlement Trial Nearing Jury Action

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The embezzlement trial of William F. Robinett Jr., a former Federal Court clerk, is expected to go to the jury today.

"I said if there's anything wrong in the clerk's office, I'm responsible for it. I didn't want (the agent) bothering the employes. I was responsible for any action, funds or discourtesies," Robinett said.

Clyde W. Bate and Ernest Bington, two Justice Department attorneys, testified earlier they discovered the shortage on April 24, 1956, and that Robinett later admitted he converted the $1,000 to his own use.

Robinett, who resigned in May, 1956, after 28 years as a Federal Court clerk, told the court the money in his office was kept in marked envelopes in an open desk drawer and that anyone entering the room had access to the drawer.

Strategic Oil Artery Spans Spain

New Life Line for Western World

By OMER ANDERSON

CADIZ, Spain — A pipeline more important to the security of the Western World than any fuel artery in the Arab lands is going into operation here in Spain.

It is the 480-mile underground line linking the U. S. Strategic Air Command's five bases with the U. S. naval base at Rota, near Cadiz.

This pipeline, key to the success of the entire air base network, stretches diagonally across Spain from Rota to Saragossa.

From the Mediterranean, it traverses the sun-baked Andalusian plain, mounts 2,000 feet to crest the lofty Sierra de Morena with its deep gorges and gaping can ons, and turns northeast through the Spanish Civil warscarred Guadaljara toward the valley of the Ebro.

As a feat of pipeline engineering, SAC's Spanish fuel lifeline surpasses in many respects anything achieved in the Middle East, U. S. Navy tankers discharge fuel loads directly into the pipeline at Rota. The fuel is pumped through the line into vast tank farms spotted at intervals along the artery.

* * *

THE FIRST tank farm, a few miles south of the sherry-wine town of Jerez, has 70 underground tanks, the largest taking 85,000 barrels. Pumping statios boost the fuel from tank farm to farm.

The pipeline passes near all five SAC bases, each of which is linked to the fuel system by a spur. The entire system, including tank farms, is underground, and thus invulnerable to aerial attack and normal sabotage.

Such vast quantities of fuel can be stored in the system that SAC bases, in an emergency, could operate for many weeks without resupply. Furthermcre, the pipeline makes the U. S. military operation in Spain independent of Spanish fuels, and transport difficulties.

Rota, an artificial port constructed by the U. S. Navy, is the most spectacular link in the pipeline system. Here the Navy built a breakwater-protected harbor where oil tankers can offload their cargo into the pipeline.

* * *

ROTA will also serve fleet units in the North African - Mediterranean area. The man-made port has facilities for loading and discharging all types of cargo, including aircraft.

A trick taxi - tow way connects the long pier with the nearby naval air station. Planes can be moved directly between aircraft carriers and the air station.

SAC's Spanish pipeline is unusual in this respect: Loads of jet fuel, aviation gasoline, Diesel oil and lubricants can be moved simultaneously in either direction— and with more than one type of fluid in the pipe at one time.

* * *

SAC's SPANISH headquarters are at Torrejon, 18 miles from Madrid, a base with a 13,400-foot runway taking the biggest planes the Air Force has in operation or on the drawing board.

Spanish pipeline under construction near Saragossa.

The fourth base, at Seville, will be a supply and maintenance center, and the fifth base, the most desolate of all five, is near the village of Moron de la Frontera, 30 miles from Seville. At the Moron base will nest SAC's B47 and B52 jet bombers.

These five bases plus the naval base at Rota give the United States a virtually impregnable sanctuary from any rapid Soviet conquest of Western Europe.

Bricker, Lausche See Alike On Question of Red Sputnik

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio's two senators — John W. Bricker and Frank J. Lausche—appear to see just about eye to eye on the Russian sputnik.

Lausche (D) said in an interview:

"While we ought to be disappointed, I don't believe we should be thrown into consternation and hysteria. We've got to be militarily strong, attempting at all times to strike the proper balance between added strength and fiscal ability."

Bricker (R) is telling the handful of Ohioans who have written him to express fear:

"The launching of the Soviet satellite is an ominous development, tangible proof that Soviet scientists have made considerable progress towards perfecting an intercontinental ballistic missile.

"Nevertheless, I am confident that the United States will soon be able to put up a better satellite—that we are ahead in overall missile technology. . . ."

It is, of course, impossible to judge the reaction of Ohioans to Sputnik, or any other subject, from congressional mail. But it is a fact that the Sputnik mail to the senators has been extremely light.

What mail there is has been sounding the alarm bell. Among the 21 letters received by Bricker was this one from a woman in Dayton:

"I don't mind how high income taxes are if the money is used in defense of our country. News of the Russians surpassing the USA in their satellite is very alarming."

A man in Toledo suggested two steps: 1. "Tell the American people the blunt facts concerning their security." 2. "Take every action regardless of economy or politics to forge ahead in missile and space technology."

"The letters," he said, "are not indicative exactly of the general reaction in Ohio. Reaction throughout the state is to view it (the Sputnik) matter of factly and calmly."

Suburban Dayton Grocery Robbed

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Police are searching today for an armed bandit who robbed a supermarket in suburban Kettering of $2,500 Wednesday night. Louis Trissel, assistant store manager, told police the man claimed his wife had lost a wrist watch in the store. When the two went to the cashier's cage to see if the watch was there, the bandit pulled a gun and emptied the cash register.

Cincy Chiefs Ask Caution In Gas Use

CINCINNATI (AP)—City officials made a new plea today for care in using gas space heaters after a newly married couple and the woman's baby by a previous marriage were found dead in their apartment here.

The victims were Paul Edward Anderson, 18, his bride of six days, Grace, 19, and Mrs. Anderson's 9-month-old baby, Timmie. They died of carbon monoxide fumes from a gas heater.

Charles W. Gruber, chief of the city's heating inspectors, said the heater was vented and connected with a flue but that the flue was clogged with soot and debris. He said the heater also did not have a gas regulator, with the result the flame gave off a greater concentration of fumes.

Gruber urged gas heater users to check the flue and be sure the draft is unobstructed.

The three bodies were found Wednesday after other residents of the building noticed an odor in the hallway. The bodies of Mrs. Anderson and the baby were on a bed and Anderson was lying on a couch nearby.

Louis Loveless, father of the young woman, said the couple was married here Oct. 17 and then went to Anderson's home in Beattyville, Ky., for a honeymoon. They returned to Cincinnati Sunday.

Neighbors said they last saw Anderson alive Monday morning.

County Land Sale Ruling Is Outlined

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Atty. Gen. William Saxbe ruled today counties may not sell county-owned real estate at auction, but may sell only on the written bid of the highest responsible bidder.

The opinion went to Prosecutor Fred E. Jones of Warren County in reply to several questions raised about the sale of land on which the Warren County Memorial Hall is located in Lebanon.

Saxbe said the bids on county-owned land may be sealed or unsealed, whichever is specified in the public advertisement inviting the bids.

OSU Is Given Nod To Buy 86 Acres

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The State Controlling Board has released $345,000 to Ohio State University to buy more than 86 acres of land adjoining its property on the west side of the Olentangy River in Columbus.

Another $859,700 was released to the university to build a fine arts building for the College of Education.

The board also announced at its meeting Wednesday that $20,000 has been released to Atty. Gen. William Saxbe to hire seven attorneys and a clerk-stenographer to handle traffic case in local courts.

Canned Gossip

Speed and Accuracy of Prison Grapevine Baffles Outsiders

By MEL CARLSON

JACKSON, Mich.—How would you like to own a device that reports the news before it happens? One that transmits information with the spread of light, the accuracy of a slide rule and with all the drama of your favorite news commentator?

Well, there is just such a device behind the walls of the world's largest prison. It's called the grapevine.

The grapevine of Southern Michigan prison is a hungry animal. Fed bits of information by 6,000 potential newshawks, the grapevine is a breed of fact, guesswork and deduction. Sometimes it seems almost clairvoyant.

When Warden William Bannon came to Jackson in July of 1952, he found that inmates had known of his appointment before he did. He left the Ionia reformatory, where he held the position of deputy warden on a call from the state capital on July 10 and arrived at noon to find that the post of warden of SMP was open to him if he wanted it. He accepted the offer.

* * *

HOWEVER, on the day he came to take over his new job, Warden Bannon learned that a convict had told a guard of the appointment about 10 a. m. of the same day he was offered the post—two hours before Bannon arrived in Lansing! It is generally agreed that the grapevine is just highly developed gossip but without the usual exaggeration—and prison officials are at a loss to explain just where the information comes from.

* * *

WHEN "the most hated inmate" of Marquette prison was slain by a fellow convict, the grapevine knew the name of the slayer three days before the formal statement was issued.

Penitentiary news travels by word of mouth and outside information filters in with new prisoners, transfers from Marquette prison and the Ionia reformatory and, occasionally, through the guards and prison administrators themselves.

One inmate stated that rumors can often be checked by just asking an official. "After you've been around here for awhile," he said, "you get to know some of the officials pretty well. You can usually tell by the way they deny a rumor whether it's true or not."

The speed of the grapevine is almost phenomenal. Even Warden Bannon uses the inmate "wire service" to his advantage. The warden says that whenever he goes inside the prison gates, regardless of where he is, he can always be located within a few minutes. All his office need do is to call the rotunda.

* * *

"THERE'S always some inmate in the main rotunda who knows where I am," says the warden, "even though I didn't know where I'd be when I left the office!"

The grapevine is a strange animal and some of its antics are odd, unpredictable. When Norman Thornhill was called back to court recently to have one of his prison sentences set aside because someone else had confessed to the crime, he learned of his good fortune through the prison grapevine.

He was on the way to his cell block when a fellow convict came up to him with the news. Thornhill was doubtful at first but the inmate said he had heard it on the 6 o'clock news broadcast.

Thornhill was about to step into his cell when he pulled out his pocket watch and was heard to exclaim, "Now how the devil could he know that? It's only 10 minutes to six!"

Wage Ruling Is Given

COLUMBUS (AP)—Atty. Gen. William Saxbe has ruled that wage scales set by the Ohio Department of Industrial Relations do not apply to regular employes of the county engineers' department.

Twenty-eight states were territories before their admission to the Union.

Embezzlement Trial Nearing Jury Action

"I said if there's anything wrong in the clerk's office, I'm responsible for it. I didn't want (the agent) bothering the employes. I was responsible for any action, funds or discourtesies," Robinett said.

Clyde W. Bate and Ernest Bington, two Justice Department attorneys, testified earlier they discovered the shortage on April 24, 1956, and that Robinett later admitted he converted the $1,000 to his own use.

Robinett, who resigned in May, 1956, after 28 years as a Federal Court clerk, told the court the money in his office was kept in marked envelopes in an open desk drawer and that anyone entering the room had access to the drawer.

Industrialist Says Individual Initiative Hurt

Federal Encroachment Said Not Fiction, but 'Is a Tragic Fact'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An Indiana industrialist said today that federal encroachment upon state and local government responsibilities is destroying individual initiative, free enterprise and state sovereignty.

At the 50th annual convention of the National Tax Assn., Lothair Teetor, a director of Perfect Circle Corp., Hagerstown, Ind., made the strongest criticism of federal tax practices yet voiced in a convention that has heard numerous complaints against government fiscal policies.

In a speech prepared for delivery today, Teetor said: "Federal encroachment is not fiction, it is a tragic fact."

Teetor said the federal government has taken on partial responsibility in such once exclusive state areas as old age assistance, unemployment compensation, employment services, urban renewal and education.

To meet these new responsibilities, Teetor said, the federal government has been obliged to encroach also upon state sources of tax revenue. He added:

"As the citizens of states continue to be bled white by federal taxes, the sources of state and local taxes are dried up, making it seem all the more necessary for the federal government to assume more and more state rsponsibilities. Unless this vicious trend is recognized and reversed, our mere branch offices of the federal state governments will become mere branch offices of the federal government."

Teetor said present federal levies on manufacturers, estates, gifts and other goods are so high that "no self respecting state legislator dare pile a higher state tax on top of the federal tax."

Teetor also criticized personal income taxes as too high. "A tax of 50 to 91 per cent on income over $16,000 a year is not taxation, it is confiscation," he said.

He concluded:

"We the people have given to our lawmakers unlimited power of taxation. To think they could be trusted with such power is to ignore both history and human nature. Congress cannot, or will not, resist the demands of powerful minority groups, if funds are available, or can be made available."

Two other speakers on the day's program dealt with the problem of state-local government relations in the tax field.

Harold P. Alderfer, deputy superintendent of public instruction for Pennsylvania suggested a tax system whereby real property taxes would be levies by local governments for their exclusive benefit, but personal property levies would be made by the state.

He cited the difficulty in collecting personal property taxes on the local leveland the ease with which they are evaded as reasons for turning personal property tax collection over to the state with its more efficient collection means.

State non-property tax revenues, especially on income and sales, should go to metropolitan federations of governments—that is, to cities and their surrounding metropolitan area, Alderfer added.

Allen D. Manvel, chief of the Governments Division of the U.S. Bureau of the Census, reviewed recent trends in state aid to local governments.

He said state aid has been increasing rapidly. It totaled 6.5 billion last year, three times the figure for 1946. At the same time, aid to local governments is not taking an increased fraction of all state revenues, Manvel said. In 1956 the figure was 35.6 per cent of total state revenues. Since 1932, Manvel said, the amount has varied between 33 and 40 per cent.

Most state aid funds are earmarked for specific use by the local government, Manvel said, and there is little sign that general "no strings attached" aid will become an important source of local revenue.

Murder Is Ruled In Cafeman's Death

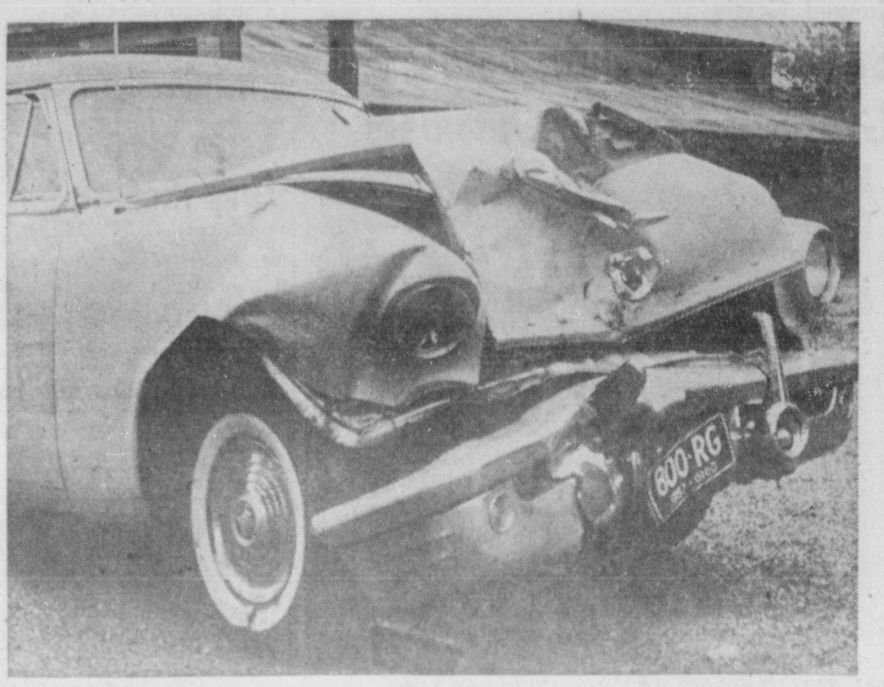
PITTSBURGH (AP)—A ruling of murder was returned by a coroner's jury here Wednesday in the death of Nick Miller of Wheeling, W. Va., a cafe owner and former inmate of Ohio and West Virginia prisons.

The jury was told by police that neither the time nor the cause of Miller's death has been established. Officers believe he died in Pittsburgh Aug. 17.

They said his girl friend Ruby Harrington of Mount Vernon, Ohio, received a call from Miller on the 17th. She told police Miller said he was calling from Pittsburgh.

He Never Left Home

HARWICK, Vt. (AP)—William P. Wesson, 89, died Wednesday in the same room of the home in which he was born in 1868.



DEATH CAR--Three-month-old Charlotte Kay Giffen died of a skull fracture Wednesday morning after this car driven by her father, Robert Giffen, Greenfield, was involved in a three-vehicle collision on the CCC Highway near the Route 238 (Bloomingburg Rd.) intersection. Both parents were injured in the collision and the victim's 4- year-old sister was thrown out of the car but not hurt. Charlotte Kay was being taken to a Colum bus hospital for treatment of a heart ailment when the accident occurred.

Hospital Boosters Committee Aids Bond Issue-Levy Drive

A Hospital Boosters Committee has organized as one means of helping bring before the public some of the pertinent facts regarding the $780,000 bond issue and .65 of a mill operating levy for Fayette Memorial Hospital to appear on the ballot Nov. 5.

The committee is headed by Jospeh E. Peters, head of the National Cash Register Co. plant here. Robert E. Minshall, prominent in publicity and promotional work locally and in the state, is the secretary.

Whatever money the committee may use for publicity purposes in the hospital campaign will not come from Memorial Hospital funds, officials of that institution emphasize. Any money, for such purposes, will be provided by individual contributions.

Among the matters which the committee, through speakers, advertisements and other forms of publicity, hope to make clear to the public, are the following:

* * *

THE NEW PLANS outlined for the proposed improvement would give Fayette's Memorial Hospital additional facilities and furnishings for 60 beds, including a number of private rooms. The demand always has exceeded the supply of such rooms.

The medical-surgical section has been filled up to or beyond capacity much of the time during the past 18 months. This leaves no reserve of bed space available for emergencies of any kind.

There is a manifest need for more adequate facilities to care for cases of suspected contagious diseases in proper isolation.

Physical facilities of the X-Ray, emergency and laboratory departments, and space used for care of out-patients, are inadequate and overcrowded.

The growth of all services and the steady increase in demand has been constant. This often has resulted in a waiting list for admissions.

OFFICE SPACE is inadequate to efficiently expedite the routine work. Locker room and rest areas, originally designed for approximately 50 employes have 120 employes today utilizing this small area.

With patients being forced to occupy halls of the hospital so much of the time, there have been many instances where there was not even one bed in the halls available for an emergency of any kind.

Industrialist Says Individual Initiative Hurt

Federal Encroachment Said Not Fiction, but 'Is a Tragic Fact'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An Indiana industrialist said today that federal encroachment upon state and local government responsibilities is destroying individual initiative, free enterprise and state sovereignty.

At the 50th annual convention of the National Tax Assn., Lothair Teetor, a director of Perfect Circle Corp., Hagerstown, Ind., made the strongest criticism of federal tax practices yet voiced in a convention that has heard numerous complaints against government fiscal policies.

In a speech prepared for delivery today, Teetor said: "Federal encroachment is not fiction, it is a tragic fact."

Teetor said the federal government has taken on partial responsibility in such once exclusive state areas as old age assistance, unemployment compensation, employment services, urban renewal and education.

To meet these new responsibilities, Teetor said, the federal government has been obliged to encroach also upon state sources of tax revenue. He added:

"As the citizens of states continue to be bled white by federal taxes, the sources of state and local taxes are dried up, making it seem all the more necessary for the federal government to assume more and more state rsponsibilities. Unless this vicious trend is recognized and reversed, our mere branch offices of the federal state governments will become mere branch offices of the federal government."

Teetor said present federal levies on manufacturers, estates, gifts and other goods are so high that "no self respecting state legislator dare pile a higher state tax on top of the federal tax."

Teetor also criticized personal income taxes as too high. "A tax of 50 to 91 per cent on income over $16,000 a year is not taxation, it is confiscation," he said.

He concluded:

"We the people have given to our lawmakers unlimited power of taxation. To think they could be trusted with such power is to ignore both history and human nature. Congress cannot, or will not, resist the demands of powerful minority groups, if funds are available, or can be made available."

Two other speakers on the day's program dealt with the problem of state-local government relations in the tax field.

Harold P. Alderfer, deputy superintendent of public instruction for Pennsylvania suggested a tax system whereby real property taxes would be levies by local governments for their exclusive benefit, but personal property levies would be made by the state.

He cited the difficulty in collecting personal property taxes on the local leveland the ease with which they are evaded as reasons for turning personal property tax collection over to the state with its more efficient collection means.

State non-property tax revenues, especially on income and sales, should go to metropolitan federations of governments—that is, to cities and their surrounding metropolitan area, Alderfer added.

Allen D. Manvel, chief of the Governments Division of the U.S. Bureau of the Census, reviewed recent trends in state aid to local governments.

He said state aid has been increasing rapidly. It totaled 6.5 billion last year, three times the figure for 1946. At the same time, aid to local governments is not taking an increased fraction of all state revenues, Manvel said. In 1956 the figure was 35.6 per cent of total state revenues. Since 1932, Manvel said, the amount has varied between 33 and 40 per cent.

Most state aid funds are earmarked for specific use by the local government, Manvel said, and there is little sign that general "no strings attached" aid will become an important source of local revenue.

Murder Is Ruled In Cafeman's Death

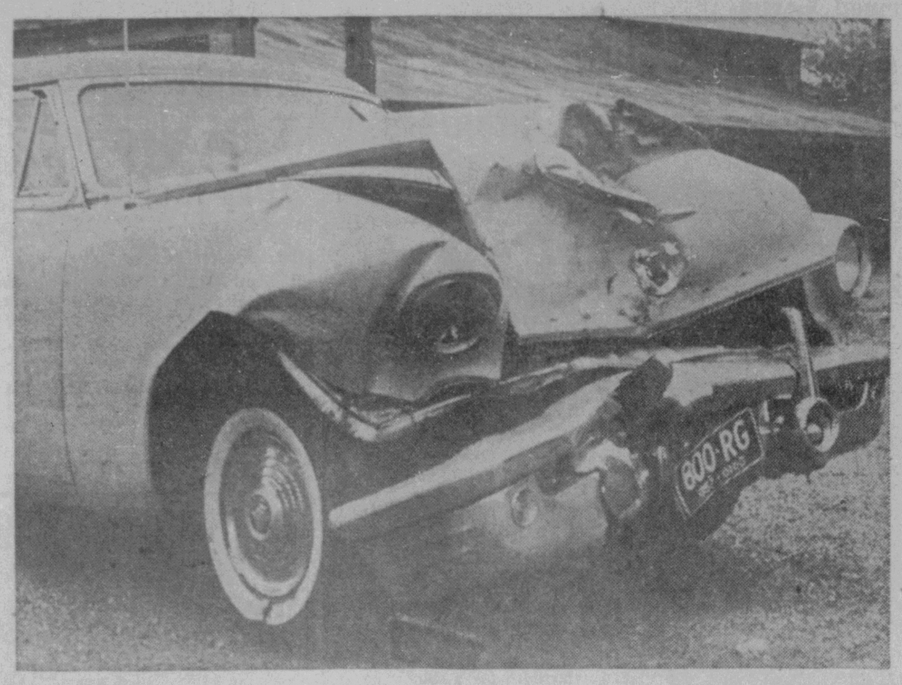
PITTSBURGH (AP)—A ruling of murder was returned by a coroner's jury here Wednesday in the death of Nick Miller of Wheeling, W. Va., a cafe owner and former inmate of Ohio and West Virginia prisons.

The jury was told by police that neither the time nor the cause of Miller's death has been established. Officers believe he died in Pittsburgh Aug. 17.

They said his girl friend Ruby Harrington of Mount Vernon, Ohio, received a call from Miller on the 17th. She told police Miller said he was calling from Pittsburgh.

He Never Left Home

HARWICK, Vt. (AP)—William P. Wesson, 89, died Wednesday in the same room of the home in which he was born in 1868.



DEATH CAR--Three-month-old Charlotte Kay Giffen died of a skull fracture Wednesday morning after this car driven by her father, Robert Giffen, Greenfield, was involved in a three-vehicle collision on the CCC Highway near the Route 238 (Bloomingburg Rd.) intersection. Both parents were injured in the collision and the victim's 4- year-old sister was thrown out of the car but not hurt. Charlotte Kay was being taken to a Colum bus hospital for treatment of a heart ailment when the accident occurred.

Hospital Boosters Committee Aids Bond Issue-Levy Drive

A Hospital Boosters Committee has organized as one means of helping bring before the public some of the pertinent facts regarding the $780,000 bond issue and .65 of a mill operating levy for Fayette Memorial Hospital to appear on the ballot Nov. 5.

The committee is headed by Jospeh E. Peters, head of the National Cash Register Co. plant here. Robert E. Minshall, prominent in publicity and promotional work locally and in the state, is the secretary.

Whatever money the committee may use for publicity purposes in the hospital campaign will not come from Memorial Hospital funds, officials of that institution emphasize. Any money, for such purposes, will be provided by individual contributions.

Among the matters which the committee, through speakers, advertisements and other forms of publicity, hope to make clear to the public, are the following:

• • •

THE NEW PLANS outlined for the proposed improvement would give Fayette's Memorial Hospital additional facilities and furnishings for 60 beds, including a number of private rooms. The demand always has exceeded the supply of such rooms.

The medical-surgical section has been filled up to or beyond capacity much of the time during the past 18 months. This leaves no reserve of bed space available for emergencies of any kind.

There is a manifest need for more adequate facilities to care for cases of suspected contagious diseases in proper isolation.

Physical facilities of the X-Ray, emergency and laboratory departments, and space used for care of out-patients, are inadequate and overcrowded.

The growth of all services and the steady increase in demand has been constant. This often has resulted in a waiting list for admissions.

OFFICE SPACE is inadequate to efficiently expedite the routine work. Locker room and rest areas, originally designed for approximately 50 employes have 120 employes today utilizing this small area.

With patients being forced to occupy halls of the hospital so much of the time, there have been many instances where there was not even one bed in the halls available for an emergency of any kind.

Frank Boylan, superintendent of mails at the Washington C. H. post office, announced Wednesday that the department already is preparing for the Christmas rush. Arrangements have been completed, to rent an extra truck from the Department of Agriculture for the last three weeks of Decembar.

Reporting the office's receipts for the third quarter of the year, Boylan said that the Washington C. H. office had receipts of $37,217 during July, August and September. That is an increase of 6.1 per cent over the same period last year when third quarter receipts totaled $35,163.

PORTSMOUTH (AP) — Production has resumed at the New Boston plant of the Portsmouth Division, Detroit Steel Corp., after striking members of Local 2116, United Steelworkers of America, were ordered back to work. They walked off the job following a dispute over incentive pay.

What's Brewing In Mideast— War or Peace?

Editor's Note: Following is the last in a series of three articles by the top Associated Press news analysts reviewing the background and conditions in the tense Middle East.

By MAX HARRELSON

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — There is a widespread feeling here that the Turkish-Syrian crisis itself is not as important as what is behind it.

Few delegates believe that war is imminent — unless it should come by accident, touched off by some unplanned clash against the background of inflamed passions.

Many of these delegates see the crisis as a Soviet adventure into brinkmanship — as a situation manufactured in Moscow to further an all-out Soviet drive for domination of the Middle East.

The situation is undeniably serious. But because the delegates feel the crisis is not really genuine, it has not produced the same sense of urgency as was prevalent last year when the assembly dealt with the invasion of Egypt by Britain, France and Israel.

There was real fear of a global war when the Soviet Union threatened to send volunteers as it called them, to Egypt.

This sense of urgency was present also during the crucial days of the Korean War when it threatened to explode into a third world war.

Today the Soviet Union is trying hard to make out a convincing case that war is near and that the United States is promoting it. But the General Assembly has shown no inclination toward haste.

The Russians attack western imperialism, Zionism, NATO, the Baghdad Pact and the Eisenhower Doctrine as causes of Middle East tension. At the same time they praise Arab nationalism and urge noninterference in the internal affairs of Arab countries.

This line apparently is intended to woo Arab support while turning the people against any governments which remain friendly to the West.

The main problem of the United States and other non-Communist countries at the moment is to master a strategy which will turn the tables on the Russians and show their real role in the Middle East.

Syria had indicated it wants a U. N. commission to investigate the massing of Turkish troops along the Syrian border.

Canada's Lester B. Pearson and British Labor leader Hugh Gaitskell have suggested that the U.N. send a border patrol, similar to the Middle East emergency force, to the troubled area.

There are other possibilities which might be used either independently or in combination with each other. For example, the U.N. might:

1. Offer military, financial and economic aid to any country in the area that becomes the victim of an attack.

2 Call on all member countries to stop sending arms to the area and to avoid interfering in the internal affairs of any country.

3. Urge a meeting of the heads of the governments of the United States, Britain, France and Russia to seek a solution.

This last is being urged by the Soviet Union. The United States and Britain are cool toward it.

Syrian Civilians Training For Possible Street Fighting

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—A group of men, rifles in hand, dived to the ground at a given signal, sprawled on their stomachs and began firing in a partially completed football stadium.

This was the scene today at one training center for Syria's Popular Resistance organization—a movement composed of tens of thousands of civilians in the Arab nation's "irregular army."

The organization has moved into high gear since tension increased over Turkish troop concentrations on the Syrian border.

Some 400 civilian volunteers turned up for the football-field firing practice not far from the heart of Damascus. Many were youngsters who looked as if they had just entered their teens. Some wore the PR uniform — olive green coveralls — but most were in street clothes.

The scene was typical of what is happening throughout Syria. In Damascus, Aleppo, Homs and Latakia — all key cities — members of the resistance organization are receiving battle instruction for the "sacred self-protection" of Syria.

They are being trained for street fighting. Weapons are being distributed in various cities. The army chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Afif Bizry, has called on the volunteers to wage relentless guerrilla warfare in the event of an invasion.

One of the Damascus group, 15-year-old Fathi Atack, said he joined the movement to "defend the Arab homeland which extends from the Atlantic to the Arab (Persian) Gulf."

Does he believe the Turks will attack Syria? "Yes," said Fathi. Why? "Because they are massing troops on our border."

Reports from Aleppo said the local governor, at a ceremony yesterday, gave the signal to the public resistance organization to start digging trenches around the city and in northern areas close to the Turkish border.

Cucumbers Up a Tree

DURANT, Okla. (AP)—No one believed J. T. Bruce when he told friends he was picking cucumbers from his pear tree.

They went to see, and sure enough, he was. A closer inspection showed the cumcumber vines had climbed up the tree and fruited.

Supply of Ladies' Woollies Plentiful

LONDON (AP)—The British War Office admits it has enough long woollen drawers to last the Women's Royal Army Corps for the next 800 years.

In response to questions, Sir Edward Playfair, undersecretary of state for the War Office, conceded there was "an enormous surplus" of "women's pants, woollen, long." The girls just won't wear them, even in winter.

Taxpayers Seen Getting Future Relief

COLUMBUS (AP) — Taxpayers throughout the nation may get a break in state taxes during the next few years, says the research director of the National Assn. of Tax Administrators. The outlook is for more new state taxes, he adds, but they should be considerably lower than forecast.

The prediction was voiced by Leon Rothenberg at Tuesdays session of the 50th annual meeting of the National Taxation Assn. here. The five-day conference ends Friday.

About half of the 45 states that are represented this year raised taxes, Rothenberg said, but none are major taxes.

"There were even some instances of tax reduction," he said, adding that it could be a good sign of things to come.

Rothenberg cautioned delegates, however, that the "moderation" in this year's tax picture "should not be construed as a turning point in postwar tax trends." More new taxes will be enacted, he said, although perhaps not at such a high rate of increase as previously forecast.

In another address, Gov. C. William O'Neill said revenue needs of state and local governments have been increasing at an "alarming rate" because of the continuing demand to provide a growing population with services.

Canada's Lester B. Pearson and British Labor leader Hugh Gaitskell have suggested that the U.N. send a border patrol, similar to the Middle East emergency force, to the troubled area.

There are other possibilities which might be used either independently or in combination with each other. For example, the U.N. might:

1. Offer military, financial and economic aid to any country in the area that becomes the victim of an attack.

2 Call on all member countries to stop sending arms to the area and to avoid interfering in the internal affairs of any country.

3. Urge a meeting of the heads of the governments of the United States, Britain, France and Russia to seek a solution.

This last is being urged by the Soviet Union. The United States and Britain are cool toward it.

Syrian Civilians Training For Possible Street Fighting

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—A group of men, rifles in hand, dived to the ground at a given signal, sprawled on their stomachs and began firing in a partially completed football stadium.

This was the scene today at one training center for Syria's Popular Resistance organization—a movement composed of tens of thousands of civilians in the Arab nation's "irregular army."

The organization has moved into high gear since tension increased over Turkish troop concentrations on the Syrian border.

Some 400 civilian volunteers turned up for the football-field firing practice not far from the heart of Damascus. Many were youngsters who looked as if they had just entered their teens. Some wore the PR uniform — olive green coveralls — but most were in street clothes.

The scene was typical of what is happening throughout Syria. In Damascus, Aleppo, Homs and Latakia — all key cities — members of the resistance organization are receiving battle instruction for the "sacred self-protection" of Syria.

They are being trained for street fighting. Weapons are being distributed in various cities. The army chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Afif Bizry, has called on the volunteers to wage relentless guerrilla warfare in the event of an invasion.

One of the Damascus group, 15-year-old Fathi Atack, said he joined the movement to "defend the Arab homeland which extends from the Atlantic to the Arab (Persian) Gulf."

Does he believe the Turks will attack Syria? "Yes," said Fathi. Why? "Because they are massing troops on our border."

Reports from Aleppo said the local governor, at a cermony yesterday, gave the signal to the public resistance organization to start digging trenches around the city and in northern areas close to the Turkish border.

Cucumbers Up a Tree

DURANT, Okla. (AP)—No one believed J. T. Bruce when he told friends he was picking cucumbers from his pear tree.

They went to see, and sure enough, he was. A closer inspection showed the cumcumber vines had climbed up the tree and fruited.

Supply of Ladies' Woollies Plentiful

LONDON (AP)—The British War Office admits it has enough long woollen drawers to last the Women's Royal Army Corps for the next 800 years.

In response to questions, Sir Edward Playfair, undersecretary of state for the War Office, conceded there was "an enormous surplus" of "women's pants, woollen, long." The girls just won't wear them, even in winter.

Taxpayers Seen Getting Future Relief

COLUMBUS (AP) — Taxpayers throughout the nation may get a break in state taxes during the next few years, says the research director of the National Assn. of Tax Administrators. The outlook is for more new state taxes, he adds, but they should be considerably lower than forecast.

The prediction was voiced by Leon Rothenberg at Tuesdays session of the 50th annual meeting of the National Taxation Assn. here. The five-day conference ends Friday.

About half of the 45 states that are represented this year raised taxes, Rothenberg said, but none are major taxes.

"There were even some instances of tax reduction," he said, adding that it could be a good sign of things to come.

Rothenberg cautioned delegates, however, that the "moderation" in this year's tax picture "should not be construed as a turning point in postwar tax trends." More new taxes will be enacted, he said, although perhaps not at such a high rate of increase as previously forecast.

In another address, Gov. C. William O'Neill said revenue needs of state and local governments have been increasing at an "alarming rate" because of the continuing demand to provide a growing population with services.

'Able and Available' Or No Jobless Pay!

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the third in a series of four articles on unemployment compensation.

One of the main requirements of the Ohio Unemployment Compensation Law is that the worker be able and available for work.

This requirement forms the basis for the third in a list of six eligibility questions which are being discussed in this series of articles.

The questions appear on the weekly claim form which every claimant must fill in and present each time he reports at the local "unemployment office" to file a claim.

Today's question, number three on the Claim Form, is "Were you able to work, available for work, and unable to obtain work?"

* * *

TO BE ELIGIBLE for benefits, an individual must be able physically to perform full-time work of a suitable nature. Health, age and physical condition are factors, although age, in itself, does not preclude an individual from being considered able and available for work.

Even if released by his employer because he is no longer physically able to perform his regular duties, he may be considered able and available if he can perform work of a lighter nature.

Obviously, if an individual is incapacitated by injury or illness he is not able or available for work. If a worker fails to report to the Bureau on his regular reporting day because of illness, he is considered unable to work during the week in which he fails to report.

However, the question here would be the worker's ability to accept work on the day of illness if work were offered.

* * *

NON-AVAILABILITY for work is a phrase which embraces a multitude of "sins"—such sins being instances in which the worker fails to comply with the law. For the most part, they fall into two groups: (1) being tied up with interest or activities which prevent him from accepting work if offered; and (2) removing himself from the area where his wage credits were earned to a locality where similar work is not be found.

If a worker absents himself from the locality where he is registered for work, he may be considered not available unless he can show it was for the purpose of looking for work, or that his absence was for so short a time that his availability is not affected.

Neither is a worker supposed to limited his availability by reason of domestic circumstances such as illness in the family, care of children, household duties, etc.

* * *

MOVING one's residence may also be a disqualifying factor. If John Doe moves his family from one address to another in the same local area, he is still considered available and the move does not disqualify him.

But if he moves from one local area to another, he is not considered available during the week in which he makes the move.

In short, John Doe must pretty well stay "put" and remain in readiness to accept work if he is to be considered "available for work" within the meaning of the Ohio law.

City Manager Setup OKd by Toledo Group

TOLEDO (AP)—The executive committee of the Toledo Chamber of Commerce voted Tuesday to support continuation of the city manager form of government in Toledo.

The Chamber said it took a poll in which its members indicated they favored the city manager government 20-1. In the November election, voters will ballot on a proposal to amend the city charter to provide a strong mayor form of government.

Ike's Brother Unaware of Visit

"What's your name?" the agent asked the lawyer.

"Eisenhower," the lawyer answered.

James C. Hagerty, the President's press secretary, whirled about and said, "Hello, Edgar, I didn't know you were in town."

The President's brother told Hagerty he was in New York on private business, unaware until Tuesday that the President would be in the city.

Weakness Said No Route To Negotiate Disarmament

CINCINNATI (AP)—An alternate United States representative to the General Assembly of the United Nations declared here today that "disarmament cannot be negotiated through weakness."

Philip M. Klutznick, speaking before the Cincinnati chapter of the American Assn. for the United Nations on observance of United Nations Day said it is not incongrous to talk disarmament in the midst of accelerated search for deadlier weapons.

"We are kidding ourselves," he said, "when we fail to recognize that the formula to end the arms race must be predicated on strength.

"Disarmament cannot be negotiated through weakness. The others are not conditioned to buy it that way. The promise of disarmament can be kept alive only so long as the United States and the Western allies remain on equal terms of strength, or stronger, than the other fellows at the bargaining table."

Klutznick said the quarrel with Russia is over its "demonstrated unwillingness" to accept a peaceful relationship of live and let live.

"They preach it," he said, "but the sound comes out hollow when you count up their transgressions.

"There is only one rebuttal to Soviet imperialism. It is a free world made strong and secure, not alone by nuclear weapons, but by an independence of spirit by economic abundance and by the positive advantages of progress and wisdom that accrue to free men. These are the basic ingredients needed in the struggle for peace in our troubled world."

Klutznick likened the search for peace to a poker game. He said:

"If we have learned anything from recent history it is that we can't play the game at the conference table without an impressive pile of chips. We can't bluff for peace with a weak hole card."

Klutznick asserted an increasing federal budget is not necessarily wrong.

"The price of peace is high," he said, "but never so costly as war. As a nation, we have never hesitated to pay the price of war. Is it not senseless for us to hedge on the price of peace?

"In the circumstances of this decade, it is suicidal for us not to pay the price willingly, gladly. For peace in our time is no longer a mere hope that burns in man's soul, it is an imperative of his life."

"We are kidding ourselves," he said, "when we fail to recognize that the formula to end the arms race must be predicated on strength.

"Disarmament cannot be negotiated through weakness. The others are not conditioned to buy it that way. The promise of disarmament can be kept alive only so long as the United States and the Western allies remain on equal terms of strength, or stronger, than the other fellows at the bargaining table."

Klutznick said the quarrel with Russia is over its "demonstrated unwillingness" to accept a peaceful relationship of live and let live.

"They preach it," he said, "but the sound comes out hollow when you count up their transgressions.

"There is only one rebuttal to Soviet imperialism. It is a free world made strong and secure, not alone by nuclear weapons, but by an independence of spirit by economic abundance and by the positive advantages of progress and wisdom that accrue to free men. These are the basic ingredients needed in the struggle for peace in our troubled world."

Klutznick likened the search for peace to a poker game. He said:

"If we have learned anything from recent history it is that we can't play the game at the conference table without an impressive pile of chips. We can't bluff for peace with a weak hole card."

Klutznick asserted an increasing federal budget is not necessarily wrong.

"The price of peace is high," he said, "but never so costly as war. As a nation, we have never hesitated to pay the price of war. Is it not senseless for us to hedge on the price of peace?

"In the circumstances of this decade, it is suicidal for us not to pay the price willingly, gladly. For peace in our time is no longer a mere hope that burns in man's soul, it is an imperative of his life."

Actress Joan Has Clocked 175,000 Miles on Job

That Collins Kid Sure Can Travel!

By ARMAND ARCHERD
Central Press Assn.

HOLLYWOOD — The world's wolves need wings to keep up with Hollywood's most - sought - after beauty, Joan Collins, who's also Hollywood's most - travelled glamour puss.

The green-eyed doll with the figure which looks best in bikinis has chalked up 175,000 miles in the past year between her film and social jaunts. What's more she wants to continue same, although preferably while being paid for her travels.

For "Island in the Sun" she travelled 6,000 miles each way to the British West Indies locations, then on to London for interiors of the film. Next, she vacationed, at her own expense, in Acapulco, Mexico.

Collins had once before visited Jamaica for "Seawife," earlier Egypt for "Land of the Pharoahs" and she also had trips to Paris, London and Rome. She made Spain on "Our Girl Friday" and, when back in Hollywood was shipped to Las Vegas for "Opposite Sex."

• • •

"I HAVE no emotional entanglements," she winked, "and I've got itching feet — so I figure I might as well satisfy my urge to travel while I'm unattached."

Joan is a very hep young lady of 24 who makes the gossip columns regularly with all the eligible young men about Hollywood. But she claims she doesn't date any more than a normal gal her age.

"I want to get married again some day, because I want to have children," she confides. I made one mistake (she was married to Maxwell Reed in 1952, divorced in June, 1957) and that's enough.

"I want to wed for life. And I figure I have about another 50 years of living to do, so that's an awfully long time to spend with one person and I want to be very certain before I marry again. When I do, I really want it to be forever."

• • •

SHE HAS NO problem in choosing from men all over the globe. However, she now thinks the men of Mexico are most fascinating, whereas Japan held little interest for her since that's "strictly a man's world."

She's had no complaints about the variety of roles the locations have afforded her.

"I played my first so - called normal role in "Island in the Sun," she said. "I played a nun in Seawife, a 30-year-old, sloppy, soused wife in "The Wayward Bus" and an airlines traffic manager who gets involved in mysterious doings in "Stopover Tokyo." I can't complain of being typed.

"There's only one trouble with working on locations: you get very few days off. And then you shop like mad and spend everything you earn!"

• • •

"Sex has nothing to do with one's figure or one's measurements. Having a 36 - inch bust doesn't mean you're sexy. You can be sexy with an 18-inch bust. A bosom is something that was made for one purpose— nursing babies, so why all the fuss about it?

"AS FOR GLAMOR—that's something very few women have. To me, Marlene Dietrich has it, Ava Gardner, Marilyn Monroe, Garbo, Dorothy Dandridge, each has it in her own way.

"It's a wordlinness which you simply don't get in young girls, no matter how pretty they are. It has something to do with having lived and how you react to how you've lived."

Chuck Roast, Poultry, Pork Are Featured

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three old favorites will vie for housewives' attention at meat counters around the country this weekend. They are chuck roast, poultry and pork.

Roast lion of pork is probably the best bet for the price - conscious shopper with reductions advertised by major food chains ranging from 4 to 10 cents a pound. It can be served with apple sauce, cabbage or sauerkraut, all available at marked-down prices.

Turkeys are in more than ample supply. By Thanksgiving week prices are likely to be a little higher than now but they'll still be four, five or six cents a pound lower than last Thanksgiving.

Other outstanding buys in fruits include pears, notable the Bartlett and Bosc varieties, and California grapes—especially Emperor and Thompson seedless.

Egg prices show mixed trends this week. Generally speaking the most expensive eggs — the large grade A whites — are down a little, while the medium-sized and pullet varieties are higher.

New Kind of Flower

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Nobody knows how a watermelen seed got into Mrs. M. B. Riviere's flower bed. She just let it grow and soon it was attracting the attention of the neighbors. It bore a 56-pound melon.

Americans Now Buying More Dairy Products

Their purchases in the April-June quarter of this year were 6 per cent larger than in the corresponding period last year and 10 per cent over that of the Ap June quarter three years ago.

Officials said these increases apparently reflect joint efforts of the government and the dairy industry to promote consumptior of fluid milk as one means of slowing down the pile-up of surplus dairy products in government hands under price support programs.

Lemuel Trotter Loses On Execution Appeal

CINCINNATI (AP)—The First District Court of Appeals has reset to Jan. 21, 1958, the date for the execution of Lemuel Trotter, slayer of a Cincinnati detective.

A three-judge Appellate Court recently denied an appeal for a new trial. An appeal to the Ohio Supreme Court is being prepared. Trotter originally was scheduled to go to the electric chair in Columbus on Aug. 16.

Trotter was convicted of shooting fatally Detective Walter Hart during a cafe holdup in 1955 Robert (Hambone) Jackson, also was convicted of first degree murder in the slaying. He has appealed to the Ohio Supreme Court.

Wisconsin To Defeat Bucks by Point, So Says AP Sports Editor

By JERRY LISKA
Midwest AP Sports Editor

CHICAGO (AP)—Now is the time for all good omens to come to the aid of this midwest football seer:

Chastened by Purdue and Illinois, the old prognosticator flips the form sheet out the window and starts riding hunches with a .781 batting average on a 25-7 season record:

Wisconsin 14, Ohio State 13—A blue plate special. The Buckeyes are getting away from that home cooking and the Badgers are aching for revenge. Wisconsin hasn't defeated Ohio State since 1946 and for a long while feared that Howie (Hopalong) Cassady would never graduate. Ohio State ranks fifth nationally in rushing and Wisconsin seventh. The Buckeyes won't be playing Indiana this Saturday.

Michigan 20, Minnesota 14 — Again we pick against the board. The Wolverines will be waiting for Bobby Cox this time. Last season, Cox hit his peak in a 20-7 Gopher triumph at Michigan. Illinois proved Minnesota vulnerable to speed and passing. Michigan has speed in Jim Pace and passing in Stan Noskin. Also, the Wolverines want back that Little Brown Jug.

Indiana 14, Villanova 7—Villanova is a one-touchdown favorite, but the Hoosiers ought to be mighty mad at everybody by now. Even a doormat can wrinkle up and trip somebody. It may be the only time Hoosier fans can see how the Side Saddle T works when it works.

Notre Dame 18, Pittsburgh 13—On the theory that a good midwestern team can beat a good eastern team almost any Saturday. The Fighting Irish are unbeaten in three starts, racking up Purdue, Indiana and Army. A week after losing to the Irish, 23-21, Army last Saturday measured Pitt, 29-13. If Notre Dame can conquer Pitt and Navy the following Saturday, the Nov. 9 Irish invasion of Michigan State may be pretty exciting.

Michigan State 20, Illinois 13—The Illini won't ambush the Spartans again. Last year, Illinois knocked MSU from top ranking with a sizzling 20-13 upset. This time, the Illini invade East Lansing, Mich., a week after inspired Purdue did the same thing to the Spartans by the same score. Coach Duffy Daugherty won't need to give MSU much of a pep talk.

Iowa 21, Northwestern 7—The only thing that can beat the Hawkeyes in this one is overconfidence. Iowa leads the nation in overall offense and Northwestern is winless in four games. It will take a lot of Wildcat passing and Bob Mc Keiver's best running to prevent a rout.

Purdue 21, Miami 6—The Boilermakers may relax after upsetting Michigan State, the nation's No. 1 team, but still should mow down the Redskins. It's the biggest game of the season for Miami, the Ohio college which sent Ara Parseghian to Northwestern.

Texas Christian 28, Marquette 6—The Warriors' warcry has become a weekly "ouch."

Snead, Demaret Far Ahead in Test

TOKYO (AP)—A course record 67 by Sam Snead and a 69 by Jimmy Demaret sent the United States off to an imposing five-stroke lead today in defense of the international Canada Cup golf crown.

Putting the Kasumigaseki Country Club's rough korai grass greens as if they were marble-topped, the two veteran Yanks outclassed handpicked professionals from 29 other nations in the opening round of the 72-hole medal play tournament.

Five strokes back in second place came the surprising Japanese tandem of Torakichi Nakamura and Koichi Ono.

Band Night Show Postponed

Oak Hill to Play WHS Tonight

There will be a football game at Gardner Park here tonight and the reserved seat season tickets for this date will be good.

This was decided definitely late Wednesday afternoon by Washington C. H. High School officials.

The WHS Lions will meet the boys from Oak Hill, substituting for the Bellville team, which was unable to make the trip because of illness.

Whether the Bellville game will be played on Nov. 21 is still uncertain. Athletic Director Fred Domenico said Thursday morning it is doubtful.

• • •

TONIGHT also was to have been Band Night, the night the seniors in the WHS marching band say farewell, but because of illness, the ceremonies have been postponed to Nov. 15, when they will be combined with the Homecoming show during the halftime of the postponed Wilmington game.

The spotlight will be turned on the seniors at this time as they make their way through the traditional hourglass.

Robert Neumann, WHS band director, said Thursday morning that the Band Night ceremonies will not be held at tonight's game because 29 members of the 100-piece band were not in school.

Neumann said those members of the band not ill will be at tonight's game to play from the band's section in the stadium, but that they will not be in uniform and will not march on the field.

• • •

DOMENICO made it plain that since the season tickets will be good tonight for the Oak Hill game, tickets for the Bellville game, if it is played, will have to be purchased at the gate that night.

Little is known about the Oak Hill team. Since it was not on the Lion schedule, no attempt has been made to scout it, Domenico said. However, he added that "you can bet that it will be a good game. . .We don't know what plays they use, and they don't know what we use, but Dave Winefordner (Oak Hill coach) always has a good team."

Domenico went on to explain that Winefordner was assistant coach when he was the head coach at Adena High School, near Steubenville.

Oak Hill High School Domenico said, is not quite as big as the school here, but it always has had good sports teams. Oak Hill is in Jackson County.

• • •

THE LIONS went through a light workout Wednesday evening, first concentrating on signal drill for timing and co-ordination, and then on a defense for the offense Oak Hill is expected to use.

Four of the varsity squad were not out for practice, but Chuck Hire, a quarterback, and Jack Anders, the regular left end, are expected to be ready to go at least part time tonight. Bob Huff, guard and linebacker, and Doug Rider, the center, are not likely even to be in uniform, Domenico said.

While the Lions have one, and possibly two, postponed games ahead, this is not the only team that has been handicapped by illness—and postponments. Here are a few of them in this part of Ohio:

Columbus Aquinas at Columbus North (Thursday to Saturday)
New Albany at Mifflin (indefinitely)
Hamilton Twp. at Marion-Franklin (indefinitely)
Liberty Union at Millersport (indefinitely)
Greenfield vs Circleville (indefinitely)
Columbus Academy at Frankfort (indefinitely)
Cambridge at Chillicothe (Nov. 11)
Bellevue at Upper Sandusky (until November, date uncertain)
Portsmouth at Steubenville (indefinitely)
Portsmouth East . Portsmouth Notre Dame (Nov. 5)
Wheelersburg at South Point (indefinitely)
Columbus Rosary at Franklin Heights (Nov. 15)

Fayette Group Requests Lake Improvements

Petitions signed by nearly 100 Fayette Countians are now ready to be presented to the Ohio State Division of Parks asking that more and better facilities be provided at Rocky Fork Lake, east of Hillsboro.

A hue and cry has been raised in recent months by Ohioans who spend their free time boating, fishing, water skiing and swimming at the state-built lake. State officials have been criticized for not providing better facilities. Sportsmen argue that the state has already spent over one and a quarter million dollars on the lake, but is reluctant to spend a few thousand more to make the lake facilities adequate for the tremendous crowds that have appeared at the lake during the summer.

• • •

MANY WHO have more or less permanent residences or cabins on the lake shore have joined the battle claiming that the state should revamp its policies of administration. More convenient docking facilities and better sanitary facilities are high on the list of requested improvements.

Leader of the petition movement in Washington C. H. has been Robert Wolfrom, 812 Broadway, who owns a house trailer at the lake and also a boat. He reports that from 25,000 to 50,000 people visited the lake each weekend this past summer and that, without exception, facilities proved inadequate.

Big Ten's Best Yard Gainers To Duel Saturday

CHICAGO (AP)—Two of the Big Ten's best yard gainers, quarterbacks Tom Haller of Illinois and Jim Ninowski of Michigan State, meet head-on Saturday in a statistical showdown.

Official conference statistics showed today that the two gridders dominate major yard-making departments. Illinois is MSU's homecoming foe in one of the top Big Ten football attractions.

Ninowski is ranked the No. 1 passer of the Big Ten with 22 completions in 33 attempts for 375 yards and 4 touchdowns. Haller is second with 17 out of 26 connections for 306 yards and 2 TD's.

Ninowski, despite a minus 29 yards rushing, is the total offense leader with a net total of 346 yards and a 7.9 average per play. Haller is second with an 18-yard rushing gain to boost his total to 324 for a 9.5 average.

Boyd Collects Nod Over German Boxer

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—Onetime top middleweight contender Bobby Boyd of Chicago scored a 10-round unanimous decision over Franz Szuzina of Germany Wednesday night in a bout that saw only the referee hit the deck.

Szuzina, who weighed 159, sent Referee Joe Palmer to the canvas after the seventh-round bell as the official was trying to break the fighters. Boyd was a pound over the middleweight limit at 161.

Detroit Sees Pro Cage Debut

City's New Piston '5' Falters Before Celtics

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Detroit — often called the best sports town in the world—officially welcomed its fourth professional sport Wednesday night with a near-11,000 turnout for the city's first taste of professional basketball in more than a decade.

Big Bill Russell and his Boston Celtics spoiled the welcome party at Olympia Stadium with a 105-94 triumph but it was a success anyway, with lots of basketball, an occasional brawl, a 16-piece orchestra and a smattering of politics.

The New York Knicks downed the St. Louis Hawks, defending western division champs, 112-95 in the opener of the National Basketball Assn. doubleheader that lasted five hours.

"We're in Detroit for a long time," said a smiling Fred Zollner, who brought the Pistons to Detroit after 16 years in Fort Wayne.

Michigan's Gov. G. Mennen Williams and City Councilwoman Mary Beck gave official welcomes and representatives of the city's other professional clubs—the Tigers, Lions and Red Wings—were on hand.

The Celtics, defending world champions, pulled away from the Pistons in the third period and waltzed home to their second straight triumph as Detroit's two big scorers, George Yardley and Walter Dukes, fouled out in the final period.

Yardley had 20 and Dukes 19 for the Pistons, who led 64-54 in the third period before the champions pulled ahead to stay.

Tall man Ray Felix of the Knicks and Charlie Share of the Hawks provided most of the excitement in the opener with a lively bit of fist swinging in the second period. Neither player was banished.

Felix scored 22 points and paced the Knicks, who successfully defensed high-scoring Bob Pettit, holding the one-time LSU star to nine points.

Fred Haney Surprised by Pilot Award

WILLIAMS, Ariz. (AP) — "It's a surprise to me," Fred Haney said Wednesday night when informed he had been named National League Manager of the Year in the annual Associated Press poll.

Haney, who led the Milwaukee Braves to their first pennant and world championship, was resting in his motel room in this northern Arizona community. He asked for details. A few paragraphs of an Associated Press story were read.

"That's terrific," he said.

"Naturally I'm honored and very happy about it. We are on our way to Los Angeles and just stopped here for the night. I hadn't heard a thing about it."

Haney won in a close vote over Fred Hutchinson, pilot of the second-place St. Louis Cards.

Haney received 90 votes and Hutchinson 84 of the 180 cast by members of the Baseball Writers Assn. of America. Mayor Smith of the Philadelphia Phillies was named on five ballots and Bill Rigney of the New York Giants on one.

The Braves manager said, "I'll be honest. Up until a couple of days ago, I was too busy thinking about other things to even consider I would get this honor."

He wouldn't take all the credit. He said, "The fellows on the ball club do the work. It just takes some effort to guide them."

Statistics Show Browns Lagging

Leading ground gainer on the team is rookie fullback Jim Brown, with 209 yards on 58 carries, an average of 3.6 yards. That's eighth in the league.

Detroit To Host Title Ring Bout

DETROIT (AP)— Detroit, which hasn't had a championship boxing match since Ezzard Charles decisioned Jersey Joe Walcott in 15 rounds on March 7, 1951, has officially been awarded a January light heavyweight title bout.

The Malay people consider it extremely bad taste to betray emotions, such as laughter. Conversely, Samoans love to laugh—even at very sad movies. The Samoans recognize sorrow only when it is real.

Wisconsin To Defeat Bucks by Point, So Says AP Sports Editor

By JERRY LISKA
Midwest AP Sports Editor

CHICAGO (AP)—Now is the time for all good omens to come to the aid of this midwest football seer:

Chastened by Purdue and Illinois, the old prognosticator flips the form sheet out the window and starts riding hunches with a .781 batting average on a 25-7 season record:

Wisconsin 14, Ohio State 13—A blue plate special. The Buckeyes are getting away from that home cooking and the Badgers are aching for revenge. Wisconsin hasn't defeated Ohio State since 1946 and for a long while feared that Howie (Hopalong) Cassady would never graduate. Ohio State ranks fifth nationally in rushing and Wisconsin seventh. The Buckeyes won't be playing Indiana this Saturday.

Michigan 20, Minnesota 14 — Again we pick against the board. The Wolverines will be waiting for Bobby Cox this time. Last season, Cox hit his peak in a 20-7 Gopher triumph at Michigan. Illinois proved Minnesota vulnerable to speed and passing. Michigan has speed in Jim Pace and passing in Stan Noskin. Also, the Wolverines want back that Little Brown Jug.

Indiana 14, Villanova 7—Villanova is a one-touchdown favorite, but the Hoosiers ought to be mighty mad at everybody by now. Even a doormat can wrinkle up and trip somebody. It may be the only time Hoosier fans can see how the Side Saddle T works when it works.

Notre Dame 18, Pittsburgh 13—On the theory that a good midwestern team can beat a good eastern team almost any Saturday. The Fighting Irish are unbeaten in three starts, racking up Purdue, Indiana and Army. A week after losing to the Irish, 23-21, Army last Saturday measured Pitt, 29-13. If Notre Dame can conquer Pitt and Navy the following Saturday, the Nov. 9 Irish invasion of Michigan State may be pretty exciting.

Michigan State 20, Illinois 13—The Illini won't ambush the Spartans again. Last year, Illinois knocked MSU from top ranking with a sizzling 20-13 upset. This time, the Illini invade East Lansing, Mich., a week after inspired Purdue did the same thing to the Spartans by the same score. Coach Duffy Daugherty won't need to give MSU much of a pep talk.

Iowa 21, Northwestern 7—The only thing that can beat the Hawkeyes in this one is overconfidence. Iowa leads the nation in overall offense and Northwestern is winless in four games. It will take a lot of Wildcat passing and Bob Mc Keiver's best running to prevent a rout.

Purdue 21, Miami 6—The Boilermakers may relax after upsetting Michigan State, the nation's No. 1 team, but still should mow down the Redskins. It's the biggest game of the season for Miami, the Ohio college which sent Ara Parseghian to Northwestern.

Texas Christian 28, Marquette 6—The Warriors' warcry has become a weekly "ouch."

Snead, Demaret Far Ahead in Test

TOKYO (AP)—A course record 67 by Sam Snead and a 69 by Jimmy Demaret sent the United States off to an imposing five-stroke lead today in defense of the international Canada Cup golf crown.

Putting the Kasumigaseki Country Club's rough korai grass greens as if they were marble-topped, the two veteran Yanks outclassed handpicked professionals from 29 other nations in the opening round of the 72-hole medal play tournament.

Five strokes back in second place came the surprising Japanese tandem of Torakichi Nakamura and Koichi Ono.

Band Night Show Postponed

Oak Hill to Play WHS Tonight

There will be a football game at Gardner Park here tonight and the reserved seat season tickets for this date will be good.

This was decided definitely late Wednesday afternoon by Washington C. H. High School officials.

The WHS Lions will meet the boys from Oak Hill, substituting for the Bellville team, which was unable to make the trip because of illness.

Whether the Bellville game will be played on Nov. 21 is still uncertain. Athletic Director Fred Domenico said Thursday morning it is doubtful.

• • •

TONIGHT also was to have been Band Night, the night the seniors in the WHS marching band say farewell, but because of illness, the ceremonies have been postponed to Nov. 15, when they will be combined with the Homecoming show during the halftime of the postponed Wilmington game.

The spotlight will be turned on the seniors at this time as they make their way through the traditional hourglass.

Robert Neumann, WHS band director, said Thursday morning that the Band Night ceremonies will not be held at tonight's game because 29 members of the 100-piece band were not in school.

The Wednesday night practice was called off when 36 of the band members were absent from school.

Neumann said those members of the band not ill will be at tonight's game to play from the band's section in the stadium, but that they will not be in uniform and will not march on the field.

• • •

DOMENICO made it plain that since the season tickets will be good tonight for the Oak Hill game, tickets for the Bellville game, if it is played, will have to be purchased at the gate that night.

Little is known about the Oak Hill team. Since it was not on the Lion schedule, no attempt has been made to scout it, Domenico said. However, he added that "you can bet that it will be a good game. . .We don't know what plays they use, and they don't know what we use, but Dave Winefordner (Oak Hill coach) always has a good team."

Domenico went on to explain that Winefordner was assistant coach when he was the head coach at Adena High School, near Steubenville.

Oak Hill High School Domenico said, is not quite as big as the school here, but it always has had good sports teams. Oak Hill is in Jackson County.

• • •

THE LIONS went through a light workout Wednesday evening, first concentrating on signal drill for timing and co-ordination, and then on a defense for the offense Oak Hill is expected to use.

Four of the varsity squad were not out for practice, but Chuck Hire, a quarterback, and Jack Anders, the regular left end, are expected to be ready to go at least part time tonight. Bob Huff, guard and linebacker, and Doug Rider, the center, are not likely even to be in uniform, Domenico said.

While the Lions have one, and possibly two, postponed games ahead, this is not the only team that has been handicapped by illness—and postponments. Here are a few of them in this part of Ohio:

- Columbus Aquinas at Columbus North (Thursday to Saturday)
- Columbus Eastmoor at Columbus South (Thursday to Saturday)
- New Albany at Mifflin (indefinitely)
- Hamilton Twp. at Marion-Franklin (indefinitely)
- Liberty Union at Millersport (indefinitely)
- Greenfield vs Circleville (indefinitely)
- Columbus Academy at Frankfort (indefinitely)
- Cambridge at Chillicothe (Nov. 11)
- Bellevue at Upper Sandusky (until November, date uncertain)
- Portsmouth at Steubenville (indefinitely)
- Portsmouth East . Portsmouth Notre Dame (Nov. 5)
- Wheelersburg at South Point (indefinitely)
- Columbus Rosary at Franklin Heights (Nov. 15)

Fayette Group Requests Lake Improvements

Petitions signed by nearly 100 Fayette Countians are now ready to be presented to the Ohio State Division of Parks asking that more and better facilities be provided at Rocky Fork Lake, east of Hillsboro.

A hue and cry has been raised in recent months by Ohioans who spend their free time boating, fishing, water skiing and swimming at the state-built lake. State officials have been criticized for not providing better facilities. Sportsmen argue that the state has already spent over one and a quarter million dollars on the lake, but is reluctant to spend a few thousand more to make the lake facilities adequate for the tremendous crowds that have appeared at the lake during the summer.

• • •

MANY WHO have more or less permanent residences or cabins on the lake shore have joined the battle claiming that the state should revamp its policies of administration. More convenient docking facilities and better sanitary facilities are high on the list of requested improvements.

Leader of the petition movement in Washington C. H. has been Robert Wolfrom, 812 Broadway, who owns a house trailer at the lake and also a boat. He reports that from 25,000 to 50,000 people visited the lake each weekend this past summer and that, without exception, facilities proved inadequate.

Big Ten's Best Yard Gainers To Duel Saturday

CHICAGO (AP)—Two of the Big Ten's best yard gainers, quarterbacks Tom Haller of Illinois and Jim Ninowski of Michigan State, meet head-on Saturday in a statistical showdown.

Official conference statistics showed today that the two gridders dominate major yard-making departments. Illinois is MSU's homecoming foe in one of the top Big Ten football attractions.

Ninowski is ranked the No. 1 passer of the Big Ten with 22 completions in 33 attempts for 375 yards and 4 touchdowns. Haller is second with 17 out of 26 connections for 306 yards and 2 TD's.

Ninowski, despite a minus 29 yards rushing, is the total offense leader with a net total of 346 yards and a 7.9 average per play. Haller is second with an 18-yard rushing gain to boost his total to 324 for a 9.5 average.

Boyd Collects Nod Over German Boxer

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—Onetime top middleweight contender Bobby Boyd of Chicago scored a 10-round unanimous decision over Franz Szuzina of Germany Wednesday night in a bout that saw only the referee hit the deck.

Szuzina, who weighed 159, sent Referee Joe Palmer to the canvas after the seventh-round bell as the official was trying to break the fighters. Boyd was a pound over the middleweight limit at 161.

Detroit Sees Pro Cage Debut

City's New Piston '5' Falters Before Celtics

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Detroit — often called the best sports town in the world—officially welcomed its fourth professional sport Wednesday night with a near-11,000 turnout for the city's first taste of professional basketball in more than a decade.

Big Bill Russell and his Boston Celtics spoiled the welcome party at Olympia Stadium with a 105-94 triumph but it was a success anyway, with lots of basketball, an occasional brawl, a 16-piece orchestra and a smattering of politics.

The New York Knicks downed the St. Louis Hawks, defending western division champs, 112-95 in the opener of the National Basketball Assn. doubleheader that lasted five hours.

"We're in Detroit for a long time," said a smiling Fred Zollner, who brought the Pistons to Detroit after 16 years in Fort Wayne.

Michigan's Gov. G. Mennen Williams and City Councilwoman Mary Beck gave official welcomes and representatives of the city's other professional clubs—the Tigers, Lions and Red Wings—were on hand.

The Celtics, defending world champions, pulled away from the Pistons in the third period and waltzed home to their second straight triumph as Detroit's two big scorers, George Yardley and Walter Dukes, fouled out in the final period.

Yardley had 20 and Dukes 19 for the Pistons, who led 64-54 in the third period before the champions pulled ahead to stay.

Tall man Ray Felix of the Knicks and Charlie Share of the Hawks provided most of the excitement in the opener with a lively bit of fist swinging in the second period. Neither player was banished.

Felix scored 22 points and paced the Knicks, who successfully defensed high-scoring Bob Pettit, holding the one-time LSU star to nine points.

Fred Haney Surprised by Pilot Award

WILLIAMS, Ariz. (AP) — "It's a surprise to me," Fred Haney said Wednesday night when informed he had been named National League Manager of the Year in the annual Associated Press poll.

Haney, who led the Milwaukee Braves to their first pennant and world championship, was resting in his motel room in this northern Arizona community. He asked for details. A few paragraphs of an Associated Press story were read.

"That's terrific," he said.

"Naturally I'm honored and very happy about it. We are on our way to Los Angeles and just stopped here for the night. I hadn't heard a thing about it."

Haney won in a close vote over Fred Hutchinson, pilot of the second-place St. Louis Cards.

Haney received 90 votes and Hutchinson 84 of the 180 cast by members of the Baseball Writers Assn. of America. Mayor Smith of the Philadelphia Phillies was named on five ballots and Bill Rigney of the New York Giants on one.

The Braves manager said, "I'll be honest. Up until a couple of days ago, I was too busy thinking about other things to even consider I would get this honor."

He wouldn't take all the credit. He said, "The fellows on the ball club do the work. It just takes some effort to guide them."

Statistics Show Browns Lagging

Leading ground gainer on the team is rookie fullback Jim Brown, with 209 yards on 58 carries, an average of 3.6 yards. That's eighth in the league.

Pete Brewster is the Browns' top pass receiver with eight catches for 177 yards, but that doesn't put him in the top 10.

Detroit To Host Title Ring Bout

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit, which hasn't had a championship boxing match since Ezzard Charles decisioned Jersey Joe Walcott in 15 rounds on March 7, 1951, has officially been awarded a January light heavyweight title bout.

The Malay people consider it extremely bad taste to betray emotions, such as laughter. Conversely, Samoans love to laugh—even at very sad movies. The Samoans recognize sorrow only when it is real.

MANEUVERING A MARLIN—A white marlin does his stuff off Playa Grande, Venezuela, and although he was caught, the angler, who had already brought in several others, released him to live and be caught another day. This marlin weighed in at 90 pounds. The white marlin is the smallest of all marlins, rarely exceeding 100 pounds. The all-time rod and reel record for a white marlin is 161 pounds, caught off Miami Beach in 1938. White marlin usually swim in pairs. (International)

Chicago Bear Rookie Chalks Lots of Gains, Few Count

CHICAGO (AP)—A lot has happened to Chicago Bear rookie Vic Zucco this football season—and, again, it hasn't.

The 185-pound former Wayne University and Michigan State athlete probably has covered more ground in the National Football League—without it counting—than anybody else.

"It's downright frustrating," says Zucco. "But one of these days I'm going to make a long run or score a touchdown and it's going to stick."

The records show that Vic has intercepted two passes for a total runback of six yards. Actually, he has filched three others for 150 yards, but penalties washed them out.

In the Bears' 21-17 loss to Green Bay, he returned a stolen Babe Parilli pass 65 yards to the end zone. But it was ruled that his foot had hit the sideline at the Packers' 49.

When the Bears lost by an identical 21-17 to San Francisco, Zucco zipped 49 yards with a Y. A. Tittle interception to the 49er's 6. But a mate was ruled interfering on the play and San Francisco wound up with a first down on the Bear 46.

In the last quarter of the Bears' 34-26 victory over Los Angeles Sunday, Zucco pilfered a Norm Van Brocklin aerial and scampered 36 yards to the Rams' 34. But a teammate was guilty of holding and the Rams kept the ball and went for a touchdown.

He had opened the game by returning the kickoff 73 yards to the Rams' 13, but fumbled it away.

It all totals to four potential touchdowns set up by Zucco that the Bears never got. Otherwise, their record easily could be 3-1 instead of 1-3 as they head for their return game with the 49ers at San Francisco Sunday.

"Zucco is learning very fast—even if it is the hard way," smiles coach Paddy Driscoll. "He doesn't spar around looking for openings—he just goes.

"I hope he doesn't join the Foreign Legion because of all of this."

Chapel at Prison To Cost $133,818

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—It will cost about $133,818 to build a chapel at the Marion Correctional Institution.

That's the total of apparent low bids on the general, plumbing, heating and cooling and electrical contracts which were opened Wednesday. The state estimated the work would cost $183,975.

Los Angeles Welcomes Its Dodger Crew

LOS ANGELES (AP) — This city gave big league baseball a tumultuous welcome Wednesday night.

Hundreds of spectators strained against ropes as a chartered plane carrying the vanguard of the Los Angeles Dodgers set down at International Airport.

He was Sen. William Knowland. The California Republican was pushed to the front, where he extended the state's welcome to O'Malley and his Dodgers.

Deputies Continue Guard in Dayton

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Sheriff's deputies today continued to guard Mrs. Loretta Sweet, a 27-year-old Dayton mother, against a threatened attack by a mysterious telephone caller.

Mrs. Sweet and her five children stayed with a friend Tuesday night after the caller told her a bomb was in her home. No bomb was found but when she returned home Wednesday morning, the gas jets in her stove were open and the pilot light was off.

A second telephone call came Wednesday night. The speaker asked, "is this Loretta," and when Mrs. Sweet replied it was, the caller said:

"That's all I need to know."

Chicago Bear Rookie Chalks Lots of Gains, Few Count

CHICAGO (AP)—A lot has happened to Chicago Bear rookie Vic Zucco this football season—and, again, it hasn't.

The 185-pound former Wayne University and Michigan State athlete probably has covered more ground in the National Football League—without it counting—than anybody else.

"It's downright frustrating," says Zucco. "But one of these days I'm going to make a long run or score a touchdown and it's going to stick."

The records show that Vic has intercepted two passes for a total runback of six yards. Actually, he has filched three others for 150 yards, but penalties washed them out.

In the Bears' 21-17 loss to Green Bay, he returned a stolen Babe Parilli pass 65 yards to the end zone. But it was ruled that his foot had hit the sideline at the Packers' 49.

When the Bears lost by an identical 21-17 to San Francisco, Zucco zipped 49 yards with a Y. A. Tittle interception to the 49er's 6. But a mate was ruled interfering on the play and San Francisco wound up with a first down on the Bear 46.

In the last quarter of the Bears' 34-26 victory over Los Angeles Sunday, Zucco pilfered a Norm Van Brocklin aerial and -campered 36 yards to the Rams' 34. But a teammate was guilty of holding and the Rams kept the ball and went for a touchdown.

He had opened the game by returning the kickoff 73 yards to the Rams' 13, but fumbled it away.

It all totals to four potential touchdowns set up by Zucco that the Bears never got. Otherwise, their record easily could be 3-1 instead of 1-3 as they head for their return game with the 49ers at San Francisco Sunday.

"Zucco is learning very fast—even if it is the hard way," smiles coach Paddy Driscoll. "He doesn't spar around looking for openings—he just goes.

"I hope he doesn't join the Foreign Legion because of all of this."

Chapel at Prison To Cost $133,818

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—It will cost about $133,818 to build a chapel at the Marion Correctional Institution.

That's the total of apparent low bids on the general, plumbing, heating and cooling and electrical contracts which were opened Wednesday. The state estimated the work would cost $183,975.

Trains Involved In 3 of 5 Auto Accidents Here

Driver Hurt Near Bloomingburg; Police Cruiser in Wreck

Five motor vehicle mishaps in the city and county — three of them involving freight trains — resulted in two injuries and four wrecked autos within 13 hours Wednesday and Thursday.

Most seriously injured was John Barnes Jr., of 621 S. North St., who is in "good" condition at Memorial Hospital, where he is being treated for neck and hip injuries.

Also injured was Police Patrolman Robert Williams, 1258 Rawlings St., the driver of a city police cruiser which was hit by a Dayton, Toledo & Ironton Railroad train on W. Market St. about 7:30 p. m. Wednesday. He received emergency treatment at the hospital for leg cuts and shin bruises.

• • •

BARNES, who will appear in court later on a reckless driving charge, was northbound on Route 38 just south of Bloomingburg at 2:50 p. m. Wednesday when his car struck the rear of a parked Sunday School bus owned by the Gregg St. Church of Christ in Christian Union.

The bus was pushed forward into another parked auto owned by Gene Vernon of Bloomingburg. Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Mickle said Barnes was traveling at a high rate of speed. Barnes' car and the bus were wrecked. The mishap did an estimated $250 worth of damage to the front end of Vernon's car.

Patrolman Williams was headed east on Market St. across the B&O tracks near the Braddock Motor Freight Co., when the three-car train, backing across the tracks, hit his cruiser.

The auto was pushed about 50 feet down the tracks, and Williams said he had to turn on his siren to signal the engineer there had been a wreck.

• • •

WILLIAMS and two witnesses told investigating officers the train had no signal lights and there was no flagman at the intersection. Police Chief D. Vaiden Long said the matter is still under investigation, and that he will discuss the case with City Solicitor William M. Junk before deciding whether to press charges.

The driver of a flat-bed tractor-trailer rig jumped out of the cab on his vehicle in an effort to avoid injury in a train-truck wreck about 12:50 a. m. Thursday at the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks on Dayton Ave.

Loaders at the Armco Drainage and Metal Co., Route 35 south, had worked overtime the same evening loading the truck with about 32,000 pounds of steel building material on a rush order from Duluth, Werner said. How much of it could be saved after the wreck was uncertain.

• • •

A NORTH CAROLINA truck driver smashed into a B&O railroad flasher signal on Route 35 about four miles north of here in an effor to avoid hitting a passing freight about 11:25 p. m. Wednesday.

The driver, Bryant Haggard, 23, of Mooresville, N. C., who was carrying produce frm Dayton back to North Carolina, said he didn't notice the train or the flasher "until it was too late." He said he slammed on his brakes, took the ditch to avoid hitting three waiting autos, and plowed into the signal.

Damage was slight in an accident on W. Court St. 150 feet west of Main St. just before noon Wednesday. .. parking auto operated by Dr. Jack H. Persinger, 50, of 430 Rawlings St., was hit by a passing car driven by Kenneth E. Massie, 27, of Staunton.

Men Found Providing Little Help in House

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Social researchers at the University of Michigan found that 6 out of 10 married men neither helped with the dishes nor got their own breakfast even occasionally.

Only 15 per cent were found to lend a hand with the house cleaning. Mother is also primarily responsible for such tasks as awakening the children, buying the groceries, cooking and writing the family correspondence.

FOP Lodge Eyes 'Associate' Program

Purposes and possibilities of an "associate" lodge were explained to the Fraternal Order of Police here Wednesday night by Harry G. Burrows of Dayton, district supervisor of the Fraternal Order of Police Associates of Ohio, in a meeting at the Mar-Hi Restaurant, 118 N. Fayette St.

About 75 associate members, including 15 admitted during the last two weeks, will be initiated into the Washington C. H. Lodge No. 99 of the F.O.P. Nov. 14 in a meeting at the lodge's new hall at 142 E. Court St.

The associate members, who will have the same privileges as regular members except the right to vote in lodge activities, will presumably elect a slate of officers of their own, Lodge President Herschel Taylor said.

Course for Salespeople To Open Here on Nov. 11

A course to train salespeople for employment during the Christmas shopping season will begin Nov. 11, and Fayette County area adults who are interested in taking the training in preparation for placement in retail stores should register as soon as possible at the local office of the Ohio State Employment Service, 211 E. Market St., it was announced Thursday.

Ward C. Miller, manager of the Ohio State Employment Service here, said the evening training course in distributive education has been set up by Edwin Nestor, head of the adult education program at School, in corporation with the Employment office.

Two training courses will be offered prior to the Christmas shopping season.

The adult class members will meet two evenings for two sessions of three hours each, during which time they will be taught the fundamentals of selling.

Miller said the Employment office is especially interested in having adults register for the training program, since a large number of them will be needed as salespersons during the holiday season.

1957 Champion Steer At Willow-Lee Farm

The 1957 world champion steer, which brought a record price of $20.50 a pound at the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago last winter, will be at the Willow-Lee Farm of Dr. C. W. House on the Circleville Rd. near New Holland all day Friday.

Dr. House and Vernon Benroth, Willow-Lee farm operator and partner in the registered Scotch Shorthorn herd, said R. S. Troubadour will be at the farm all day "where cattlemen in Fayette County can look him over."

R. S. Troubadore, a Scotch Shorthorn, won the championship over all breeds ans was bought at the auction by the Greenbriar Hotel, White Sulpher Springs, W. Va., which has had him on an "educational tour" during the summer.

He was bred on the farm of Cyrus Eaton, Cleveland financier, and entered in the International by Pennsylvania State College.

The champ travels in his own private railroad car with his exhibitor, Henry Gruber of Penn State. He was trucked to Willow-Lee from Columbus.

The last Scotch Shorthorn to take the championship at the International was from Willow-Lee Farm. He was entered by Dr. House and Benroth in 1952.

Antarctic Explorers Delayed in Return

McMURDO SOUND, Antarctica (AP)—With a bitter storm whipping snow around their huts, veterans of last winter here got the sad news today that they probably won't be home for Christmas.

Navy Capt. W. M. Dickey, the area commander, told the 317 "old explorers" that bad flying weather has delayed arrival of their replacements. Most personnel changes will now have to await opening of the ice as the Antarctic summer progresses and ships can reach Little America.

"Vandals of the worst sort" smashed a 3 by 6 foot glass panel in a new front door at the Carengie Public Library, 127 S. North St., some time Wednesday night, Police Chief D. Vaiden Long said.

"It was just useless, malicious destruction of property, as far as I can see," the chief said, adding that it was "quite probably the work of youngsters."

A 2-by-6 inch piece of timber, about four feet long, was found in the vestibule. The door, recently installed as a part of library remodelling, was not yet in service.

WHS Sophomores Fitted for Rings

A jewelry salesman fitted sophomores at Washington High School for class rings Wednesday—but the heavy absence toll cause by the flu brought about a change in the original plan to interview all the underclassmen on the same day.

Sophomores wishing to buy rings have been advised they may report at Schorr's Jewlry Store, 126 N. Fayette St., any time during the next two weeks, Principal Kaye Blosser said.

Hospital Insurance Premium Basis for 'Friendly Suit'

In a friendly suit filed in Common Pleas Court to determine responsibility the board of trustees of Fayette Memorial Hospital asks the court to require the Board of County Commissioners to pay the premium on a hospital professional liability insurance policy it has with the Buckeye Union Casualty Co. of Columbus.

In a petition for a declaratory judgement and writ of mandamus, the trustees say the commissioners have told them they (the commissioners) are not authorized to pay the premium although they have been asked to pay it repeatedly by the board.

The suit against the three commissioners also makes Auditor Harry Allen and Treasurer Charles A. Fabb parties since the auditor issues the warrants for the county and treasurer pays them.

• • •

THE POLICY, which provides a maximum liability of $100,000 for each person and $300,000 for each accident, covers a three-year period. The premium of $1,160.21 is payable in three annual installments each due on May 8 in 1956, 1957 and 1958.

The trustees say in their petition that the first premium installment of $460.88 has been paid, but that the commissioners have refused to pay the installment of $374.71, due May 8, 1957, contending they are not authorized to pay for the insurance. The third installment, due May 8, 1958, is for $338.62.

Prosecutor Rollo Marchant, who filed the petition, said the suit is merely to determine whether the hospital or the county should pay the premium.

Trains Involved In 3 of 5 Auto Accidents Here

Driver Hurt Near Bloomingburg; Police Cruiser in Wreck

Five motor vehicle mishaps in the city and county — three of them involving freight trains — resulted in two injuries and four wrecked autos within 13 hours Wednesday and Thursday.

Most seriously injured was John Barnes Jr., of 621 S. North St., who is in "good" condition at Memorial Hospital, where he is being treated for neck and hip injuries.

Also injured was Police Patrolman Robert Williams, 1258 Rawlings St., the driver of a city police cruiser which was hit by a Dayton, Toledo & Ironton Railroad train on W. Market St. about 7:30 p. m. Wednesday. He received emergency treatment at the hospital for leg cuts and shin bruises.

• • •

BARNES, who will appear in court later on a reckless driving charge, was northbound on Route 38 just south of Bloomingburg at 2:50 p. m. Wednesday when his car struck the rear of a parked Sunday School bus owned by the Gregg St. Church of Christ in Christian Union.

The bus was pushed forward into another parked auto owned by Gene Vernon of Bloomingburg. Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Mickle said Barnes was traveling at a high rate of speed. Barnes' car and the bus were wrecked. The mishap did an estimated $250 worth of damage to the front end of Vernon's car.

Patrolman Williams was headed east on Market St. across the B&O tracks near the Braddock Motor Freight Co., when the three-car train, backing across the tracks, hit his cruiser.

The auto was pushed about 50 feet down the tracks, and Williams said he had to turn on his siren to signal the engineer there had been a wreck.

• • •

WILLIAMS and two witnesses told investigating officers the train had no signal lights and there was no flagman at the intersection. Police Chief D. Vaiden Long said the matter is still under investigation, and that he will discuss the case with City Solicitor William M. Junk before deciding whether to press charges.

The driver of a flat-bed tractor-trailer rig jumped out of the cab on his vehicle in an effort to avoid injury in a train-truck wreck about 12:50 a. m. Thursday at the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks on Dayton Ave.

A B&O freight train moving slowly south hit the rear end of the westbound truck, which was driven by Thomas W. Werner, 35, of Duluth, Minn. Werner jumped out of the left-hand side of the cab just as the truck jacknifed into the side of the still-moving train wrecking the right side of the vehicle.

Loaders at the Armco Drainage and Metal Co., Route 35 south, had worked overtime the same evening loading the truck with about 32,000 pounds of steel building material on a rush order from Duluth, Werner said. How much of it could be saved after the wreck was uncertain.

Investigation is continuing.

A NORTH CAROLINA truck driver smashed into a B&O railroad flasher signal on Route 35 about four miles north of here in an effor to avoid hitting a passing freight about 11:25 p. m. Wednesday.

The driver, Bryant Haggard, 23, of Mooresville, N. C., who was carrying produce frm Dayton back to North Carolina, said he didn't notice the train or the flasher "until it was too late." He said he slammed on his brakes, took the ditch to avoid hitting three waiting autos, and plowed into the signal.

The front bumper and windshield of the truck were damaged, Deputy Mickle said.

Damage was slight in an accident on W. Court St. 150 feet west of Main St. just before noon Wednesday. A parking auto operated by Dr. Jack H. Persinger, 50, of 430 Rawlings St., was hit by a passing car driven by Kenneth E. Massie, 27, of Staunton.

FOP Lodge Eyes 'Associate' Program

Purposes and possibilities of an "associate" lodge were explained to the Fraternal Order of Police here Wednesday night by Harry G. Burrows of Dayton, district supervisor of the Fraternal Order of Police Associates of Ohio, in a meeting at the Mar-Hi Restaurant, 118 N. Fayette St.

About 75 associate members, including 15 admitted during the last two weeks, will be initiated into the Washington C. H. Lodge No. 99 of the F.O.P. Nov. 14 in a meeting at the lodge's new hall at 142 E. Court St.

The associate members, who will have the same privileges as regular members except the right to vote in lodge activities, will presumably elect a slate of officers of their own, Lodge President Herschel Taylor said.

Antarctic Explorers Delayed in Return

McMURDO SOUND, Antarctica (AP)—With a bitter storm whipping snow around their huts, veterans of last winter here got the sad news today that they probably won't be home for Christmas.

Navy Capt. W. M. Dickey, the area commander, told the 317 "old explorers" that bad flying weather has delayed arrival of their replacements. Most personnel changes will now have to await opening of the ice as the Antarctic summer progresses and ships can reach Little America.
